REVOLT FLARES IN INDO-CHINA; 9 SLAIN, 32 SHOT

French Troops Fire on Mob of Women.

Following India?

While conditions in India yesterday seemed to have quieted down under the rigorous action of British troops, a new revolt appeared to be brewing in the far east. Thousands of natives in Indo-China, said to have been goaded by Bolshevik agitators, staged riots in three towns north of Saigon. French police fired on the mobs, killing nine and wounding thirty-two.

In India action was transferred to the northwest frontier province, where Afghan tribesmen crossed the border, kidnaped two British officers and the wife of one of them, and carried them into the hills.

In Bombay and other cities police began raids on Gandhi headquarters, seizing papers and arresting leaders.

PARIS, June 6.—The rising tide of revolution in Indo-China, which seems to be following in the footsteps of India, today took a toll of nine lives and left thirty-two wounded in three riots in the province of Cholon, north of Saigon. In all three cases French troops fired into the mobs of citizens of the French colony. It lies to the east of British India, but separated from it by the Gulf of Bengal and the kingdom of Siam.

The most serious incident occurred at Duchoa. According to a copyrighted dispatch to Le Matin, six natives were killed and twenty wounded during an attack upon the town hall there.

Woman Dances in Front of Guns.

A mob of several thousand natives, the dispatch said, armed with knives and revolvers, stormed the town hall screaming that they were going to cut off the head of the French commissioner. The mob was headed by women and children, presumably to keep the soldiers from firing.

A native woman, carrying a red flag, was the leader of the atack. She whipped her followers into a fanatical frenzy by doing a native war dance within a few inches of the muzzles of the French soldiers' rifles.

When the bloodlust of the mob was sufficiently aroused the woman gave the order to charge. Brandishing a knife in one hand, she seized a soldier's rifle with the other. The soldier fired point blank, killing the woman. A half dozen volleys were fired by the soldiers before the furious mob was checked.

1,000 Natives Storm Village.

According to other dispatches, a mob of 1,000 natives, carrying red flags and communist emblems, twice stormed the village of Bahom, in the province of Cholon, and fired on the houses. They were repulsed by police, who killed one and wounded five.

In the nearby village of Hocmon, a French official while making a speech was the target of a bullet. Then the mob charged the nine guards about the house and tried to disarm them. A desperate hand to hand struggle ensued, in which two were killed and seven wounded. Later the arrival of reinforcements enabled the police to make forty arrests.

Uproar in French Chamber.

Meanwhile the Indo-China situation was the subject of a fiery debate in the chamber of deputies this afternoon, during which documentary evidence was introduced to show that the troubles, which started with the recent bloody mutiny at Yen Bay, were fomented by communists. The deputies were warned that Red propaganda must be stamped out or the lives of thousands of French soldiers would have to be sacrificed. In the midst of the debate news arrived of the latest disorders.

When the speaker in the chamber read the newspaper clippings on the new riots an uproar ensued. Deputy Pierre Taittinger, president of the colonial commission, said the hand of Moscow was seen in the riots and delivered a passionate denunciation of Red propaganda. He called on civilized nations to band together to crusade against communism.

Free-for-All Averted.

His speech was applauded by the right, while a din of angry hoots and whistles arose from the communist benches. It looked for a minute like a free-for-all might break out, but the angry tumult changed to mirth

PANTAGES FREED ON BAIL; TO ENTER A SANITARIUM

Los Angeles, Cal., June 6.—[Special.]—Alexander Pantages, theater chain millionaire, today succeeded in a nine month effort to secure release from county jail on bail pending outcome of his court fight for a new trial on charges of rape.

Pantages was admitted to $100,000 bail when justices of the state Supreme court broke a deadlock. Justice Pro Tempore John T. Nourse, who recently took his seat, cast the vote which decided the court, 4 to 3, to allow Pantages' plea for temporary liberation.

The 56 year old magnate, looking wan and shrunken after his long jail stay following conviction on Eunice Pringle's charges, was met in a jail anteroom by his wife, his daughter, Carmen, and son, Floyd, as well as Attorney Earl Daniels, who took the matter to the state Supreme court after three previous higher court pleas were rejected.

Pantages will enter a private sanitarium tomorrow. The Supreme court decision indicated that "humane motives" weighed heavily with the majority justices.

Pantages suffered repeated heart attacks in jail and the county jail physician, Dr. Benjamin Blank, made a report terming his physical condition dangerous.

Three Firemen Hurt as Blaze Thrills Loop

Three firemen and a policeman were injured in a spectacular fire that broke out early this morning in the upper floors of the old seven story American Express company building, a loop landmark, at 23 West Monroe street. The flames, shooting high into the sky and threatening department stores and other structures in the block, attracted a throng of spectators who massed in State and Dearborn streets. Fire Marshal Corrigan estimated the total damage at $50,000.

Within a few minutes of the first alarm a 4-11 alarm was sounded and firemen swarmed up fire escapes of the Guardian National bank building on the west and the Fair store on the south to pour streams of water into the blazing building, which has been untenanted for some time.

Fireman Cut by Glass.

An explosion blew out the windows on the Monroe street side and the flying glass cut Fireman Joseph Daniels of truck 2, who was handling a hose line in the street below.

Lieut. Arthur Quail and Fireman Robert Hughes, both of Truck 1, were also cut about the face by fragments of glass. Policeman Daniel Danaher, patrolling the alley at the rear of the building, was struck and bruised by falling debris. All four were treated by a physician and returned to their duties.

Weakened Walls Fall.

Soon afterward the upper floors of the burning building, weakened by the explosion and by a fire last Christmas, collapsed and parts of the roof and sections of the east and south walls fell in. Twenty-five firemen working on the first floor narrowly escaped injury when the mass of bricks, timbers, and flooring came plunging down through the center of the building. Marshal Corrigan said that all escaped unhurt.

Three water towers were brought into play and shot their streams into the flames from Monroe and Dearborn streets. Crowds watched from the pavements and from the windows of the Palmer house across State street as other firemen poured water into the blaze and drenched the sides of threatened buildings.

Fritzi Scheff Slightly Hurt in Mishap on Loop Stage

Fritzi Scheff, musical comedy star appearing at the Palace theater, was slightly injured last night while leaving the stage at the conclusion of her appearance. Miss Scheff's foot slipped and she struck her head against a piece of scenery, causing a severe shock but no serious injury, according to the theater management.

BRITISH RULERS VOID COURT PRESENTATION OF LONDON MATRON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 6.—London society is teeming with excitement and speculation over a notice published in the official London Gazette which reads as follows:

"Lord Chamberlain's Office, St. James's Palace, June 6, 1930.—Notice is hereby given that the presentation of Mrs. Christopher Courtney at their majesties' court on May 14 last has been canceled."

This is the first time in 27 years that a presentation already taken place has been canceled. Other than the bare announcement there was no information given.

Mrs. Courtney, who before her marriage to Group Captain Christopher Lloyd Courtney was Miss Constance Rayson Greensill, was presented by Lady Salmond, wife of Air Chief Marshal Sir John Salmond.

Capt. Courtney is a high official in the air force, holding the position of deputy director of operations and intelligence. Lady Salmond said she had heard it intimated that the cancellation was to take place, but insisted she did not know the reason. Both Capt. and Mrs. Courtney are out of town until Tuesday and court officials refuse to discuss the matter.

FIREMAN STAMPS OUT BOMB FUSE AND HALTS BLAZE

Fireman John Kilroy of engine 42 was on duty in his company's station at 228 West Illinois street early this morning when a citizen ran in and told him that sparks were flying in front of the door of the Alpine restaurant next door at 230 West Illinois street. Kilroy dashed outside and found a package wrapped in a newspaper lying against the restaurant door with a burning fuse protruding from it. He stamped out the fuse and unwrapped the package. Inside were four sticks of dynamite.

The police said they learned the restaurant is owned by John Diancanlian. Diancanlian could not be found, but David Tarente, an employé, told the police that the windows of the place had been broken two weeks ago and a threat to bomb it had been made.

Wife Advises Hanging as Liquor Cure; Mate Tries It

While intoxicated last evening, Joseph Stokas, 36 years old, 3936 South Tatman avenue, and his wife, Jenny, quarreled about his use of liquor.

"If I was as crazy about the stuff as you are I'd hang myself," said Mrs. Stokas.

A short time later Mrs. Stokas found her husband dangling by the neck on a rope attached to the porch. She procured a knife and cut the rope. Stokas was revived by the police and placed under arrest.

SENATE'S PLEA FOR 'ALL FACTS' TURNED DOWN

President Acts for 'Public Interest.'

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—President Hoover today formally refused to transmit to the senate foreign relations committee certain correspondence, reports, memoranda, and other documents bearing on the negotiation of the London naval limitation treaty. The reason given for the refusal was that the disclosures would be incompatible with the public interest.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson forwarded to the committee some of the information requested at the instance of Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], leader of the opposition to the treaty. In a covering letter Mr. Stimson stated the reasons for withholding other information asked for and at the same time made a public statement defending the course of the administration in this matter.

Johnson Withholds Comment.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the committee, took the position that the President ought to confide to the senate all the information in his possession bearing on the treaty negotiations, but that constitutionally it is his right to withhold information if he sees fit to do so. Senator Johnson declined to comment pending study of the information furnished.

Mr. Stimson emphatically denied that the administration is actuated by any ulterior motives in refusing the senate committee the documents it requested.

"I am well aware," he said, "that some of the opponents of the treaty are likely to say that these confidential papers are being kept confidential in order to cover up some secret understanding, or some mistake, or indiscretion of the American delegates. That is nonsense. There were no such agreements or understandings. There were no commitments made by the American delegation except those contained in the treaty itself, which is public and before the senate. That paper represents the full measure of American rights and obligations and the work of the delegation must be judged by that."

Answers "as Far as Possible."

In his letter to Senator Borah, Mr. Stimson said he was transmitting all the public records of the negotiations in connection with the Geneva conference of 1927 and a confidential memorandum "which will answer as far as possible" Senator Johnson's questions.

"Respecting the other papers called for," he said, "I am directed by the President to say that their production would not, in his opinion, be compatible with the public interest."

It is apparent from this letter that the documents withheld include the correspondence between London and Washington in which is recorded President Hoover's abandonment of the position theretofore maintained by America on the cruiser question and acceptance of the British position favoring the six inch gun ship.

Stimson Amplifies Views.

Amplifying the views he expressed in the letter to Borah, Secretary Stimson in his public statement said:

"In the interest of the ratification of the treaty by our senate I should be only too glad to have every step in the negotiations known and every confidential paper published, for it

Widow's Gun Forces Doctor to Take 'Ride'

Mrs. Carmello Lupreto, 48 years old, a widow, strode into the office of Dr. Frank L. Nathanson at 3846 West Madison street at 3 p. m. yesterday, brushed aside his secretary, who said the doctor was in conference, and confronted him, arms akimbo, in his private consultation room.

"You operated on my daughter; she's dying; you come quick," the woman said tensely. The physician considered the situation coolly for a moment.

"Now, my dear woman, calm yourself and sit down," he began. Mrs. Lupetro paid no heed. She opened the purse dangling from her left wrist and drew out a .45 caliber automatic.

Pistol Persuades Him.

"You come now?" she demanded, snapping the safety catch and leveling the weapon. The physician did not flinch.

In the course of his professional career Dr. Nathanson had more than once faced firearms in that same office. In July, 1921, he had shot to death on the threshold two young men who, he afterward claimed, had attempted to rob him. In November, 1925, he had fired six shots to rout two gunmen who called to avenge some grievance the doctor would not discuss.

So he did not waver until:

"You come or I kill you," the woman said, with menacing deliberation. Dr. Nathanson said afterward that he perceived a deadly purpose in her face. He arose, donned his derby, and walked out, the woman close beside him.

Forced Into Automobile.

The secretary, Rose Niedle, thought she saw the gleam of a gun in the woman's hand, but dismissed the idea until afterward. At the curb a sedan was waiting with one August Pusateri, 21 years old, 1209 Fry street, at the wheel.

He drove to Mrs. Lupreto's grocery at 4403 West Harrison street, the widow beside the doctor in the rear seat, with the revolver jabbing his ribs on the bumps.

In the grocery the supposed dying daughter, Anna, 16 years old, was behind the counter waiting on trade. Her mother beckoned Anna into a rear room, where the doctor examined her.

"She has no fever; she's all right," Dr. Nathanson expostulated. Mrs. Lupreto flourished her gun, directed the physician back into the car, and told Anna to come along.

Taken to Woman's Home.

Pusateri drove them to the widow's home, 626 North Kedzie avenue. It was from this house that Dr. Nathanson telephoned to his secretary about 6 p. m.

"Bring some blank checks," he said, giving the address and striving to convey a suggestion of his peril. "I must pay out $10,000 right away."

A recollection of the gleaming pistol flashed into Miss Niedle's mind. She brought the checks and also Sergt. Edward Sloey with his detective bureau squad.

Police Save His Cash.

Dr Nathanson, according to the squadmen, had signed a check for $200 and a note promising an additional $800 in installments. Mrs. Lupreto had summoned a notary to witness the deeds and, when Sergt. Sloey entered, asked if he were the notary.

Dr. Nathanson was locked up at Fillmore station on a complaint of Mrs. Lupreto, charging him with abortion. Mrs. Lupreto and Pusateri were jailed at the same station, charged with kidnaping and extortion, the complaint being signed by Dr. Nathanson.

Anna was sent to the juvenile home, while her alleged sweetheart, George Robertson, 603 North Kedzie avenue, was also jailed on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

CAR PLAN BEST POSSIBLE, SAYS WALTER FISHER

Defeat Means Chaos, He Tells Court.

A transportation settlement or chaos—those are the alternative views presented to Federal Judge Wilkerson by his special counsel, Walter L. Fisher. Attorney Fisher, appointed by the court to assist in a settlement of Chicago's transit problem, made his report on the work to Judge Wilkerson yesterday. Mr. Fisher was the dominating figure in the drafting of the indeterminate transit franchise which goes to a referendum on July 1.

"The ordinance is not perfect," says Mr. Fisher in his 11,000 word report. "No such ordinance ever is or can be."

But he gives as his opinion that "this ordinance is essentially sound and just and is the best for both the companies and the public that could be obtained under existing conditions."

Replies to the Critics.

Mr. Fisher says there "will now arise the critics who had no constructive suggestions to offer before the ordinance was passed by the city council and whose present purpose is either self-seeking or merely destructive."

Commenting on what the critics have offered, the report says:

"No workable alternative for the new ordinance has been proposed. Mr. Lisman seems to have faded out of the picture and is no longer represented by his former attorney [John Maynard Harlan], who now represents a paper organization whose backers he refuses to disclose.

"Toward the very end of the consideration of the new ordinance by the council committee on local transportation he [Mr. Harlan] presented a draft of an ordinance which was simply a license to fish in troubled waters.

"A Permit to Speculate."

"It was a permit to speculate on the chances of getting control of some one or more existing companies without the slightest discoverable prospects of success even in doing this and with a certainty of making confusion worse confounded through the practically insuperable obstacles to working out in this way any constructive program for a unified comprehensive system.

"The proposal is not entitled to further consideration.

"The only thing left is the suggestion that all negotiations for an ordinance be abandoned or that the new ordinance be defeated at the referendum, which for all practical purposes will have the same result. The slightest reflection will show that this is no alternative at all. The result would simply be chaos.

Service but No Extensions.

"The rapid transit company would, of course, continue to operate as it does at present, inasmuch as its rights do not expire for a number of years, but there would be no extensions or improvements and no coördination with the surface lines. Any attempt to establish transfers by order of the Illinois commerce commission would be vigorously resisted and protracted litigation would follow.

"Public necessity would compel the continued operation of the surface lines either under temporary permits as at present or without any permit at all. All the surface properties would be sold under foreclosure decrees, probably to reorganization committees.

"It is difficult to see how any extensions or improvements could be made, as the capital investment would not be protected. Neither the companies nor the public could make any plans for future developments. Indeed, such a policy is simply unthinkable from the viewpoint of the public or private interests involved."

Report Analyzes Ordinance.

Mr. Fisher's report analyzes in detail important provisions of the ordinance, but it says: "No analysis can be expected to anticipate and answer the attacks of objectors who willfully misunderstand and misstate the provisions of the ordinance.

"The basic purpose of the ordinance," says Mr. Fisher, "is to secure for the city and its metropolitan area the best local transportation service that is practically possible at the lowest cost to the public."

He follows with a summary of the physical improvements planned: The $200,000,000 to be spent by the company in 10 years, $65,000,000 of it in the first three years, the elevated extensions, the 300 additional miles of surface line and motor bus routes, 1,000 new elevated cars and as many more surface line cars, and the city's investment in subways through the central business district.

Several opponents of the ordinance have charged that the proposed grant is "a perpetual franchise." Mr. Fisher discusses at length the terminable permit. He says:

"A grant which can be terminated by amortization or by purchase by the city or its permittee is not a perpetual franchise. Any claim that a terminable permit is a perpetual franchise applies equally to a term grant under which the company has the right to continue operation until its unamortized investment is paid or protected, and this right is absolutely essential to the financial credit and stability of any local transportation company."

The report points out that the proposed grant is a permit which can be terminated by purchase either by the city or its permittee. The price to be paid by the city is the investment in the property, agreed to in advance.

The permittee can purchase at the same price at any time in case of a default by the company, according to Mr. Fisher. But he points out that if the company is not in default, the permittee must pay a 10 per cent premium in the first ten years, decreasing one-tenth until the twentieth year, when the permittee can purchase without premium.

Difference Between Grants.

Discussing the difference between the fixed term grant and a terminable permit, Mr. Fisher says:

"There was a time when the five cent street railway fare produced so large a profit to the street railway companies that they were willing to accept 20 year grants and rely upon the presumption that they would secure a renewal of the grant at the end of 20 years without any definite protection for the unamortized capital investment at the end of the grant.

"This is no longer true. Street railway enterprises can no longer be financed upon such assumptions. It is now quite generally recognized that the fixed term is unsound in principle. It has been demonstrated by experience to be as disadvantageous to the public as it is to the operating company."

Fares and the Fixed Term.

Mr. Fisher says that to provide for the complete amortization during the period of a fixed term franchise "would require rates of fare to be higher than the public will or should pay."

"It would mean," he goes on, "that fares must be high enough not only to pay the company a sufficient annual return on its investment to make the enterprise financially attractive, but also high enough to pay the principal of the investment by the end of the grant.

"If there is any part of the investment remaining unpaid at the end of the grant, the investor demands to know what protection is to be given when the grant expires. Without adequate protection he refuses to invest. If there is any uncertainty about it he refuses to invest.

"The company cannot sell its bonds of other securities, especially as the end of the grant approaches. As a result the company cannot keep up its properties and service or finance the extensions and improvements that are essential to every growing community, especially in a city like Chicago."

Points to Chicago Experience.

Chicago's experience, says Attorney Fisher, "has given a demonstration of the unsoundness of the fixed term theory" in the surface line franchises. He asserts that a terminable permit allows the company to raise money by selling securities at lower interest or dividend rates, and adds that the existing companies "positively refused to deal with the city on any other basis."

He declares it is untrue that the large amounts proposed for improvements will lengthen the period of amortization and increase the purchase price so that the properties can never be acquired.

"Those who raise this point," reads the report, "do not suggest that the extensions and improvements shall not be made. They know too well how much the city needs them. What they want is to eat their cake without paying for it.

If the City Could Buy.

"If the city could buy the properties today it would have to raise the additional money for extensions or go without them. The purchase of the properties by the city would be indefensible if the city could not raise the additional money for at least the extensions and improvements provided by the new ordinance.

"At present the city cannot raise the money either for the purchase or the extensions. In the future it may be able to do so—by an increase of its bonding power through making the full fair value of property the basis for taxation, by removing the limitation of municipal indebtedness from securities issued for and secured solely by revenue producing utilities, or by hastening the process of amortization.

"There is no way, however, in which the city can acquire the properties wihout paying for them. And always it will be true that if the company were making grossly excessive profits other companies could be found which would be glad to purchase as the city's permittee on terms that will offer a sufficient inducement for the investment."

On the Transit Commission.

Several critics have charged that the act authorizing a local transit commission as provided in the ordinance, is unconstitutional. Mr. Fisher points out the city had home rule before the state public utilities act was passed in 1913. He says:

"There are legal questions involved [in the creation of the local commission] that have not been directly passed on by our Supreme court, but such precedents as exist are distinctly favorable to the validity of the enabling legislation and it is confidently believed that it will be sustained."

But if it is not, Mr. Fisher says that a remedial statute can be obtained.

Defends Compensation Clause.

Mr. Fisher also answers criticisms directed at the compensation to be paid the city by the company for use of the streets. Under the surface lines franchise the city now obtains 55 per cent of the net receipts. Under the new franchise it would receive 3 per cent of the gross income. On the basis of 1929 the 3 per cent of the gross, Mr. Fisher says, "would be slightly less" than 55 per cent of the net; but he adds that the 3 per cent of the gross will increase as the population grows or there is an increase in fares.

Some critics have urged that the company pay a rental on the subway, which the ordinance provides shall be built by the city. In reply Mr. Fisher says:

"There can be no just criticism of the use of the present city transit fund ($61,000,000) for the construction of subways for the benefit of the car rider, from whom the money really comes. If the company built the subways the car rider would have to pay a just and reasonable return on the company's investment. If the company were required to pay a rental for the city owned subways this rental would necessarily be reflected in the fare. There seems no justification for requiring the car rider to pay indirectly for the use of his own money."

Answers "Water" Charge.

Attorney Fisher also replies to the charge that the $260,000,000 capitalization of the company "contains $50,000,000 of water." When the 1907 ordinances were drafted, he says, it was agreed between the city and the companies that the value recognized should be $50,000,000. Mayor Dunne, he asserts, "publicly announced his belief that this valuation was a real victory for the city." The additions to that capitalization since then have been approved by the city's board of supervising engineers, Mr. Fisher says.

Mills Says Car Plan Puts City at Mercy of Company

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Former Ald. Wiley W. Mills, an advocate of municipal ownership, wrote two criticisms of the proposed transit ordinance yesterday. Mr. Mills was the only member of the city council who recorded himself as opposed to the enabling legislation authorizing the city to grant a terminable transit franchise.

He expressed doubt yesterday that the public will get $200,000,000 worth of extensions and improvements promised in the new ordinance.

"If this ordinance is approved and upheld by the courts," said Mr. Mills, "the people will be at the mercy of the company, and will get only such extensions and service as the company managers see fit to give them."

He also predicted that the unemployed will have to wait a long time for the work which the improvements will create.

Hits Employment Argument.

"Some of the appeals for support of the ordinance," said Mr. Mills, "indicate that the proponents fear the ordinance would not gain support on its merits."

"We are asked to vote for the ordinance in order that the unemployed may be put to work. Section 30 of the ordinance provides that the ordinance 'shall take effect and be in full force when' [1] it 'shall have been approved by a majority of the electors of the city voting' thereon; [2] 'the Illinois commerce commission shall have authorized or approved the purchase or acquisition by the company of the properties listed and at the cost or values as of the date of the acquisition,' and [3] 'the company, within 120 days after the approval of this ordinance by the electors, or within such extension or extensions of time as may be fixed by the city council, shall have filed with the city clerk its written acceptance of this ordinance.'

"Manifestly there will be no jobs before the ordinance takes effect. That may be in the late fall or winter—or even later.

He Sights Further Delays.

"It is equally clear that if the ordinance should be approved by the people and accepted by the company no work would be done until the transit commission had been appointed and had passed upon the proposed issue of securities. Again there would not be any employment until the proposed securities shall have been passed on by the courts, as they would not be marketable without such approval.

"The cost of labor and material necessary to make extensions, additions and betterments must be paid out of the moneys obtained by the sale of the company's securities and the steps necessary to procure the money would require at least eighteen months and probably two or three years. To urge support of the ordinance for the purpose of furnishing work to the unemployed cannot be done both honestly and intelligently."

"Like comment," the Mills statement went on, "might be made with references to the character of another appeal for votes for the ordinance. This argument is that the World's Fair to be held in 1933 will demand extra transportation. May I ask: How much will we have by that time under this ordinance?"

"Many groups are urged to favor the ordinance because it is represented that only by this ordinance can they obtain needed extensions. Exhibit B, item 2, relating to extensions and improvements, provides that there shall be constructed or acquired 30 miles of surface extensions in each of 10 years. It also says that any excess over 30 miles of extensions so furnished in any year may be credited to the subsequent year or years.

"It is contemplated that 50 per cent of such extensions shall consist of street railway track and 50 per cent of motor vehicle lines. If during any one year the company should purchase motor coaches or feeder buses sufficient to give 60 or 90 miles of service it would not be obliged to lay any street car track for at least a year or two thereafter.

Discusses "L" Program.

"The times within which possible extensions of the elevated lines are to be built are not made plain. There is a provision about 'making effective the program of initial constructions and betterments prescribed by this ordinance and exhibit B hereto' and it provides that the 'company shall, subject to the provisions of this ordinance, provide funds for additions, equipment, and improvements, mentioned in exhibit B hereto, to a total amount of not less than $65,000,000' during the three years next succeeding the effective date of the ordinance.

"In view of the imminent and considerable need of rehabilitation, how much of the $65,000,000 will be spent for 'betterments' and how much for 'extensions'? In view of the considerable sums required for laying tracks, building stations, making connections between existing elevated lines and the subways to be built, and the purchase of the necessary steel cars to operate in the subways, how soon will the residents of the outlying districts get extensions?

The Cost of New Cars.

"The elevated lines have 1,800 cars—400 of which are of steel construction suitable for subway use. The ordinance provides for the use of steel cars in the subways. Exhibit B says the company will 'provide not less than 1,000 addjtional steel or other metal cars of modern design for the effective operation of the rapid transit lines as improved and extended.' It does not say within what time these cars will be purchased, but they will cost in the neighborhood of $23,000 each, so that the cars alone would cost more than $20,000,000."

Govier and Northrup Are Only Opponents.

The legislative program of the citizens' committee to provide financial relief for Chicago and other local governmental bodies and eventually to place their operations on a cash basis was indorsed yesterday by the city council. The vote was 40 to 2, with eight aldermen recorded as absent. The two dissenting votes were cast by Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th] and O. E. Northrup [19th].

Mayor Thompson held up his official announcement of the roll call vote while groups of aldermen congregated around the desks of the two opposing members in an effort to make the vote unanimous, but Govier and Northrup refused to change their votes.

Opposed to High Taxes.

At the joint session of the finance and judiciary committees in the morning and in the council meeting the two aldermen protested against the indorsement on the ground that they would not vote for the increased tax rates provided in the bills. They also made it plain that the lack of information to answer questions concerning the effect the citizens' measures will have on tax bills aided in determining their attitude.

Two questions propounded by Ald. Northrup in the morning session were:

1. What is the total amount of money that will be raised by the relief bills over the period of their operation for the schools, city and county?

2. How much will taxes be increased to the property owners? Is it five per cent or fifty per cent?

"The effect of the bills has not been actually figured out yet," answered William H. Sexton, attorney for the citizens' committee. "Later we will have a setup showing what property owners will have to pay on their valuations."

Sees 25 Per Cent Increase.

The only other answer proffered was the statement by Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe [42d] that the citizens' bills' rates will mean an increase in the 1929 tax bills of 25 per cent. The demand of Ald. Govier for an answer to the question was sidetracked in the council session by calls for order to put a stop to other conversations in the council chambers.

A "personal appeal" for a unanimous vote on the indorsing resolution was made by Attorney Sexton. He said that the aldermen must sustain the legislators at Springfield and that if the council didn't show a united front the city might not get its financial relief before July 1, after which time it would take a two-thirds' vote at Springfield to pass the bills as an emergency matter so that they would go into effect at once.

"A complete breakdown is staring us in the face," said Attorney Sexton, "but it must not happen. I don't want to see the streets of Chicago patrolled by the militia with the public officials out of control of affairs. That sounds visionary, but it is a possibility if relief is not forthcoming."

"We need relief badly," stated Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th]. "Otherwise we will have to lay off four hundred policemen, two hundred firemen, the garbage will pile up in the alleys and the street lights will be out again. It takes courage on our part to ask for relief and courage on the part of the legislators to vote it. But it is an actual necessity."

Asks Aid for Lincoln Park.

In a letter sent yesterday Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizens' committee, requested the "active coöperation" of Gov. Emmerson in behalf of the request made by the Lincoln park commissioners for legislation permitting them to issue $1,750,000 of bonds without a referendum. Of this amount $750,000 is to offset the reduction in the park's income caused by loss of taxes and interest on warrants and $1,000,000 for the restoration and protection of the park shore line.

"Not only is it essential that this authority be granted the park board," wrote Mr. Strawn, "but the full amount asked for should be allowed without referendum provisions." He explained also that the situation constitutes an emergency that can be met in no other way.

Urges Boards Be Reorganized.

George O. Fairweather, chairman of the joint commission on real estate valuation, in a speech last night before the Illinois Taxpayers' association in Beverly Hills warned that the only way to assure permanent relief from the financial ills is to also include a bill for the reorganization of the boards of assessing and reviewing in the special session program.

In a talk before the Chicago Real Estate board John O. Rees, director of the same commission, suggested the inclusion in the constitutional amendment recently passed by the state senate of provisions for revision of the debt limitation section of the revenue article and for the creation of a constitutional limitation on tax rates and for control over the issuance of bonds.

HEAT THE ROOMERS INSTEAD OF THE ROOM, NEWEST RADIO IDEA

Schenectady, N. Y., June 6.—[Special.]—The new "fever tube" developed in the Radio Research laboratories of the General Electric company has aroused in the mind of its inventor, Dr. W. R. Whitney, director of the research laboratories of General Electric, the thought that radio may eventually be used for bodily heat in homes and office buildings and factories.

It may be possible by using an adaptation of the fever tube to supply heat to the occupants of a room instead of heating the room itself, according to Dr. Whitney. Why heat thousands of cubic feet, he asks, merely to keep a body warm? Maintain sufficient heat in the person instead of an excess of steam in radiators.

The theory was suggested by Dr. Whitney in a discussion of the new apparatus. It was sugested that it might be placed in the walls of a room, the waves directed across the path of greatest activity, and then, with windows open, no furnace in the cellar, and no radiators to look after, the inhabitants would be comfortably warm.

$5,400,000 BILL SLIPS BY COUNCIL BUT IT'S CAUGHT

Faherty Defeated Again on Ogden Project.

Michael J. Faherty's ordinance for the $5,400,000 Ogden avenue project over Goose island was adopted by the city council yesterday in the guise of a minor paving project. Within an hour the aldermen awakened to what they had done and rescinded their action.

The ordinance was brought before the council merely as the paving of Ogden avenue between Rees and Cornell streets. There was no mention of the two bridges involved in the project. It was submitted as the recommendation of the judiciary committee by its chairman, Ald. O. F. Nelson [45th], along with another ordinance which was of minor importance.

Nelson Is Surprised.

"So you finally got the council's assent for the building of the two Ogden avenue bridges?" a reporter asked Ald. Nelson immediately after the aldermen adopted the judiciary committee's recommendation as a routine matter.

"No," replied Nelson. "This is for paving only." Reference to the previous council proceedings showed, however, that the bridges were included.

Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe [42d] and Arthur F. Albert [43d] then became aware of the situation and demanded that the council rescind its action, which was done.

Mr. Faherty was sitting with Mayor Thompson during the adoption of his ordinance, but the president of the board of local improvements, together with the administration proponents of the Ogden project and its opponents as well, appeared unaware of what was going on.

A Record of Defeats.

Mr. Faherty has met with repeated defeats in his efforts to put the project through.

In the election of last April the Ogden avenue bond issue was turned down by the voters. In November, 1929, the council, by a margin of only four votes, refused to put the proposition on the ballot.

STATE AND RANDOLPH IN 1859, WITH CHICAGO'S FIRST HORSE CAR

WANZER ON MILK IS LIKE STERLING ON SILVER

In November, 1858, the first spadeful of mud was turned in State Street at Randolph, the initial effort in laying Chicago's first two blocks of street railway track. Two cars were brought out from Troy, New York, to be drawn by horses up and down State Street between Randolph and Madison.

In spite of opposition, the street railway was at last a reality, and the Chicago City Railway Co. was incorporated on February 14, 1859. It was a great help to the city because of the condition of the streets. Even those few blocks that were cobbled were marked by deep mud holes.

Two years before this event, in 1857, Sidney Wanzer began supplying Chicago homes with fresh country milk and cream, shipped into the city for the first time by train. The company he founded, Sidney Wanzer and Sons, is Chicago's oldest milk company today. It is still owned and operated by the Wanzers, and its business covers the entire city and many suburbs.*

AGAIN REFUSE TO PROHIBIT POISON IN DENATURANTS

Senate Rejects Tydings Pure Food Clause.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—The senate refused again today to prohibit the use of poisons as denaturants in industrial alcohol. By a vote of 16 to 45 the senate rejected an amendment offered by Senator M. E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] to a pure food bill. The amendment was somewhat similar to one by Senator Tydings to the prohibition bureau transfer bill which the senate defeated several weeks ago by a vote of 19 to 54.

Under the Tydings amendment it would be made unlawful "for any person to denature any alcohol by the admixture therewith of materials rendering such alcohol destructive to human life if used as a beverage."

Preceded by Debate.

Action on the amendment was preceded by a sharp debate in which Senator Tydings denounced the use of poisons in industrial alcohols and Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], dry leader, defended present denaturating formulas and asserted that the move was an attack by the wets upon prohibition law enforcement.

"I do not wish to poison anybody," said Senator Sheppard. "The materials used as denaturants are not used in sufficient proportions to be poisonous."

Senator Tydings retorted that if the denaturants were not poisonous they would not be prohibited by his amendment.

Senator Sheppard read a letter from Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of prohibition, in defense of the use of present denaturants.

Party Lines Split.

In the roll call on the Tydings amendment 10 Republicans and 6 Democrats voted in the affirmative, while 29 Republicans and 16 Democrats were recorded in the negative.

Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] voted for the amendment. Senator Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.] was not recorded. Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], who voted for the Tydings amendment several weeks ago, voted against it today. Senator A. H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] voted against it, as did Senators S. W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.], James E. Watson and Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.]. Senators Robert M. La Follette and John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] voted for it.

The senate passed the bill to which Senator Tydings sought to attach his amendment. It amended the pure food and drugs act in connection with the prescribing of standards for canned goods by the secretary of agriculture.

Nine Dead in New York.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Wood alcohol poisoning has caused the death of nine men in the last two days, Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, announced today after performing autopsies on eight men who died Thursday in Bellevue and other lower Manhattan hospitals, and two who died today.

After examining the two who died today Dr. Norris announced that wood alcohol poisoning had caused the death of one. The other man, he said, had died of alcohol poisoning, and an autopsy tomorrow, he said, would determine whether the second man had drunk wood alcohol too.

Dr. Norris announced that deaths from wood alcohol poisoning had amounted to twenty-four since May 10. "This is an indication," he said, "that a flood of poison liquor is sweeping the city."

COLLEGE JOINS FIGHT ON SMOKE AND HIRES EXPERT FOR THE JOB

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Col. Elliot H. Whitlock of Cleveland has been appointed to the chair of research and mechanical engineering at Stevens Institute of Technology with instructions to coöperate with municipalities and industrial directors in the metropolitan area to abate the smoke nuisance. This announcement was made tonight by Dr. Harvey N. Davis, president of the college. Dr. Davis, one of last year's organizers of the New York-New Jersey smoke abatement board, said that the methods used and the end accomplished by Col. Whitlock in a recent campaign in Cleveland have been regarded as the best thus far in an American city.

CAR HITS LIVE WIRE; MOTORIST BURNS TO DEATH

John Faager, 1216 Feinwood avenue, Hammond, was burned to death last night when the gas tank of his automobile was ignited by a high voltage wire which snapped after he had crashed into a telephone pole. Faager had attempted to pass several cars when his auto skidded on the wet pavement and plunged into the pole two miles north of Dyer, Ind. Identification was made through the license number of his car.

Mrs. Margaret Fetcot, 50, 522 North Kedzie avenue, was struck by a "hit and run" driver in Franklin boulevard near her home early today and left lying in the street. A second car driven by Dr. Nathan Marshall, 3215 West North avenue, also struck her. She was dead when Dr. Marshall picked her up.

Gore Seeks Return as Senator from Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 6.—(AP)—T. P. Gore, who for 14 years served Oklahoma in the United States senate, announced his candidacy tonight for the senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket. "My hat's in the ring; my heart's in the race," the blind senatorial veteran declared.

16 ACQUITTED IN THE JULIAN PETROLEUM CASE IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., June 6.—[Special.]—Sixteen Los Angeles financiers and business leaders today were acquitted of alleged conspiracy to commit usury in connection with "pools" trafficking in stock of the collapsed Julian Petroleum company. The verdict was handed down by Superior Judge William Aggeler, since both sides stipulated for no jury.

The verdict acquits Louis B. Mayer, movie millionaire; Motley Flint, prominent in both banking and politics; William R. Hervey, W. I. Hollingsworth, Adolph Ramish and other local leaders, on technical findings of a lack of evidence.

Indictments against twenty-two more defendants, accused of similar charges in connection with a second "Julian pool" probably will be dropped next week. The men acquitted today had been indicted once before in 1927, but the charges were dismissed by Superior Judge William Doran. Later several were tried in Municipal courts on usury charges but none were convicted.

CAROL BACK IN RUMANIA WHERE HIS SON IS KING

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, June 6.—After five years in exile, former Crown Prince Carol made a dramatic return to Rumania tonight. He arrived in Bucharest from Paris by airplane at 6 o'clock this evening.

The news of "Mr. Carol Caraman's" return to the country of which he would have been sovereign for the last three years had it not been for his attachment to Mme. Magda Lupescu, spread rapidly in court and government circles. Late tonight, however, all was quiet in Bucharest.

Return Seemed Expected.

That the former prince's return not only had been expected but prepared for by the government and court seems likely. The day before yesterday a delegation of 200 farmers waited on Patriarch Miron Christea, one of the three regents, and requested that Carol be allowed to come back. For weeks the Liberal opposition has been attacking the Maniu government on the ground that it has refused to end the striking revival of agitation in favor of his return.

Prince Nicholas, brother of Carol and also a regent of the council ruling during the minority of Carol's son, King Michael, has openly intimated his opinion that the ban on his brother should be lifted and is known to be ready to resign his position on the regency council in Carol's favor.

Three days ago it was definitely announced from Paris that Carol had irrevocably severed all relations with Mme. Lupescu.

Report Marie Apprehensive.

For some time past it has been evident that the only real opposition to Carol's return came from the Liberal party and possibly from Dowager Queen Marie, who was largely responsible for forcing her son to renounce the throne in 1925 and who, conceivably, awaited his return with some apprehension.

Two days ago Queen Marie had a series of interviews with Premier Maniu and Patriarch Christea, from which she emerged very agitated and tearful. On the same day her departure for Oberammergau was announced. It also was given out that Princess Helen, Carol's former wife, mother of little King Michael, would visit her mother in Frankfort. There is reason to believe that Princess Helen is not opposed to a reconciliation with her divorced husband.

ROCKEFELLER OFFERS GOTHAM $13,000,000 PARK

Tract Overlooks Hudson River.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—John D. Rockefeller Jr. today offered to give the city, as a complete park, everything paid for, fifty-six acres of land which he has owned for many years at the northernmost part of Manhattan, overlooking the Hudson river. It is a beautiful, wooded tract including the one time estate of C. K. G. Billings.

In his offer to the mayor and the board of estimate Mr. Rockefeller says that he is also offering four acres of the tract to the Metropolitan Museum of Art to house the cloister treasures once owned by the sculptor, George Gray Barnard, and that he will provide not only the ground but will pay also the cost of constructing the new annex for the art museum.

A $13,000,000 Gift.

It was estimated by Mayor James J. Walker that the value of the tract of land, on Fort Washington heights, in the neighborhood of 192d street, is at least $7,000,000, and that it would cost Mr. Rockefeller $5,000,000 additional to convert the land into a completed park, as he has offered to do. This does not include the cost of a new building for the Metropolitan museum, which he offered to build. It is estimated that such a building might cost another $1,000,000. At a rough estimate, therefore, Mr. Rockefeller's offer totals at least $13,000,000.

The Billings estate is a place of climbing rocks, cliffs and green trees, and atop its high plateau was once the $2,000,000

Offer Twice Refused Before.

This is not the first time that Mr. Rockefeller has offered the Billings estate to the city. Twice previously he made similar offers—once when Mayor Mitchel was in office and again during the Hylan régime—but each time the conditions he prescribed were refused.

These conditions involved the development of the park, closing of certain streets now running through it and purchase of a certain small amount of neglected land which lies adjacent.

Fire Causes $2,000 Loss to Home of Rufus Dawes

Fire that started from an overheated incinerator in the kitchen caused damage estimated at $2,000 early this morning in the residence of Rufus C. Dawes, banker and president of the 1933 Chicago Fair, at 1800 Sheridan road, Evanston. The blaze spread from the incinerator shaft, inclosed in the walls of the residence, and filled the two upper floors with smoke. While Evanston firemen subdued the flames Mr. Dawes and his servants carried valuable china and glassware to safety.

Customs Men's Ire Aroused by Gold Star Ship Orders

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Customs inspectors of the port of New York were indignant today over a letter from Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, to Philip Elting, collector of the port, instructing that he see that customs investigators do not "harass" gold star mothers returning from visiting the graves of their sons in France.

The local customs men believe that such instructions in regard to the gold star mothers, 227 of whom got back on the President Harding today, are unnecessary and reflect upon the intelligence and sense of propriety of the New York body. In his letter to Mr. Elting the assistant secretary said:

"There are several groups of gold star mothers returning from trips to Europe through the course of the summer. While we have no authority to grant them free entry, nor do they come under the provision providing for an expedite except in the instances of sick and infirm individuals, I feel that these returning mothers should be given every facility for prompt landing.

Special Examiners Urged.

"They will come in groups, and I would suggest that you assign special customs examiners to these groups so that they can be promptly cleared.

"Above all things," Mr. Lowman's letter said, "do not permit the investigators to harass these gold star mothers and see to it that they are treated with every courtesy."

At the barge office there was some talk today of a delegation being sent to Washington to protest against the suggestion that the local customs men would in any way "harass" or fail in courtesy to the returning mothers.

Today's contingent was the first to return from abroad.

As the women—gray most of them, and sometimes bent with age—filed down the gangplank at pier 4 in Hoboken, it was clear that they returned with mixed emotions.

Happy to Be Home.

Some of them were only happy—happy to be home again, happy to have had the opportunity to look upon the earth in which their hero dead lie buried. But there were others who were drawn and sad.

On the return voyage, a number of the government's guests were in the ship's hospital. The strain had been too much.

The gold star mothers in today's detachment came from every state and from every station in life. Few of them made extensive purchases abroad, and they were hustled in short order through the customs.

Many of the women who returned came with renewed hatred of war and a determination to work for international peace.

Court Settles $200,000,000 Estate of Linoleum King

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 6.—Baron Ashton, famous linoleum magnate, who died a fortnight ago, left no will covering his vast estate, estimated to value between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000, it was revealed today by the probate court. Lady Ashton, the widow, was given a life interest in half the estate, and Lady Peel, the daughter, the entire estate subject to her mother's interest. This plan was offered by Lady Peel's attorney and agreed to by the judge.

Stevens Hotel Loses Final Plea in Yacht Club Case

The Supreme court yesterday refused a rehearing on its decision allowing the Chicago Yacht club to erect a clubhouse at the foot of Monroe street. The Stevens Hotel company, which sought to restrain the erection of the structure on the ground that it would interfere with the hotel's right to a clear view of the lake, asked the rehearing. In the April term the Supreme court upheld a decision of Circuit Judge Philip L. Sullivan denying the injunction.

YOUNG CRUSADERS LAUNCH WAR TO END DRY REGIME

Hear Darrow and Shaw Assail Prohibition.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Twenty young men, many of them representing prominent families in Chicago, sat around a table at the University club yesterday noon to find out how they could be useful in the war against prohibition. Most of them had been in the world war, but they were unversed in practical politics and did not know just where to begin. They had agreed to join the Crusaders, the anti-prohibition organization that was launched in Cleveland last January on the tenth anniversary of the adoption of the 18th amendment, and were reporting for work.

J. Russell Forgan, son of David R. Forgan, presided at the luncheon, and Fred G. Clark, Cleveland oil man and commander in chief of the Crusaders, gave an outline of the program in mind. Then they called on the veteran battler, Clarence Darrow, for advice and also listened to Ralph Shaw, who talked so vigorously before the congressional committee recently on this subject.

Aim at Wet Lawmakers.

While no definite program was decided upon, it was the opinion of the leaders that the first objective should be to elect wet congressmen and senators and that the rest should be left to them. The Crusaders favor some sort of a state's rights solution of the difficulty, with government control of liquor. They will get behind Dwight Morrow in the senatorship race in New Jersey, as a national organization, and will also begin an attack on the state prohibition laws in Ohio, home of the Anti-Saloon league.

The Atlantic division of the Crusaders is already organized and the work of the central division will be started soon with the appointment of membership, finance, publicity and speakers committees. The question of methods of control of liquor that will make for temperance was left open at this time.

Tired of Only Talking.

"We are tired of talking and damning prohibition without doing something," said Mr. Clark. "We have decided to organize in the cities with groups of congenial men and get to work. The young men fight all the nation's battles and this is the most important issue before the country today."

Mr. Shaw said that his observation and study had convinced him that unless the 18th amendment as now enforced is erased from the statute books this country will be destroyed. He traced the steps in this reasoning as follows:

"The reasons are not superficial. We may ascribe the best of motives to those who sponsored this movement and we may dismiss as not unpatriotic those industrialists who support it because they think they will make more money at their plants.

Can't Infringe on Individual.

"We must go back to the motives that sent our forefathers to this new land in search for liberty. No law which infringes on the right of the individual to do as he pleases can ever be enforced unless it is a social law. When a group attempts to say to an individual who thinks he is free, 'You are no longer free,' he recents it and will not tolerate it. He becomes a martyr in his own mind. That's the reason this law is not obeyed, and that the homes of the United States are being turned into houses of hypocrisy. Parents are hypocrites in the eyes of their children. If they do acquiesce in the law they feel that they are sacrificing something for which this nation was created.

"This law is breaking down respect for the Christian churches. Christians are forsaking Christ and teaching the doctrine of the shotgun.

Cites Huge Bootleg Profits.

"The profits for those who violate this law are almost incredible. An income which may be sufficient to pay all the income taxes in the United States is placed in the hands of those who break the law. It is being used to debauch the administration of justice."

Mr. Darrow gave some practical advice.

"How to perform, what to do, is the important question," he said. "Instead of the hard job, such as the repeal of the 18th amendment, I think we should take the easier one. In order to repeal you must get two-thirds of the house and senate in one session before the question could be submitted to the states. There are 96 senators and 64 would be necessary. I do not want to wait that long. You will never get it in this generation that way.

"By reapportionment in the house next year you should be able to get a wet majority. The 18th amendment has no validity without the Volstead act or some other medieval law. Congress can repeal such laws by a majority vote. If the Volstead law was repealed, the federal government would be relieved of enforcement. They can't hire men then to shoot people down, employ bigots to poison alcohol, and loafers to watch people take a drink. Even in the days of the rack and the thumbscrew they could not poison."

Mr. Darrow gave it as his opinion that the states would be able, if they wished, to manufacture and sell liquor for beverage purposes if the Volstead law was repealed.

Among those who will be appointed to committee work in Chicago are William H. Mitchell, James C. Hutchins, Charles Glore, John Wentworth, Charles Cushing, Weymouth Kirkland, Lawrence Stern, E. A. Cudahy Jr., Stuyvesant Peabody, Lester Armour, John R. Thompson, S. Y. Hord, Wayne C. Taylor, Seymour Wheeler, Col. Thomas Gowenlock, Vaughn Spalding, W. E. Clow Jr., Morris Boku, Montefiore Stein, Robert Gardner, Ald. Oscar F. Nelson, Hays McFarland, and Thorne Donnelley.

1,200,000 NAMES SOUGHT ON G.O.P. WET REFERENDUM

Bernard Snow Puts Ward Leaders to Work.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Calling in his ward leaders yesterday, Chairman B. W. Snow of the Republican county central committee, directed immediate activity in circulating the organization's petitions for the triple referendum on prohibition.

Mr. Snow told his followers that he wanted to put a quick stop to talk of Democrats and drys that the movement is only a bluff and that the referendum will never be held because the petitions will not be filed. For that reason, he said, the huge documents will be placed before the secretary of state long before the time limit for filing the petition, which is sixty days before the election of Nov. 4.

400,000 on Each Petition.

Snow's instructions to the ward committeemen were to have each precinct committeeman obtain 150 signers for each of the three petitions. He said he hoped to see a total of at least 400,000 names on each of the three. This would make a grand total of 1,200,000 signatures, which, it was said, would be the largest collection ever filed in Illinois.

"If ever a movement was on the square, this one is," Snow said. "We intend to gather the signatures as rapidly as possible and we are certain to obtain them in record breaking time. We need not file until early September, but absolute certainty that the three questions of public policy will appear on the little ballot in November will be established long before that time and then the opposition will have to find some substitute for its present insinuation that we are not going through with this plan.

A Clean Cut Issue.

"It was amusing to see in the morning papers the lineup of critics of our announcement. There was the Anti-Saloon league, the scintillating senatorial nominee of the Democrats, and Chairman Cermak of the Democratic county organization. Each one had his own idea of the purpose prompting us, and none recognized the truth. That is, we want a clear cut vote of Illinois on the prohibition issue without any complications such as are injected by the parties, the alliances, the records, the qualifications, and the personalities of candidates."

"What we want is a vote on the issue alone," interjected George F. Harding, county treasurer, "and what the Democrats want is to use the issue for political expediency, to try and get votes for candidates regardless of the issue itself."

Recount Primary Votes.

The season of recounts on the results of the April primary is under way. In fifteen precincts of the 23d ward so far reviewed Charles Vavrik has taken a lead of 27 votes over William E. Lass, whom the April returns showed winner for ward committeeman by 20 votes.

A recount of the votes in the Republican contest for state senator from the 29th district probably will be begun on Monday. The contest was brought by Wallace F. Kirk, shown by the official count to have been defeated by Senator John T. Joyce by 271 votes. At the same time a recount of the votes for state representative in the 31st district may start. Here the petition was filed by Representative Roy Juul against Representative James J. McVicker and John G. Glaser, indicated as the nominees.

VERDICT IN KIDNAP TRIAL IS PRAISED BY COL. RANDOLPH

The conviction Thursday night of the three kidnapers of Theodore Kopelman, insurance broker, demonstrates that crime can be successfully fought if fearlessly attacked, was the substance of a message yesterday from Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and head of the Secret Six, who is in Atlantic City.

"The conviction of the kidnapers demonstrates conclusively that crime can be successfully fought if fearlessly attacked," said the message. "The prosecutors [Assistant State's Attorneys C. Wayland Brooks and John Holman], Judge Miller, and the jury deserve the thanks of the entire community."

The case was tried without much delay, it was pointed out, because Col. Randolph and his committee worked shoulder to shoulder with the police and state's attorney's office and saw to it that the prosecution witnesses were amply protected. The kidnaping occurred on Feb. 28 and the trial started May 24.

CONDON BOWS HEAD IN COURT AND GOES FREE

Apologizes for Contempt After 2 Days in Jail.

Thomas Condon, millionaire head of Condon Industries, Inc., and the General Telephone Utilities company, bowed his head as he appeared yesterday before Superior Judge Sabath to ask his liberty. Three days ago he had been sent from the same courtroom to serve not more than six months in the county jail for direct contempt of court after he attempted to strike Attorney Benjamin B. Davis of the law firm of Socrates & Davis whom he called a liar.

Condon was swinging a mop in alimony row in the tail when his attorney, Milford Olds, appeared before the judge with Attorney Davis to demand immediate clemency. A letter was given to the judge in which the millionaire apologized to the court, but not to the attorney. Judge Sabath ordered Condon before him. Condon appeared with his father, Edward J. Condon Sr., and his brother, Edward J. Condon Jr.

Condon Makes Apologies.

Condon asked photographers not to take his picture until he could shave. Bailiff Simon Lewis offered to give him shaving materials to use in chambers after the hearing. Condon took his place at the bar and hung his head, grinning broadly. He apologized to the court and to Attorney Davis after Judge Sabath demanded it. He refused to shake hands with the attorney and attempted to justify his attack.

"Your conduct was utterly unprecedented in courts in which I have sat," Judge Sabath cut him short. "My sentence was not personal. I could not countenance such action even though I often overlook matters which abuse the dignity of the court because of the fact that they are impulsive. Your attempt to strike an officer of the court and using such language could not be overlooked. I feel that the lesson has been sufficient to a man of your ability."

Refuses Reconciliation Offer.

Attorney Davis explained that Mrs. Mary D. Condon, the millionaire's estranged wife, joined in the plea for mercy. It was in asking the court to grant in injunction to restrain Condon from molesting his wife pending the trial of her suit for separate maintenance, that the attorney was attacked Wednesday. Davis said that Mrs. Condon was prostrated by her husband's sentence. Judge Sabath asked Condon to permit him to arrange a meeting for a reconciliation.

Snares Two Snowwhite Gophers on Canada Prairie

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REGINA, Sask., June 6.—Two snow white gophers, rare on the prairies, have been captured by Bernard H. Pike, Braddock district farmer. They are believed to be the first white gophers taken alive in Saskatchewan.

WARRANTS ISSUED AS DR. WYNEKOOP DODGES HEARING

Dr. Gilbert H. Wynekoop, 50 years old, 5059 Sheridan road, was being sought by Lieut. William Crot of the detective bureau last night on two warrants.

Municipal Judge Joseph Schulman in the State street court issued the warrants in connection with the complaints of two girls who charged that Dr. Wynekoop attempted familiarities when they answered advertisements for a housekeeper. Dr. Wynekoop failed to appear yesterday and answer a disorderly charge preferred by Miss Mary Conroy, 21 years old, 1305 Sedgwick street, leading to a forfeiture of his $50 bond and the issuance of a capias for his arrest.

Jack Gordon requested the second warrant in behalf of his fiancée, Miss Byrna Katz, 23 years old, 1524 North Artesian avenue, who said Dr. Wynekoop greeted her with kisses when she called in response to the advertisement. Dr. Wynekoop is expected to appear in court today, provided the warrants are served in time. He telephoned the court yesterday that he was "too busy with an operation to come to court."

CREWS ACTS TO CONTROL ESTATE OF THOMPSON

Public Administrator Halbert O. Crews yesterday petitioned Probate Judge Horner for appointment as administrator of the estate of the late David P. Thompson, director of the Inland Steel company, who died intestate in Florida last March. His estate is to go to his son, Alexis, 15 years old.

Clarence Randall, vice president of the steel company, was named executor of the estate by Mrs. Millie Caffe Thompson Beaumont, Thompson's former wife. Attorneys for the public administrator argued that she could not legally appoint the executor and that the estate should be administered by the public administrator. Judge Horner took the motion under advisement. If Crews is successful he will receive a fee of 6 per cent of the estate for its administration.

COUNCIL CREATES STREET POSITION; AWARDS SALARY

The position of superintendent of streets, which was left out of the 1930 budget when it was prepared in January, was inserted yesterday by the city council and an appropriation of $4,083 for salary was provided for the remainder of the year. An examination for the position, which could not be held while it was not included in the budget, is expected to be called soon by the civil service commission.

At various times during the past year reports have been spread that Daniel Serritella, city sealer; Edward F. Moore, deputy commissioner of public works, and Joseph J. Butler, deputy superintendent of streets, are contenders for the job. This dispute, according to the aldermen, will be settled if an examination is held.

The council also voted an appropriation for City Collector Eller of $13,600 for overtime and for extra clerk hire. Another appropriation, according to Eller, will be needed by Aug. 1.

ELECTRIFIED OVER THE ROCKIES TO THE SEA

CANNON OFFERS AN EXPLANATION, BUT RAPS WALSH

No Discourtesy Intended, Bishop Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Asserting that "he intended no discourtesy" when he bolted a senate probe committee hearing yesterday, Bishop James Cannon Jr., in a statement issued late tonight, bitterly assailed Senator T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], acting chairman of the committee, for inserting in the record, over his protest, the available evidence of his activities in the 1928 presidential campaign.

In the statement the Southern Methodist dry leader sought to justify his defiance of the committee, first by refusing to answer questions and finally by stalking out of the room, on the ground—a point he has not raised before—that a quorum of the committee was not present and that the two members in attendance, Walsh and Senator J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] were not legally authorized to examine him.

No Change in Refusal.

Bishop Cannon reiterated his intention of keeping secret the names of the aides in Virginia to whom he says he distributed the $48,300 given him for the anti-Smith campaign in that state.

Bishop Cannon outlined in his statement events leading up to his refusal to answer questions on his political activities, including a claim that he had an understanding with Senator Caraway, committee chairman, as to the limit on his testimony. Speaking of a warning by Senator Walsh, the statement continued:

"I should probably have insisted upon the inability of the committee to ask further questions legally without a quorum but I decided to retain. I was amazed, however, that, despite Senator Walsh's distinct statement that it would be necessary 'to discontinue that course of inquiry' question after question was asked me concerning my personal and political activities in order to get some matters in the record, regardless of the failure of the committee to rule upon my objections and the declaration of Senator Walsh quoted above.

Calls It "Unfair and Illegal."

"This course of the committee I considered to be not only unfair but illegal, and I decided that I would not continue any longer as a voluntary witness until the committee secured a quorum, summoned me as a witness and ruled formally upon my objections to investigating my political activities in the anti-Smith campaign."

Cannon contended in the statement that if two members of the committee could not pass on his objections, two members could not legally object to his withdrawal and, he added, "certainly I do not understand how I could be declared by two members of a committee to be in contempt of the senate."

"I can but wonder also," he said, whether matter inserted in the record over my protest, with only two members of the committee present, is really part of the record."

Earlier in the day Senators Walsh and Blaine indicated that notwithstanding the assertion of Senator Caraway in Jonesboro, Ark., today that he would not issue a subpoena to compel Cannon to testify, they intend to press the inquiry and insist upon proceedings against the bishop for contempt.

BIG DISTILLERY FIRE IN GOTHAM STARTS INQUIRY

3 Charred Bodies Are Found in Ruins.

New York, June 6.—[U. P.]—Federal prohibition agent, who today took over the six story building in West 27th street which burned Wednesday night, announced that it had contained the biggest alcohol distillery ever discovered in the east, and started an investigation to find out who owned it, who leased it, who ran the plant, and who owned the trucks and supplies found next door. Subpœnas for a John Doe inquiry by the federal grand jury were prepared.

At the same time District Attorney T. C. T. Crain started a homicide investigation to determine responsibility for the death of three men whose charred bodies were found on an upper floor.

More Bodies Sought.

Firemen believe there may be more bodies in the cellar, flooded with ten feet of water. They are pumping the water out and looking for the bodies of an engineer and a watchman.

The police also began an investigation seeking to find out how so huge a plant could have run for a year.

The place was supposed to have been occupied by the Meriden Oil Engine corporation on the ground floor and to have been vacant on the others.

Loss About $500,000.

As a matter of fact, the prohibition men said, it was a hive of activity which had no connection at all with oil engines. They have found eighteen fire blackened wooden tanks, each of more than 5,000 gallons storage capacity. Also they have discovered that huge copper pipes ran from the cellar to the roof and back again, providing a six story worm for the wholesale distilling to which the building was devoted. The plant was worth about $500,000.

Veterans Parade

Biloxi, Miss., June 6.—(AP)—Feeble and gray men, who went forth as youngsters in an era long past to fight for the cause of the southern confederacy, marched again to martial music here today—not as warriors, but as heroes on parade before admirers of a new generation.

Battles of their youth were but memories. Today they carried walking sticks.

The parade was divided into eight sections with 14 bands, headed by Adjt. Gen. J. M. Hairston of the Mississippi National Guard, and led by the United States Marine band.

The procession included officials of the veterans' staff, members of the Confederate Memorial association, Sons of Confederate Veterans, visiting army and navy officers and men, American Legionnaires, veterans of the Spanish-American war, and Boy Scouts, with gaily bedecked floats bringing up the rear.

A gulf breeze came as a cheerful climax to the rain and overcast clouds of the morning and whipped the plumes in the swaggering hats of Gen. Forest's old cavalrymen, who saluted crisply as they passed the reviewing stand.

HINT PACKER HAD PARTNER KILLED BECAUSE OF GIRL

Topeka, Kas., June 6.—[Special.]—Sheriff Wayne Horning, who is developing the state's case involving Louis H. Kimmel, packing house president, in the slaying of Roy Kramer, vice president of Kimmel's concern, said today he has found a motive which links Kimmel with the crime.

"A personal quarrel between the men over the business of the Kaw packing plant resulted in a strained relationship," Horning said. "Kramer had objected to Kimmel employing a young woman who formerly had nursed Kimmel when he was in a Topeka hospital.

Kramer, the sheriff said, had made arrangements to leave the Kimmel firm because of these and other disagreements, and enter another packing plant.

WIFE OF HEAD OF PRINCETON JOINS DRY LAW BATTLE

Morristown, N. J., June 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. John Grier Hibben, wife of the president of Princeton university, has joined the ranks of the wets and become a member of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, according to an announcement made today by Mrs. John W. Castles of Morristown. Mrs. Castles is vice chairman of the state organization, in charge of publicity and speakers. Mrs. Hibben joined the New Jersey group because she feels that "present conditions resulting from the 18th amendment and the Volstead act are perfectly shocking," it was said.

U. S., NOT STATES, FILLING PRISONS UNDER DRY LAWS

Federal Enforcement Is More Severe.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—While constantly heavier punishments are being inflicted by the federal government upon dry law violators, the various states are imposing less severe penalties, as shown by prison statistics presented to the house today by Representative Carl G. Bachmann [Rep., W. Va.].

Mr. Bachman set forth the answers to questionnaires sent by him to wardens of all the state penal institutions, showing for the first time, he said, the exact bearing of prohibition upon state prison conditions. He compared these with the federal penitentiary situation.

Three Laws Convict Most.

The tabulations disclosed that 3,121 prisoners out of 11,270 were in federal prisons for violation of the federal dry law, while only 4,037 out of 116,670 in state prisons were there for violations of state dry laws. Between 1927 and 1929 Uncle Sam's prohibition convicts increased 120 per cent, while the state's prohibition convicts decreased slightly more than one per cent.

Discussing the federal prison statistics, Mr. Bachmann pointed out that approximately 66 per cent, or about two-thirds of all prisoners received in the federal prisons in 1929, were violators of three statutes: The prohibition laws, 25 per cent; anti-narcotic law, 25 per cent, and automobile theft law, 16 per cent.

"If it were not for the large number of prisoners sentenced to our federal prisons for violations of the drug act and the national prohibition act, the two together comprising about 50 per cent of our federal prison population, there would be no congestion in our federal prisons," he said.

Texas Leads in Dry Convicts.

Mr. Bachmann's state figures showed that on Jan. 1, 1930, there were in the 100 state prisons in the 48 states a total of 116,670 prisoners, 21,867 more than three years before. Ohio led with 8,806 inmates and Illinois was second with 8,026, New York third with 8,019, and Michigan fourth with 7,118.

There are more prisoners confined in the Texas state prison for violation of the dry law than in any other state, he revealed. Texas on Jan. 1, 1930, had 635 dry law convicts, Alabama 592, Michigan 403, Tennessee 310, and West Virginia 240. Illinois had only 11, Utah 3, Wisconsin 2, and New Jersey 1. There were no dry law convicts at all in the state prisons of New York, Nevada, Montana, Arizona, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, and North Carolina.

J. W. DAVIS SAYS WORLD COURT IS AMERICAN IDEAL

Atlantic City, N. J., June 6.—[Special.]—Addressing the annual banquet of the New Jersey Bar association at the Hotel Chelsea tonight, John W. Davis, once Democratic presidential candidate, expressed an opinion that it would not be conceivable for the United States to take any backward step now in connection with its entrance into the world court.

"An advocate of the court and of America's prompt adherence thereto should consider himself fortunate if he is confronted by an audience of lawyers," he said. "He has the right to expect their sympathy and assent.

"To turn away from this doctrine now would falsify more than a century of American history."

FOURTEEN ROCKFORD MEN ARRESTED UNDER ONE RUM INDICTMENT

Freeport, Ill., June 6.—(AP)—United States commissioners and clerks sat late tonight arranging and accepting bonds, one by one, for the twenty-five men indicted from Rockford, Ill., on a liquor conspiracy charge. The indictment was returned yesterday by the federal grand jury for the western division of the northern district of Illinois, and the roundup of those named began immediately.

Fourteen men were taken into custody today at their Rockford homes or business addresses immediately and brought here for arraignment. Others were being picked up as fast as they could be located.

The following had already been arraigned and posted bond: "Big Bill" D'Agostin, $10,000, as alleged center of the conspiracy; George Coleman, $2,500; Joe Domino, $5,000; Ollie Shaul, $5,000; Carl Buckman, $1,000; Paul Govingo, $1,000; Charles Benard, $1,000; Guy Milne, $5,000; John F. Walsh, $5,000; Lorenzo Mascarelli, $2,500; Tony Govingo, $10,000; Thomas Rumore, $5,000; Lorenzo Buttice, $5,000; George Domino, $2,500. Frank Rumore is also under arrest, but has not yet posted bail. All are from Rockford.

The grand jury has been investigating Rockford's liquor conditions for the last week, calling several dozen witnesses, including a number of city and county officials and policemen. All were required to sign waivers of immunity.

BROOKHART AIRS CHARGE CREAGER PROTECTS RUM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Investigation by the department of justice of charges that R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman for Texas, was "protecting certain hotels in liquor violations" was asked today by Senator Brookhart [Rep., Ia.].

The Iowa senator recalled the accidental poisoning of Mrs. R. L. Works of Brownsville, Tex., during a party in Creager's hotel room in Dallas recently and inserted in the senate record the affidavit of an ambulance driver who swore he saw liquor in the room.

Brookhart was chairman of the special senate committee which investigated the alleged bartering of federal offices and patronage in southern states. Following the investigation, President Hoover asserted that conditions had been remedied and that a return to the former system would not be tolerated. Creager, as Republican national committeeman, is the patronage "referee" for his state.

In his affidavit the ambulance driver, called to the Adolphus hotel when Mrs. Works accidentally swallowed poison, declared that while others worked on the woman he went into another room of the Creager suite.

"I saw two full pints of white liquor on a desk," the affidavit reads. "I saw part of one pint on a dresser. Several glasses and two ginger ale bottles were on the dresser. Two women and three men were in the room. They were sitting down. They then all walked into the room where the surgeon was attending to Mrs. Works."

MEXICO CITY, June 6.—(AP)—Mexico's population is 16,404,030, according to the 1930 census, a gain of about 2,000,000 since 1921. The figures showed 8,065,695 males and 8,338,335 females. All states showed an increase except Colima, which lost 30,000. The population of the federal district is 1,217,663, an increase of more than 311,000 since 1921.

CENSUS SHOWS 2 MILLION GAIN FOR CALIFORNIA

40 of 58 Counties Have 4,890,982 Total.

San Francisco, Cal., June 6.—(AP)—California passed the two million mark in the increase of population disclosed by the 1930 census when the fortieth county — Los Angeles — was added to the unofficial compilation.

With 18 counties yet to report, the state had gained 2,016,269, or a net aggregate increase of 70.1 per cent. The total for the forty counties is 4,890,982.

The trend of the increase is closely substantiated by the compilation of cities in excess of 5,000 population. These seventy-two municipalities, also including Los Angeles, recorded an aggregate gain of 70.8 per cent.

The population of Los Angeles was announced as 1,231,730, an increase over 1920 of 655,057, or 113.59 per cent. The population of Hollywood, a part of Los Angeles since 1910, was announced as 153,294. The 1920 estimate was 50,000.

The population of the unreported counties in 1920 was 550,130. Thus if the remaining counties should maintain their 1920 populations in the 1930 enumeration the state's population total would be approximately 5,440,000, but if the missing sections of the state maintained the percentage of growth disclosed to date the 1930 census total would be close to 5,917,000.

In 1920 California had a population of 3,380,902.

Boston Population 780,851.

Boston, Mass., June 6.—[Special.]—Boston is due to drop from seventh to ninth place in the population standing of the first ten cities of the country, it was learned tonight with the announcement that the federal census will show the total number of inhabitants to be 780,851.

This figure represents an increase of 1,231 persons since the state census five years ago, and 32,791 since the last federal census, when the population was listed at 748,060. As a result Los Angeles and Baltimore will pass the Hub in size when the census figures are officially released.

DAILY ROUGHAGE IS AN ESSENTIAL IN ANY DIET

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation, Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "vest pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. Many people soak it in fruit juices. Excellent in cooked foods. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. It is served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Ask for it! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

REVOLT FLARES IN INDO-CHINA; 9 SLAIN, 32 SHOT

French Troops Fire Into Mob Led by Women.

when the president of the chamber, Buisson, in trying to restore order, dropped his baton and nearly hit a clerk in the eye. Then he broke the bell by ringing it too vigorously.

M. Taittinger continued, making a strong plea that more troops be sent to Indo-China. He described the workings of the Red propaganda machine, declaring that the native communists have openly set up revolutionary courts, where justice—of a sort—was meted out. He read the decree of one revolutionary court, which sentenced two native women to death for disloyalty to the communist party, and declared that this sentence was executed despite the French authorities.

OFFICERS KIDNAPED

BOMBAY, India, June 6.—(AP)—Unrest of tribesmen on the northwestern frontier continues to focus the anxious attention of the Europeans here. News was received today that two British officers and the wife of one of them have been kidnaped by trans-border Achakzai raiders.

The British have used airplanes against the hostile men of the hills, and tonight the situation on the frontier appeared to be in hand. A number of royal air force machines and a column of infantry engaged a force of Afridi tribesmen, which had penetrated almost to the walls of Peshawar. Pitched battles were fought. It is understood the tribesmen suffered heavy casualties and the military forces a few.

Major and Captain Kidnaped.

The Europeans kidnaped were Maj. E. L. Marley, a sapper stationed at Quetta; Capt. J. C. Frere of the Twelfth Secunderabad infantry brigade, and his wife.

The incident occurred Wednesday afternoon at a point seven miles from Chaman on the main Quetta-Chaman road. The three were traveling in two motor cars driven by Indians. They were held up by a barricade of rocks. The raiders carried them across the frontier.

The first news of the event was received in Chaman from the engineer of a train which passed close to the spot shortly afterward. Seeing the barricade and the two empty cars, he stopped for an investigation and then rushed at full speed to Chaman.

Troops Unable to Catch Band.

Police and troops sped to the spot, but were unable to overtake the raiders before they crossed the border into Afghanistan, six miles distant.

It was learned that the kidnaped persons were placed on camels and taken to a nomad village near Kunchai, about 20 miles southwest of Chaman, in Afghan territory, where they spent Wednesday and Thursday nights.

A report from Sholapur said four persons were sentenced to death tonight for the murder of policemen during the recent rioting in that city. The judge who heard the cases was an Indian, N. J. Owadia.

POLICE START CLEANUP

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, June 5.—[Delayed by censor.]—A vigorous campaign has opened in Bombay and other cities for the arrest of the so-called "war council" of the Nationalists. Raids are being made on their offices and membership lists confiscated. This is taken as a sign that a nation-wide cleanup of Gandhi leaders has been determined on without waiting for further law infractions.

The most dramatic raid occurred at Bombay, where 500 police, armed with lathis, or staves, raided the council house, seizing a list of all members of the council. Eight of the nine present were arrested. The exception was Mrs. Lilavati Munschi, vice president, whose husband already has been jailed. She offered to accompany her comrades to a cell, but was set free.

Picketing of foreign owned shops is being increased. Large delegations surround the leading stores and attempt to persuade natives not to enter. This is a direct defiance of Viceroy Lord Irwin's ordinance forbidding picketing.

Woman Refuses King's Medal.

LONDON, June 6.—(AP)—A dispatch to the Daily Herald says Miss Ida Dickinson, who was awarded the Kaisar-I-Hind silver medal in the king's birthday honors for social work in Bombay, has refused it as a protest against the Indian government's "policy of repression." She also resigned from the Bombay legislative council, of which she was the first and only woman member.

Indo-China Uprising

NOTED AVIATORS NAMED AS AIR RACE OFFICIALS

A number of well known American flyers are included in the list of air race officials whose appointments were announced yesterday by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, chairman of the contest committee of the National Air Races, which will be held at Curtiss field from Aug. 23 to Sept. 1.

The list includes Frank A. McKay, for several years an official of the national reliability tours, vice chairman; Carl F. Egge, first superintendent of air mail for the government, contest secretary; Capt. Ray Collins, aviation director of the state of Michigan, chief starter; E. W. [Pop] Cleveland, veteran war flying instructor, operations officer, and Carl F. Shory, former official of the National Aeronautical association, chief timer. Stuart F. Sinclair, aviation secretary of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will be chief scorer.

Veteran Colored Employe of Government Dies at 71

Robert McCommer, 71 year old colored inspector of customs, who had served the government for forty-one years, died yesterday at his home, 5356 South Michigan avenue. He had been ill for a short time with heart trouble. McCommer devoted much of his time to the welfare of the Negroes of Chicago. He was one of the founders of the Neighborhood Improvement and Protective association.

MORROW SAYS GERMANY DIDN'T START THE WAR

Opponents Attack His "White House Boom."

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—The fight for the Republican senatorial nomination in New Jersey fairly bristled today.

The drys flared forth with an attack upon Dwight W. Morrow, one of the three candidates, charging that he is backed by "the millionaires of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment."

Both the other candidates, former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and Congressman Franklin W. Fort, took the Morrow presidential boom as their text and demanded that Morrow confine himself to one race.

Mr. Morrow himself ignored these attacks, but injected the "German question" in a night speech in Paterson.

"It was the popular thought," he said, "first to place the blame on Germany for the world war. This is an unfair attitude, for the war was started by the fear and pressure of naval competition."

Touches on Naval Parley.

Later he switched the subject to the London naval conference and expressed the wish that Germany had been represented.

"However," he said, "there will be another conference in 1935 and I hope that Germany will be present. Then all the big nations of the world will be on an equal footing and there will be a chance for the world to move forward toward peace and happiness. I hope that our children will not have to go through what we have gone through."

It was the first time since Mr. Morrow opened his campaign that he had touched on the naval treaty which he assisted in negotiating. He urged immediate ratification.

The prohibition onslaught came from James K. Shields, superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon league. In a letter to the pastors of the state he charged that the wet "millionaires" were backing Morrow and urged that campaign expenditures be rigidly investigated.

Deliberate Lie, Is Retort.

At Morrow's headquarters it was stated that any inference that the anti-prohibitionists were financing his campaign was "a deliberate lie."

Mr. Frelinghuysen criticized Mr. Morrow for not disavowing the "Morrow for President" boom when it was launched a few nights ago.

"It is a laudable ambition," said Mr. Frelinghuysen, "to aspire to the presidency of the United States, but it is somewhat confusing when a candidate for the presidency still retains a portfolio as ambassador and also is a candidate for the United States senate at the same time."

Mr. Fort likewise derided Mr. Morrow for seeking two offices at once. He added that the presidential boom would alienate more votes than it would win.

MRS. HAMMERSTEIN IS FOUND GUILTY ON VAGRANCY CHARGE

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, once one of the most prominent figures in musical New York and the mistress of a large estate, was found guilty of vagrancy in Jefferson Market court today, despite her contention that she was framed by policemen who prepared the case against her.

The widow of the famous impresario, herself at one time after his death an opera producer, was remanded to jail to await sentence.

Magistrate Earl Smith found Mrs. Hammerstein guilty after denying a plea of her attorney to be allowed to reopen the evidence to submit testimony, which he said would discredit the evidence produced by the prosecution.

Mrs. Hammerstein was arrested May 12 by Patrolman John McHugh, who testified during the trial that he received, from a confidential source, a complaint against Mrs. Hammerstein's conduct in the Hotel Winthrop, where she was living, and arranged a meeting by phoning her that "Mr. Gleason" said it would be all right for him to visit her.

She asked him to walk to her fifteenth floor apartment, he said, and he did so. When he was admitted, he said, he offered Mrs. Hammerstein a sum of money. She demanded $50, he said, but finally accepted $30.

The widow testified that McHugh gained entrance under false pretences by pretending he was a man sent by her banker to lend her $500, and she said she only accepted the $30 under protest as an advance payment on the $500 loan.

CONVICT, POSING AS RICH MAN, IS SUED BY GIRL

Los Angeles, Cal., June 6.—[Special.]—Charles Davis, characterized as "a man of great wealth, power, and influence" in a suit for $200,000 for asserted betrayal filed here yesterday by Miss Cano Morris, today was identified as a former Sing Sing convict. Davis was released within the last year after serving a term for a fatal New York shooting in 1921.

Miss Morris, a New York show girl, came west and lived at the Davis home for some time, as her legal papers aver, according to Davis' son, Austin. The latter declares he does not know why Miss Morris terminated her visit.

Miss Morris was accompanied by Betty Olah, a New York girl, with whom she has now taken an apartment in downtown Los Angeles.

Leader Quits Over D. A. R. Balking at World Court

Los Angeles, Cal., June 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Maynard Ford Thayer of Pasadena, past state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution in California, today tendered her written resignation from the Pasadena chapter of the organization in protest against the national body's recently expressed opposition to the world court policy of President Hoover

Mrs. Thayer gave as her outstanding reason the fact that during the convention in Washington last April the national body allowed only opponents of the world court to be heard. This she characterized as unfair.

RADIO FINDER LOCATES TWO COMMUNICATING WITH RUM VESSELS

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Radio direction finders located two men arrested on a charge of communicating with rum running ships at sea, and resulted in their being held in $7,500 bail each today, accused of violating the federal radio act in operating an unlicensed transmitting station.

The two men, James Leo Pelkey, 28, and Harry C. Willis, were arrested in a house in Brooklyn.

Assistant Radio Supervisor E. H. Lee, Wendell Patten of the coast guard, and Forest F. Redfern, assistant radio inspector, were credited with having unearthed the radio station.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS FREEING OF SLOT WITNESS

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday refused to reverse its decision in the case of David C. Rockola, who was to have been the state's main witness in the recent $1,000,000 slot machine syndicate prosecution, but who at the last minute refused to testify. The state's attorney's office asked the Supreme court to grant a rehearing on its previous decision, which set aside the six months' contempt sentence imposed on Rockola when he refused to testify against Dr. William H. Reid, Thompson political lieutenant; six police captains and twenty-one other defendants.

NO. SHORE RAPIST CONVICTED; GETS 30 YEAR TERM

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Patterson, contributing to delinquency, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell and fined $200 by Judge Martin Isaacs.

William Smigel and Anthony Smigel, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years each in the penitentiary; Frank Whyte, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Henry Thomas, assault to murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Roland Canino, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Phillip Finnegan.

Paul Harris, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in Pontiac reformatory; Tony Harris, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge John J. Sullivan.

William Pickett, 33 years old, colored chauffeur, was found guilty of rape by a jury in Judge Walter P. Steffen's criminal court yesterday afternoon. His punishment was fixed by the jury at 30 years in the penitentiary. A motion for a new trial will be heard next week.

Assistant State's Attorneys Charles Bellows and Samuel Childress introduced testimony to show that Pickett attacked a 23 year old woman who was employed as a nurse in a Winnetka home after theatening to stab her to death if she resisted.

The prosecutors asked the jury to give the defendant the maximum punishment, which is life imprisonment. The jurors, however, fixed a definite term of years that is in excess of what is usually considered a life sentence. A prisoner under a life sentence can be paroled in 20 years.

OPEN EVENINGS

No thrill like an Eight

No Eight like a HUDSON

OPEN SUNDAYS

Easy to buy—Inexpensive to Operate

The great and envied cars of the world are Eights. Except for cost all would own them.

Swept aside, now, is that barrier of high price and upkeep costs. And Hudson's Great Eight, through an amazing development, is giving thousands the brilliant performance and distinction that only the exclusive few have known.

Come, see and ride in this most modern of Eights. Beautiful, luxurious and powerful, it is excelled by no car in fast get-away, smoothness and reliable operation. It will renew your first glorious zest in motoring. It will thrill you with the power of its eight-cylinder motor. And it will delight you with operating economies never before achieved in a car of equal performance.

These are the reasons why Hudson is being praised everywhere, even beyond the great successes of Hudson's past.

From the moment you take the wheel you will be conscious of its superiority. You need scarcely touch the gear shift. Loaf along in high, slowly as on a Sunday stroll. Then push your foot to the floor and dart ahead at express train speed. For Hudson delivers its power surely and without effort.

Sixty miles an hour will seem as quiet and easy as thirty. The steepest hills will level out before you with a rising speedometer. The brakes will bring you to a sure, smooth stop, no matter what your speed. Its roadability is so sure that you will feel secure at all times. And, you will say, as thousands are saying, "Here is a car."

ZEP BACK HOME AFTER TRIP OVER FOUR CONTINENTS

Dodges Electrical Storm on Last Lap of Flight.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 6.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin rested tonight at her home base at the end of a history making voyage which had carried her to North and South America, over a portion of Africa, and twice across the equator in 19 days.

Dodging terrific electrical storms that threatened her with disaster over southern France, the Graf detoured to Germany, turning aside from her customary course in the Rhone valley and passing over Soleetre, near the Swiss frontier.

The last two days of the Graf's voyage were made memorable by the most unseasonable weather Spain has witnessed in years and again by just such an atmospheric disturbance as all but wrecked Dr. Hugo Eckener's giant dirigible in 1929, when she was forced to abandon an Atlantic crossing at a point near the suburbs of Valence and finally landed near Toulon.

Sirens Greet Graf.

A wildly enthusiastic throng greeted the returning voyagers at the end of the dirigible's seventh trans-Atlantic crossing. The city from end to end was bedecked with flags. As the great craft came in sight of her hangars at a few minutes after 7:22 p. m. (1:22 p. m. Chicago daylight time), cannons were fired, sirens shrieked, and the bells of all churches pealed.

The police with great difficulty succeeded in holding back the ever increasing crowd from the roped inclosure. It was an equally difficult task to escort to the field Mrs. Eckener and the wives of Capt. Lehmann and Capt. Fleming, who arrived with a director of the Maybach company.

Plan Further Flights.

Soon after being tied to her mast the Graf's commander began to make plans for other activities of the Zeppelin which will keep the dirigible in the air much of the time.

There will be numerous flights over Germany and Switzerland. Dr. Eckener is scheduled to pilot his craft to Berlin on June 21 for the world power conference. Other flights tentatively planned include cruises over the liberated Rhineland, Westphalia, north Germany, the Palatinate, Austria, England, Iceland, North Cape, and also Mediterranean and Baltic flights.

JUSTICE ACCUSED BY OWNER OF INN IN LIQUOR CASE

Charges that Justice of the Peace Ralph Sinsheimer of Winnetka, tried to extort $150 from Paul Mencarini, operator of the Skokie inn, Willow and Hibbard roads, in a liquor violation case, were being investigated yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Robert Donigan.

The highway police raided Mencarini's resort last January and he was fined $200. Then Sinsheimer, according to Mencarini's complaint to Prosecutor Donigan, demanded "a yard and a half," asserting that he exerted influence in the state's attorney's office.

Mencarini demurred, he said, pointing out that he had been given the maximum fine, whereupon Sinsheimer is alleged to have responded:

"All right, next time you'll get some real heat." The raid by the federal agents followed, one month ago, and the case is pending in the federal court.

ARMY PREPARES FOR "WAR" AT SOLDIERS' FIELD

Mimic warfare will be waged daily at Soldiers' field from June 21 to June 29 and regular army units of the Sixth corps area will give an exposition of the present means of national defense. The occasion will be the military tournament, plans for which are now being made at corps headquarters.

Roaring cannon, rattling machine guns, smoke screens, lumbering tanks, and zooming airplanes will reënact the battle of Chateau Thierry. Participants will include the Second infantry from Fort Sheridan and Fort Wayne, the Third artillery from Fort Sheridan, the Fourteenth cavalry from Fort Sheridan, the Sixty-first anti-aircraft battery [recently transferred from Fortress Monroe], and a detachment of sailors from Great Lakes.

The Army Relief society will receive the proceeds of the show after expenses are paid. The society assists widows and orphans of the regular army personnel.

BERLIN, June 6.—(AP)—Berlin newspapers today announced the betrothal of hereditary Grand Duke George Donatus of Hesse, 23 years old, to 18 year old Princess Cecilie of Greece, daughter of Prince Andrew, whose brother, Prince Christopher, was the husband of the late Mrs. William B. Leeds. The grand duke is a relative of both the British royal family and the Hohenzollerns.

MAJ. GEN. FECHET ASKS $11,000,000 FOR AIR FIELDS

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—An $11,447,962 construction program at army air fields was recommended before the house military affairs committee by Maj. Gen. Fechet, chief of the army air corps, as a part of the war department's five year building schedule.

Acting Chairman Ransley of the committee immediately prepared a bill to carry out the recommendations. He said it would be introduced at once and taken up for action by the committee Tuesday.

Among the projects listed by Gen. Fechet were:

Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill.—Hangars, $87,000, completion of field shops, headquarters, photo and school buildings, $403,000; central heating plant, $50,000; airplane machine gun butts, $6,000; paved aprons, $51,000.

Scott field, Belleville, Ill.—Hangars, $189,000; field shops, $122,000; depot shops, $200,000; headquarters and operations buildings, $80,000; photo, radio, and parachute buildings, $82,000; school building, $150,000; central heating plant, $50,000; gas and oil storage, $10,000; paint, oil, and dope warehouse, $10,000; grading landing field and technical building area, $50,000; paved aprons, $51,000; gas plant machine shop and chemical storage building, $50,000; airplane machine gun butts, $1,500.

DR. GUTHRIE WINS VINDICATION IN CHURCH HEARING

Board Returns Finding in Congregational Row.

The advisory council of the associated Congregational churches of Chicago last night made public its findings in the hearing of charges brought against Dr. Ernest Graham Guthrie, director general of the Chicago Congregational Missionary and Extension society. Dr. Guthrie had been accused of using questionable tactics in forcing the resignation of the Rev. John Rushton Heyworth as pastor of the New England Congregational church, 19 West Delaware place.

The controversy arose over friction between two factions of the New England congregation, known as the minority and majority groups. The charges were brought by the minority group, which asserted that Dr. Guthrie allied himself with the opposing faction to create a "closed corporation" and to dominate church membership and the handling of its property.

Minority Makes Claims.

Dr. Guthrie was exonerated of the charges. But representatives of the minority group claimed that the findings justified their stand, pointing to the council's recommendation that no official of the City society be allowed to hold membership on a church board which they said amounted virtually to a request for Dr. Guthrie's resignation from the council of the New England church.

The council also recommended that all non-supporters and irregular worshipers in the church be dropped from the membership roll and that a number of applicants for membership who were turned down at a previous meeting be admitted to membership.

Council Control Denied.

The council also stated that the society which Dr. Guthrie heads, has no control over church property or over the internal affairs of the church.

While the council commended the record of the Rev. Heyworth, who resigned recently after being pastor five year, it expressed the belief that his resignation "has helped to solve a difficult situation."

EMPIRE AID WON WORLD WAR, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 6.—A week before the outbreak of the world war no responsible statesman in Europe believed that war was coming, according to David Lloyd George, speaking before the Imperial press conference today. The Liberal leader recalled that just before the deluge Gen. Jan Smuts said to him:

"During the last ten years you have recast the empire and put it on a basis which means equality, liberty and perpetual peace as the years roll on."

Mr. Lloyd George today sang a familiar refrain about Great Britain winning the war again—but with variations. He declared that it was the British empire which won the war.

RUSSIA PROMISES VACATIONS IN U.S. TO RED WORKERS

Seeks Way to Speed Up Industrial Program.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, June 5.—Vacations in America are being promised agitators who show the best results in speeding up the campaign to industrialize Russia, according to the Moscow Isvestia, which reports that a number of Ukrainian Reds will leave shortly for a six months' visit to American industrial centers. They are expected to explain to America the success of nationalized Russian industry and to spread propaganda for the recognition of the soviet government.

The session of the communist party congress which has just closed at Moscow revealed that Joseph Stalin still controls the party. A resolution was adopted ordering the leaders of the right and left sections of the party to apologize and acknowledge the success of his program.

Watch Situation in India.

The congress was warned by Deputy Commissar of war Budenny that the situation in India has increased the war danger and that the clouds on the soviet horizon are becoming darker. Budenny's resolution to increase Russia's armaments was passed unanimously.

Deputy Commissar Lossowsky, a member of the communist Internationale, reported that the Internationale's activities in India are showing results and that a new revolutionary movement, involving hundreds of millions of proletarians, is under way.

Commons Debates Propaganda.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 6.—The house of commons spent the last day before adjournment for the Whitsuntide holiday in a fruitless debate on Russian propaganda. Oliver Locker-Lampson, Tory diehard, wanted to know why the Labor government did not break off relations with Russia because of the alleged continuance of communist propaganda in England, which, he maintained, was a violation of the agreement made recently when diplomatic relations were restored. He got little support, even from his own side of the house.

29 Get Long Jail Terms.

KHARKOV, Russia, June 6.—(AP)—Twenty-nine defendants, nearly all government officials connected with the agricultural department, today were sentenced to from one to ten years' imprisonment on charges of economic counter revolution. They were charged with favoring the Kulaks, or rich peasants, directing their influence and authority toward weakening the collective farm movement, and imposing taxation burdens on the poor peasants.

BELCASTRO, ONE OF 28 'PUBLIC FOES,' IS SEIZED

James Belcastro, one of the 28 men listed by the Chicago Crime commission as public enemies, made his periodical visits to the detective bureau yesterday, but not willingly. Sergt. Joseph Meyers and his detective bureau squad saw Belcastro, who is described by the police as the head of a bombing gang, in an automobile at 22d street and Ashland avenue. His protests were of no avail and he spent the night in a cell.

Carmella Gueli and Joseph Fiannaca, who were slightly wounded last Saturday when they were with Philip Ignolfo, who was killed by gangsters on the south side, promised to get out of Chicago when they were released yesterday after six days' imprisonment.

Mrs. Henry A. Walther, 903 West Marquette road, reported the disappearance of her husband, who had served a year in the penitentiary for trying to bribe a juror in one of the Twentieth ward vote fraud trials. He received a mysterious telephone call and said he was going to Columbus, O., and would return with a "lapful of money," she told the police.

"They have in Turkey a drink called coffee. This drink comforteth the brain and heart and helpeth digestion."

TWO CHICAGOANS MADE KNIGHTS BY KING OF SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 6.—(AP)—King Gustav has conferred decorations upon several Americans and Swedish-Americans, it was announced today.

The Royal Order of Vasa, first class, with rank of knight has been given Dr. William Wetherle Lawrence, professor of English at Columbia university and a trustee of the American-Swedish-Scandinavian foundation. The Rev. Julius Lincoln, Chicago, executive secretary of the American Sons and Daughters of Sweden; the Rev. Anders Wilhelm Sundel of Boston, and Frank Ludwig Halmstedt, former Swedish vice consul in Salt Lake City.

The Royal Order of the North Star with rank of knight was given Dr. Karl Gustaf Lagergren, St. Paul, and Prof. Thor Rothstein, Chicago.

MISSING ST. LOUIS BANK SALESMAN $300,000 SHORT

St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—(AP)—An official of the First National company, investment division of the First National bank, tonight said a shortage of $300,000 in his accounts had been admitted by Frank L. Berryhill, sales manager of the company. The concern's attention to the shortage was directed by Sigmund Bass, Berryhill's attorney, to whom Berryhill made the admission before disappearing Saturday.

An audit of Berryhill's accounts was begun to determine the exact amount of misappropriation of securities turned over by customers to Berryhill for investment and safekeeping. The company was made liable through Berryhill's issuance of receipts bearing the company's signature.

NEWEST CRUISER WILL BEAR NAME OF MINNEAPOLIS

Will Be Constructed on Latest Design.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—One of the 10,000 ton cruisers to be constructed under new designs just completed by the navy department will be named Minneapolis, after the Minnesota metropolis, it was announced at the navy department today. Three other cruisers now under construction are to be christened New Orleans, Portland, and Astoria. The fifth cruiser of five has been named the Indianapolis. The Minneapolis will be constructed at Philadelphia navy yard.

Superior to Chicago Class.

Designed three years after the 10,000 ton cruiser, Chicago, was laid down, the Minneapolis, according to naval experts, will be a far superior fighting ship. Both vessels will have much the same armament, but the Chicago will be far more vulnerable to attack by 6 and 8 inch gun cruisers than the newer designed ship. Eight and possibly ten of America's 8 inch gun cruisers will be built according to the new design.

It was learned today that the Minneapolis will be around 580 feet in length, compared with something over 600 feet for the Chicago. The Minneapolis will have a rounded rather than a bulbous bow, of the Chicago type, one mast instead of two, nine 8 inch guns, and eight anti-aircraft and anti-destroyer guns. The Chicago type has nine 8 inch guns and may have eight anti-aircraft guns, although the earliest designed 8 inch gun cruisers had but four 5 inch anti-aircraft weapons. It will be somewhat heavier than the Salt Lake City and Chicago classes, with a speed of about 33 knots.

Built to Take Punishment.

The Minneapolis class marks an almost revolutionary change in Washington treaty cruiser design. They are built to "stay in and take it" on the battle line.

The Minneapolis class will have an ormor belt of at least four inches, will have protection over all vital spots, and will have as much as 6 inches of armor plate over the gun turrets. At normal battle ranges the 6 inch gun projectile will be stopped by the armor.

FATE OF DENEEN WORKER WILL GO TO JURY TODAY

The fate of John Pampinello, Deneen political worker in the 42d ward, who is on trial in Judge John P. McGoorty's criminal court for the murder of William H Slaughter, colored minister and Thompson political worker, will be in the hands of the jury today. When the case did not finish yesterday the judge ordered a session of court today and announced that he would work until the trial was completed.

Defense attorneys were not certain last night whether Pampinello would be a witness in his own behalf today. The testimony in his behalf yesterday was given by judges and clerks of the 19th precinct of the 42d ward, who said that Pampinello was in the polling place most of the day of March 11. None, however, could definitely say that he was in the polling place at the exact time that Slaughter was shot to death in a nearby alley.

HOOVER DENIES DATA ON TREATY TO SENATE BODY

Withholds It, He Says, in "Public Interest."

would only show that the American delegation served their country with zeal and success and were at the same time fair to their colleagues from other countries and sincerely desirous of promoting an agreement fair to all.

"But unfortunately a complicated negotiation such as this cannot be carried through without many, many private talks and discussions, man to man; many tentative suggestions and proposals. Delegates from other countries come and tell you in confidence of their troubles at home and of their differences with other countries and with other delegates; they tell you of what they would do under certain circumstances and would not do under other circumstances and some of these confidences necessarily get into confidential cables and reports.

Continuous Process, He Says.

"Now, if these reports and cables should become public or if the members of the American delegation should reveal these confidences on the witness stand who would ever trust an American delegation in another conference? This is a consideration which must particularly be kept in mind in disarmament conferences for as I have said already publicly many times, disarmament is a continuous process involving many steps and many conferences. The Lonodn conference is only one such step; many others must follow and it is especially important that the reputation of the American name for integrity and reliability shall be scrupulously preserved?"

In his letter to Borah Mr. Stimson pointed out that he and Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams have been examined at length by the committee and remarked that two members of the committee, Senators David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], and Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], who were members of the American delegation in London "are familiar with every phase of the negotiations from beginning to end and stand ready to make their knowledge available to interested members of your committee."

Points to Treaty Text.

"The question whether this treaty is or is not in the interest of the United States and should or should not be ratified by the senate must in the last event be determined from the language of the document itself and not from extraneous matters," Stimson added.

For precedents of the executive refusal of information Mr. Stimson went back to President Washington who "had a wise head in these matters as in all others." In 1796 Washington declined to transmit similar information to the senate, giving these reasons:

"The nature of foreign negotiations requires caution and for success must often depend on secrecy; even when brought to a conclusion a full disclosure of all the measures, demands, all eventual concessions which may have been proposed or contemplated would be extremely impolitic; for this might have a pernicious influence on future negotiation or produce immediate inconveniences, perhaps danger and mischief in relation to other powers."

Mr. Stimson said that Washington's views have been consistently followed by all subsequent presidents, the latest previous instance being that of the refusal of President Harding to furnish the senate with documents bearing on the negotiation of the four power treaty of 1922.

LIKELY TO ADOPT TARIFF REPORT OF CONFEREES

Senate Consents to Merge Two Sections.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Approval of the tariff conference report by the senate seemed probable today as a result of consent to merge the two sections of the report into one. The leaders had been fearful that there would not be enough votes for the approval of the flexible tariff section, although confident that the rate section would be accepted. By combintng the two it is expected that the report will be approved by the scant margin of one or two votes.

A cause of worry to the leaders, however, was a statement by Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], one of the regulars, that he was uncertain whether he would vote for the bill.

The senate granted consent to merge the two parts of the conference report at the request of Senator Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the finance committee. The second part of the conference report, which includes the flexible provisions as well as a number of rate items, was sent back to conference in order that the conferees might merge it with the other section, containing most of the rate paragraphs, which went back to conference yesterday when Vice President Curtis sustained a number of points of order.

SANTA FE ROAD PUTS SHOPMEN ON 5 DAY BASIS

Topeka, Kas., June 6.—(AP)—A 5 day week, effective immediately, for Santa Fe shop workers was announced today by Topeka officials of the company in line with the railroad's retrenchment and as a substitute for further reductions in force for the present. E. A. Goeldner, assistant to the general manager here, said it was his understanding the 5 day week would be general over the system. Employés of the Topeka Santa Fe shops will not report to work Saturday, but will return to their jobs on Monday.

SAFE DEPOSIT BOX YIELDS NONE OF GEM RING'S LOOT

A Chicago safe deposit box rented by Robert C. Nelson, alleged head of a Chicago and New York jewel theft ring, when opened yesterday yielded only a quantity of blank price tags and a cloth watch sack. Representatives of the state's attorney's office obtained access to the safety box after a search warrant was issued by Judge John Sbarbaro in the Felony court. The box was drilled open.

5 Years More Given Vets to Ask for Compensation

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—The time in which world war veterans may apply for compensation was extended from 1930 until 1935 under a bill signed today by President Hoover. Under the original act, veterans were required to file for compensation by 1928, but the time was extended to benefit those who had not sought to take advantage of the act.

COLLEGE PROFESSOR, WIFE, COMMUNISTIC ORGANIZER ARRESTED

Memphis, Tenn., June 6.—(AP)—The effort of a college professor of economics, his wife, and a communist district organizer to establish a local organization resulted in their arrest today on the nonbailable charge of threatened breach of the peace.

Horace B. Davis, professor at Southwestern college here, and Tom Johnson, who came here from Birmingham to aid organization efforts, were arrested in the midst of a conference with the police and other city officials.

Prof. Davis' wife, Mrs. Marion Davis, 31, was arrested soon afterward at her home. All were held incommunicado at the city jail tonight.

BAKERY IN GARY IS DYNAMITED ON OPENING DAY

Less than 24 hours after the opening of the new City Bakery and Blue Ribbon Dairy in Gary yesterday a dynamite bomb blew a hole in the roof, shattered the windows and terrified the neighborhood. There was nobody in the building and the damage was estimated at about $1,000.

The dynamite bomb was tossed to the roof of the one story building on Connecticut street between 15th and 16th avenues by two men who sped away in an automobile. Lbrob Rocoff, the proprietor, told police he knew of no reason for the bombing since he employed union labor and had no known personal enemies.

Doubt Doctor's Story About Treating 2 Wounded Men

Dr. Arthur F. Schuettler, a physician living at 3451 Bosworth avenue and a son of the late Police Chief Herman F. Schuettler, informed Sheffield avenue police last night that at 6 p. m., while driving home from his office, he saw two wounded men, accompanied by a woman, in a car which had been halted by traffic at Diversey parkway and Southport avenue. The physician said he gave the men first aid and directed the woman to drive them to the Alexian Brothers' hospital, where he promised to await them. After questioning a newsboy and a watchman who, according to Dr. Schuettler, had witnessed the incident, the police reached the conclusion that the physician was the victim of an hallucination.

GOING DOWN IN INDIANA.

Indiana Republicans in their state convention Thursday nominated Judge Thomas B. Coulter of Vincennes for judge from the First Supreme court district. In doing so they defeated Justice Benjamin M. Willoughby, the sitting judge, for renomination.

Justice Willoughby has been a notable judicial figure in Indiana's stormy and dirty politics because of his adherence to constitutional principles. He and two associates on the Indiana bench had endeavored, and with considerable success, to preserve the substance of fundamental law in spite of the dominance of the klan, the Anti-Saloon league, and the W. C. T. U., which in Indiana political action means hooded hoodlums, moralistic racketeers, and bonneted fanaticism.

The moralistic leadership in Indiana has been notorious for its cold blooded brutalities, its juvenile raptures, voodooistic excitements, and low standards of literacy and public service. Indiana people have been among the most wholesome folk in the country, but they apparently have been in a daze, victimized by vices offering themselves as virtues, and the politics of the state has been degraded until it is bogged on the lowest levels of democracy.

A governor, Warren T. McCray, was sent to the penitentiary for fraud; the head of the klan, David C. Stephenson, was sent to the penitentiary for murder, and the head of the Anti-Saloon league, the late E. S. Shumaker, was sent to the penal farm for contempt of court. These were the outcroppings of a social and political order in which night-shirted and masked ruffians rode the countryside bullying people in isolated homes, in which the prohibition priesthood bullied the courts and the shrewder of the renegade politicians found what comfort they could in what boodle they could get as compensation for beating the drums in the parade of moral humbug.

These elements of misrule, not being able to get such leaders as McCray and Stephenson out of jail, are trying to make amends by chasing reputable men such as Arthur Gilliom, former attorney general, out of office, and removing honorable and upright judges from the bench. Justice Willoughby's offense was that he served the law. He is defeated to revenge the men who tried to override it.

GRADE SEPARATIONS NOW.

On grade separations alone enough work is waiting to take up a large part of the unemployment in America, according to an authoritative estimate. The improvement of the nation's roads from an antiquated system unable to carry the peak loads or anything like them to a modern highway development must include widening and grade separations for all important arteries of travel. It is work waiting to be done. To do it now, during the slack period, will give the work a much increased value.

Work will be started on the separation of Dempster street and Milwaukee avenue west of Evanston within a few days. With this begun, it may be hoped other projects of the kind will be immediately undertaken. Delay on work of this kind is a dead loss in transportation that cannot be recovered. Delay also is a loss in economic timing and the adjustment of public construction to the business and employment needs of the nation.

For the workingman going to and from his work as well as for the Sunday tourist grade separations have become necessary to any efficient motor transportation. Millions of hours of working and rest time are lost weekly through blockades at the crossings. Four lane highways with separated crossings should be put in throughout the more traveled regions of the state and nation.

KINGS IN THE EARTH.

At Chiavourkale in far Anatolia the diggers have revealed a cyclopean wall where kings of the old Hittites, priests, goddesses, and girls walked in the afternoon and passed through the great gate into the temple. They are engraved hugely on the rock face there. The turrets on the walls five thousand years ago were crowded on great days with Hittite men and women watching the king go by.

Today the walls are buried in the sands of Asia Minor, the girls, and goddesses, and kings are gone, and the great Hittite nation, once a power of mighty consequence in the world, is a lost memory, a broken wall or so, a temple where prayers are said no more. In the cemetery of nations that lies over Asia Minor the nation of the Hittites is one of many dead.

The wheel, it is said, may have come from these people intruding into Asia from the north, and the hooked nose, some one more fancifully suggests, found its way into the inheritance of some Mediterranean peoples from this source. But the first proprietors of the hooked nose and of the wheel now are gone and know their works no more. These dead have become the quarry and the hunted ones wandering in the forests of the past, and only the scientific searcher knows how to find them.

These are the big game of modern times. Hunters of these days find their prey below the surface of the soil. A forgotten temple, a king in his sarcophagus, a buried language, a girl's comb and ornament—time is crowded with elusive game that modern sportsmen move to reveal. At Chiavourkale they dig Hittites from the earth, and five thousand years of death slowly is rolled away.

WHY THE HURRY WITH THE TREATY?

President Hoover gets divided counsels from his supporters in the senate as to the naval treaty. He is advised to press it in the present session, to give it to a special session, and to let it go over until next winter. He apparently is desirous of using the procedure which will give the quickest results in getting the consent of the senate.

There is no emergency requiring the immediate ratification of the treaty. The country is not threatened with war to be averted thus. It has nothing to lose by leisurely and careful examination of the agreement, its purpose, and all its circumstances. It will not be a worst treaty for such deliberation and consideration. The nation cannot suffer from a critical examination of all the facts and probabilities. There is no time limit upon it within which offered advantages must be taken or lost. There is a diversity of opinion regarding it, and of expert opinion the preponderance is against it. That justifies prudence and not haste.

If it is a tolerable treaty it will stand examination. So why the hurry?

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY (ALMOST).

M. Jules Cambon, French ambassador to Washington, to M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs:

"Cable No. 88.

"Washington, June 12, 1901.

"Following Lord Lansdowne's refusal to agree to the modifications made by the American senate to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, the relations between England and the United States seemed to have cooled. For the last few weeks, however, they seem to have recovered their closeness somewhat.

"England spares no efforts to please America. The Carnegies and the Morgans are received in London and at Windsor with a welcome to which the English papers give more publicity than even those of the United States.

"The dispatches of American correspondents in Europe, that is to say in London, are full of unfriendly insinuations regarding both Germany and France.

"Today it is being said that, after their sojourn in Canada, the duke and duchess of York will travel on their yacht from Halifax to Newport, summer resort of New York's '400.' If this is true the high society of this country will be as if intoxicated.

"Truth to tell, the Republican party which governs is the rich party, the most accessible to the seductions of English society—and Secretary Hay, honestly infatuated with the high connections he made in London, is more affected by it than any one. England knows his weaknesses and artfully plays upon them. In my hearing an American once gave thanks for the foresight of the authors of the constitution in forbidding titles of nobility. 'If it were otherwise,' he said to me, 'I believe that King Edward could reconquer this country with a few baronets' coronets.'

"It is evident that the difficulties experienced by the English government in upholding at the present time its interests in China and its desire to associate itself with America are the principal causes of its assiduous attentions."

How many changes would be necessary to bring the letter up to date?

WHY ADVERTISE FOR THE CHICAGOANS?

Michigan maintains a tourist bureau in Chicago to encourage Chicago residents to spend their vacations across the lake. As we understand it, the expenses of the bureau are paid in part by public funds voted for the purpose by the state legislature.

With this in mind, we read with considerable interest the editorial reprinted on this page under the caption "The Other Side." It would be remarkable, indeed, if the hostility shown by many of Michigan's office holders and newspapers toward Chicago and Illinois did not lead to a reciprocal feeling on the part of residents of this state. Some will be deterred from going to Michigan, and others who have gone will conclude that once is enough.

The Other Side

IN REGULAR FORM

[Grand Rapids (Mich.) Herald.]

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the World's Greatest Nuisance, throws another fit directed against the junior senator from Michigan, all because Senator Vandenberg opposes Chicago's schemes of excessive diversion of lake water for its own selfish ends. Of course, Chicago links arms with New York in the matter of the rivers and harbors bill, because both of these states have white elephants which they wish to sell to Uncle Sam. Illinois asks $7,500,000 from the federal treasury for its waterway and New York wants nearly twice that sum for the Erie canal. In both instances it is the desire to unload an expensive mistake of their own upon the people of the nation and at the same time to fatten their own depleted coffers.

Of course, not many take THE TRIBUNE seriously about anything. When one nurses the bottle as consistently as THE TRIBUNE does, almost any old kind of tremens may be expected; but THE TRIBUNE somewhat naively says: "If Illinois had not exhausted its available money, it (the canal) would have been built without federal aid." That's the story. Illinois, with treasury raped by grafters, gangsters, corrupt politicians and unwarned by an alcoholic TRIBUNE, would like to have the rest of the country build her canal and fatten her treasury for her. New York seeks the same sort of relief; so, of course, having a common interest, they fight side by side, even if by winning they destroy the one conceded best waterway project the nation has before it.

Of course, THE TRIBUNE endeavors to don the habit of the great public benefactor and points out what a great boon her pet treasury fattener will be to Michigan and the rest of the nation. Wouldn't it be wonderful if THE TRIBUNE would exert itself to keep its own back yard clean and let the senators from Michigan and elsewhere determine for themselves their own best interest?

MORE OF JAKE PARALYSIS.

THE Louisiana board of health thinks the poison which causes jake paralysis is cresylic acid. This is a name for commercial cresol. Peterson, Haines, and Webster say this is a mixture of three cresols, all poisonous in varying degree.

Cresol is derived from coal tar. Among cresol products in general use are: Lysol, tricresol, and compound solution of cresol. The Louisiana people think this, in the form of tricresol-phosphate, is added to jake because it does not burn the stomach much, it does not smell strongly of creosote, and when the drink is mixed with water it takes on a milky appearance similar to that of a good quality of Jamaica ginger. The charge is made that the manufacturers used alcohol denatured with tricresol-phosphate, because its appearance was deceptive, it burned no more than ginger was expected to do, and the odor and taste did not reveal the poison. They base their opinion that it is poisonous on one report in medical literature of neuritis due to cresylic acid, and many other reports of severe and sometimes fatal poisoning due to lysol, cresol, and other coal tar chemicals. The evidence is not conclusive and we await further proof.

In Harris' book on "Neuritis and Neuralgia" fifteen chemicals are given as being capable of causing neuritis. Alcohol is in the list, but cresylic acid and the cresols are not. Thirty-two diseases and infections are listed as causing it. Among them are beriberi, scurvy, and various virus diseases of the encephalitis group. We may have to turn around considerably before we finally decide what is the agent in jake other than the grain alcohol which is capable of causing jake paralysis. Meanwhile, careful people will not buy fluid extract of Jamaica ginger, and mothers will prevent their children from having diarrhea, since they dare not use fluid extract of Jamaica ginger as a cure.

Harris offers hope to those with this form of neuritis. Most of them can expect to get well. As much as two years may be required to undo the work of one day's indulgence in jake. He advises light massage, passive motion, and mild use of the affected muscles. Overuse will do far more harm than good. Galvanic electricity may help. Physicians give hypodermic injections of strychnine in pretty fair sized doses.

RECURRING KIDNEY STONES.

A reader writes: Please tell me what you think of this case. A young lady in her twenties had a large stone taken out of her kidney. A few weeks after she came home X-rays showed one in the other kidney [at the time the first stone was taken out none showed in the other kidney]. In a few months she had the second stone removed and after she was home a few weeks another stone formed in the first kidney and she has to have it taken out. Do you think when she has this one taken out another will form in the second kidney again? She has been on a diet and drinks spring water, but it doesn't seem to do any good. She has had these three inside of ten months.

REPLY.

I think she is in a pretty bad way. This cannot go on indefinitely. Have these stones been analyzed? A diet to prevent kidney stones should be based on analyses of stones removed or, failing that, repeated analyses of urine. The diet which prevents one type of stone might promote another type.

TREATING MORPHINE ADDICT.

Constant Reader writes: In a case where a mother, about 30, has become addicted to morphine through sickness, and cannot leave home, would a capsule of part quinine and part morphine [gradually withdrawing morphine] be of any benefit in overcoming the habit?

REPLY.

Probably not. The gradual withdrawal plan is not effective. Particularly is this true when the addict is not being watched. When the drug hunger comes he always fudges.

KIDS MAY PLAY ON WALK.

Chicago, June 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I should like to know what the rights of a property owner are regarding the sidewalk in front of his house. In our block children are chased away by the various owners and janitors. Surely one can't expect the children to play out in the street. Will you kindly tell me where children have a legal right to jump, romp, etc.? M. I. W.

LAUNDRY STEAM AT NIGHT.

Chicago, June 3.—[Friend of the People.]—Across the alley from my home is a wet wash laundry. Before going home in the evening the engineer shovels a lot of coal in the boiler so as to keep a good fire for the next morning. During the evening we are annoyed by the blowing off of steam which occurs intermittently from about 7 to 12 o'clock. We made a complaint last September and for a time the nuisance stopped, but now the blowing off of steam annoys us again.

Will you kindly use your best efforts to have this stopped? I. K.

A complaint contained in the attached correspondence relative to a nuisance of smoke from the chimney attached to laundry has been investigated by this department.

Our engineer instructed the fireman in the proper method of firing this boiler smokelessly. The complainant also advised our engineer that the principal source of nuisance was excess noise due to blowing of safety valves during the night hours. The owner of the laundry has been requested to operate the boiler so as to eliminate the blowing of safety valves.

The department will continue to follow this matter up until the nuisance complained of is abated.

TWO ARMIES.

"We have recently had in London a body of American travelers, not self-invited, with their minds occupied by thoughts of society reporters or fashionable dressmakers, but American mothers making their pilgrimage to the graves of their sons who fell in France."—Ambassador Charles Gates Dawes.

Through the streets of old London city
Two armies now frequently pass;
One is gazed at in pity,
The other has money and class.

These in deep mourning are clad,
Those are in fashion's array;
These have hearts that are sad,
Those have hearts that are gay.

These, walking slow and forlorn,
Weep for their boys who went West;
Those have been spared sorrow's thorn,
And smile in their dressmaker's best.

These in deep mourning are clad,
Those are in fashion's array;
These have hearts that are sad,
Those have hearts that are gay.

These come their sorrow to lave,
Those to be talked of and known;
These come to kneel at a grave,
And those to bow to a throne.

These in deep mourning are clad,
Those are in fashion's array;
These have hearts that are sad,
Those have hearts that are gay.

A HEAVY RAINSTORM is bad enough, but when it comes as this one does right in the middle of house cleaning time and cuts off the escape to the ball park and the golf links and the auto ride in the country, it's just a public nuisance, that's all.

NOW, AS REGARDS the proposed traction ordinance which we are going to vote on July 1st, we think—or rather we did think that until we read some of the statements brought out on the other side. So now we think—wait! We have just read some more things, and so we think—well, we just think and think.

DAVIDA.

Said Henry to Dan'l.

Old Joe Grundy said his primary campaign in Pennsylvania set him back just $382,250.00. "Goodness!" said the shade of Henry Clay to the ghost of Daniel Webster, "they called me the Mill Boy of the Slashes, and when I ran for senator I didn't have anything but a stone bruise and a pair of suspenders." "You or I would have a fat chance of running for that job now," observed Mr. Webster. "Why, the way things are going down there today, you or John Calhoun or Abe Lincoln or any of us boys couldn't run for keeper of the dog pound." "That's right," agreed Mr. Clay. "Guess things have changed."

SOMETHING SENTIMENTAL.

Laugh at life and laugh at love
And you'll find the world a joy.
So my mother taught me
When I was a little boy.

I laughed at life and laughed at love,
And lived not for tomorrow,
Until one day life showed me love
Trailing the robes of sorrow.

And wondered how my mother
Could have taught me just one way
With no hint of any other.

But soon I learned that laughter hides
The heart that breaks, the tears that fall.
And in teaching me to laugh at life
My mother taught me all.

GOOD MEDICINE, BUT DANGEROUS

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 7, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It was ordered that counsel for the defense in the trial of the Lincoln assassins, when the testimony closes, shall submit written arguments. Judge Holt announced there would be no departure from the set custom. It is probable that the testimony will not be closed until Friday. Most of today's testimony was taken up with an attempt to discredit the government witness, Thomas, whose testimony against Dr. Mudd, if received with credit, would go far toward convicting the prisoner.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—On the recommendation of Gens. Grant and Logan, Col. George Gogors of the 15th Illinois veterans' volunteers of Chicago has been brevetted a brigadier general for meritorious service in the late campaign through South Carolina and Georgia.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Voting today on the new constitution has been attended by some of the most flagrant cases of perjury on the part of notorious rebel sympathizers. Among others who voted is the Rev. S. P. Anderson, who has been convicted of disloyalty. The probability is that by the help of this perjury a majority of several thousand has been given against the constitution.

CHICAGO.—Those who visited Driving park yesterday were gratified by the best contested and fastest races ever trotted in Chicago.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Maj. Gen. Hovey received a dispatch in cipher from the President announcing a change in the original sentences of Bowles, Milligan, and Horsey. It became known that the sentences have been commuted to life imprisonment at hard labor.

JUNE 7, 1900.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—After going through the pangs of dissolution, congress revived under the galvanic treatment administered by "Uncle Joe" Cannon and the spectators in the gallery who had gathered to witness the last rites left in disgust on discovering the session might last for days. The difference between house and senate is over the naval appropriation bill.

ST. LOUIS.—A Joan of Arc came to 5,000 street car strikers in the person of Miss Maud Thomas, 17 year old daughter of a union motorman. For half an hour she harangued a mob, urging the excited laborers to the extremes of violence for the sake of crushing the transit company. Little hope is now felt for a settlement this week.

COLUMBUS, O.—Admiral Dewey and his party arrived here and while they did not bring the admiral's presidential boom with them, as the admiral is making the visit purely as a war hero, statement was made that the boom is still in existence and the latch string is on the outside.

LONDON.—The outrages of the Boxers in China are rapidly being lost sight of in the sudden development of a serious political phase of the far eastern crisis. There is no doubt that Russia is trying to induce China to formally request Russian assistance in quelling the disturbance. It is certain that Japan is regarding Russia's offer as distinctly hostile.

JUNE 7, 1920.

CHICAGO.—On the Sunday before the G. O. P. national convention, candidates, managers, committeemen and delegates were swimming in a sea of doubt concerning who will get on the ticket. The episode of Mayor Thompson and his tossing up of the sponge for national committeeman when a count of noses showed he would be defeated was held to have strengthened Gov. Lowden, who has made a bitter fight against Thompsonism. Hiram Johnson is ready to show that his radicalism is not as radical as painted. Gov. Sproul's candidacy has taken on sudden life under the leadership of Gen. W. W. Atterbury. Gen. Wood's headquarters was the busiest place in town.

CHICAGO.—Charles C. Dietrich, a business man, was shot to death by a policeman who mistook him for a robber.

WALTER FISHER DEFINES HIS ROLE.

Chicago, June 6.—My attention has been called to a letter from Mr. Frederick T. Kuhn, which you published on June 5, discussing my professional relationship with respect to the traction ordinance. The substance of that letter is contained in the following quotation:

"His [my] duty—like that of the court which appointed him—was to get the best results he could for the private interests in the care of the court. . . . The misfortune for the public is that Mr. Fisher did not represent the city, for, had he been counsel for the city, you may be sure the public interests would have been fully safeguarded, though the companies, ably represented as they were, would have gotten, no doubt, all they were entitled to expect."

Mr. Kuhn is laboring under a complete misapprehension as to the character of my employment and as to the proper function of a court of equity in which receivers have been appointed for a public utility property involved in negotiations between its private owners and the representatives of the public with respect to the extension or renewal of the right of the company to operate in the public streets after its grant to operate has expired by limitation. It is settled law that while a public utility may be private property it is property impressed with a public interest to which private rights are inherently subordinate, and it is the right and duty of a court of equity to protect the public interest as well as the private interests involved. The court will undoubtedly recognize that it is to the interest of the private owners and claimants upon the property in its custody to have the expired right of operation renewed upon terms that will be just and fair to these private interests, but it will not be the duty or the disposition of the court to seek to have these terms unjust or unfair to the public. It can and should see that both are protected. This at least is my conception of the duty of a court of equity, and I know of no authority to the contrary.

At all events, it is my conception of my own duty as a lawyer and as a citizen when I am asked to act as special counsel for such a court in such a situation. When I was asked by Judge Wilkerson to participate in the pending traction negotiations it was explicitly understood that I was to be absolutely independent in forming and expressing my personal judgment as to the terms which I thought should be incorporated in the ordinance and as to the justice and fairness of the result. I have assumed that the court thought it would be to the advantage of the property in its custody to have the ordinance as nearly just and fair to both the public and the private interests involved as was practically possible, and I have consistently acted upon that assumption.

I have assumed that the court was not unmindful of the fact that no ordinance that did not adequately protect the public interests would be likely to meet the approval of the people in the referendum vote that is essential to its validity, and that no ordinance that did not adequately protect the private interests would be acceptable to the court when it was asked to approve the purchase of the property in its custody by a reorganization committee acting under the ordinance.

Such a professional relationship as I occupy in this matter may be unusual, but I would have accepted the employment on no other terms, and I was not asked to do so. In my written report already made to Judge Wilkerson on the new ordinance I have clearly stated the absolutely independent position which I have consistently maintained.

WALTER L. FISHER.

THE LAKE CARRIERS' ASSOCIATION.

Chicago, June 3.—The assertion that the Lake Carriers' association is dominated by the steel corporation cannot be denied. Many of the vessel owners in the association are members through necessity due to certain peculiar circumstances and conditions connected with the lake trade. The late Henry Coulby, speaking as president of the Pittsburgh Steamship company, the steel corporation's lake subsidiary, several years ago made this significant statement which still holds true: "Without a spirit of egotism, I may say that the Pittsburgh Steamship company has got to be the voice and the other fellow the echo."

The members of our organization have been astonished at Mr. Newton Baker's connection with the Lake Carriers' association. It has been a source of wonderment to union seamen to find Mr. Baker, who long posed as a liberal and was an eloquent expounder of the Wilsonian doctrines of the rights of humanity a few years ago, appearing before a senate committee recently and with marvelous eloquence upholding the anti-social twelve hour day and other evils imposed upon seamen by the Lake Carriers' association.

O, DIDN'T YOU KNOW!

Chicago, June 4.—In one of our leading Chicago department stores I notice a placard telling the public to send Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh a baby birth congratulation card. Will some one please enlighten me when all this happened, if it did, and, if not, why are some people so previous with their congratulations?

ONE OF THE PUBLIC.

A PRETTY WIT.

Chicago, June 3.—The court of St. James's has dispensed with the court jester because no doubt King George and Queen Mary get a real chuckle out of American women who leave nothing undone to obtain permission to curtsey before them. HENRY REINACH.

TWENTY CENTS FOR LUNCH.

Chicago, June 2.—The article written by an official of the Y. W. C. A. and printed in your paper yesterday regarding the $20 a week wage for a working girl who is self-supporting seems to me to be entirely unfair. Do you suppose that woman ever tried to live for an extended period on a 20 cents a day lunch? Once in a while when one doesn't feel very well a 20 cent lunch may satisfy, but as a daily diet it seems impossible for a girl to work, be healthy and happy and not be hungry if all she eats at noon is 20 cents' worth. In no time such a girl would be undernourished and ailing, with doctor bills to pay which would more than offset the saving on lunches. HELEN ROTH.

SEEK RELEASE OF CHICAGO PRIEST HELD BY CHINESE

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—Consul General Lockhart at Hankow advised the state department today that he had requested the Honan authorities to use every possible means to obtain the release of the Rev. Clifford J. King, an American missionary of the Society of the Divine Word of Techny, Ill. Mr. King was captured by bandits on June 1 between Loshane and Chengyang, near Tungchung. Mr. Lockhart said no further details were known.

State department records showed today that 305 Americans are in the Tsinan-fu district, where Shansi troops are concentrating along the northern bank of the Yellow river. Of the Americans in the district, 87 are men, 129 women, and 89 children.

Rebels Occupy U. S. Mission.

SHANGHAI, June 6.—The Yangtse valley situation continues to develop more seriously for Nanking with the southern rebels rapidly advancing into the valley.

Changsha is occupied by 3,000 Kwangsi troops, who have established their headquarters in the American Bible society center, one of the biggest foreign mission compounds in the city. The rebel movement apparently is split into three columns, one heading for Shasi, a big opium center on the upper Yangtse river; another is heading for Wuchang and Hankow, while the third, Gen. Ka-Kwei's "Ironsides," are advancing into Kiangsi province with Kiukiang as the objective. The "Ironsides" are collecting communist allies.

Reinforce Hunan Leader.

Hanking is reported to have ordered troops to oppose the "Ironsides" on the Kiangksi border and to have dispatched a few reinforcements to strengthen the forces of Gen. Ho Chien, Hunan commander, who has retreated northward. But these Nanking troops are said to be inefficient and the Hankow authorities are unable to spare any troops from the defense of the city.

A new defense line has been set up 20 miles southwest of Wuchang, where a stand is likely to be made, but Hankow is reported to be panicky as thousands of refugees are streaming into the city and adding to the apprehension.

In the north the Hanking government continues to hold Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, although Shanshi troops are near the city. The greatest feeling of apprehension exists there, as Tsinan possesses a fairly large foreign community and it is feared the city may be caught between the two opposing forces if Nanking insists on holding it against the northern advance.

Americans Leave Changsha.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 6.—American and British ministers in China have advised their nationals to evacuate the Chinese battle zones. Nelson T. Johnson, American minister to Peiping, who is now in Hankow making a personal investigation of the situation in central China, stated that Americans are leaving Changsha, as well as other points in the interior of Honan, Kiangsi, and Hupei provinces and concentrating in Hankow.

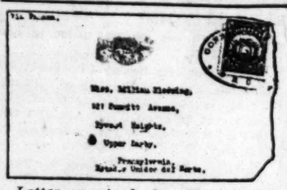
INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.

FROM ORURO, BOLIVIA



Letter received by Mrs. Lillian Blessing Larson, Earlville, Ill.

"Mr. Carl H. Wintersteen is the sender of this letter," Mrs. Larson writes. His address is Acacio, Charcas, Bolivia, but I notice this particular letter was mailed from Oruro. Acacia is near San Pedro, which is a town of more importance.

"Mr. Wintersteen is a missionary among the Indians and Spanish speaking natives of the Bolivian mountains. He is teacher, preacher, colporteur, and even doctor on occasion, having taken a medical course at the Jefferson hospital in Philadelphia. He is a native Pennsylvanian.

"Mr. Wintersteen has a class of young men around 20 years of age who previously could neither read nor write and who were strangers to the combination of soap and water. He leads a rather thrilling life, as he is constantly in danger. He has been shot at by the natives and is always in danger of arrest because of ignorance and misunderstanding on the part of the local government. Once he nearly died of yellow fever.

"The llama and the donkey are still beasts of burden down there. In order to reach Bolivia Mr. Wintersteen went to Lima, Peru, and then by muleback across the mountains. It is interesting to note that when a peasant has hogs ready for market, instead of shipping them he puts a sort of sandal on their hoofs and walks them 30 miles or more to market.

"Llames from the high plateau, where it is so cold they can grow no grain, bring salt to the lower regions to be exchanged for corn and wheat. They travel about six miles a day, feeding along the mountainside the rest of the time. The round trip often takes six months. I have a number of interesting snapshots, such as natives baking and weaving and trains of llamas."

Oruro is the capital of the Bolivian department bearing its name. Tin, copper, and silver are found in considerable quantities in this region. The town is connected with the port of Antofagasta, Chile, by rail.

PROF. EINSTEIN HAS NEW THEORY REGARDING SPACE

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 6.—(AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein, famed for his much discussed theory of relativity, in his first lecture in England tonight at University college, informed the audience of scientists he had been working on a new idea regarding space. The idea, which he said came to him while he was ill in bed, was this:

"If one considers two elements in space, one compares them so far only as regards size. But there is a further element which comes into it that might give the clew and it is this: You can also compare those two elements in the matter of direction.

"Space will have to be regarded as a primary and matter derived from it as a secondary result. That is to say, 'space has now turned around and it is eating up matter. Space is now having its revenge."

Apparently referring to his relativity theory, Dr. Einstein said his colleagues were not in agreement with him on certain points and many of them even thought he was crazed.

"Nevertheless," he said, "I have faith in the path I am traveling and, although my theory is not yet finished, I have evidence that so far as I can judge the end is near."

NEW LOCKS IN SENATE BLDG. TO BALK PROWLERS

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—New locks were installed in the senate office building today as the result of a number of nocturnal ransackings of senators' offices.

Senator McKellar complained recently that his office had been looted. Then Senators Smoot and Brock protested similarly and were joined shortly by Senator Johnson, who said his "private, personal correspondence" had been ransacked.

There are in all 320 bright new locks, costing about $1,080.

HARD-SOFT LARGE-SMALL CORNS

Out To Stay Out—Roots and All Magic Oxygen Salts Bath Never Fails. No More Burning, Aching Feet.

No matter how many corns you have or how painful they are—soak your feet for 15 minutes in a delightfully soothing and revitalizing Radox footbath for 3 or 4 nights—then lift corn and callouses right out—roots and all, and they won't come back, either, unless you wear shoes again which aggravate your feet.

No cutting or digging is required because Radox liberates oxygen which softens hard outer layers of corns, each night penetrating the pores further and further, carrying the salts right to roots of corns which are so loosened they can be lifted out bodily.

Your feet are made strong—healthy—vigorous—hard skin on heels and toes goes also.

All good drug stores are stocked with Radox—if they aren't, insist upon their ordering it if you want to experience great foot-joy and comfort.

MOTORISTS FACE 12 DETOURS ON MAIN HIGHWAYS

But Many Important Jobs Are Lagging.

BY HAL FOUST.

Twelve detours will be encountered on main automobile routes in the metropolitan area this week end. The detours are for construction work, but the Chicago motorists will find no trace of concrete mixers on sites of some of the most important highway improvements promised by the state and by Cook county for this year.

The detours are an inconvenience for week-end motorists, but they are temporary annoyances. More aggravating to drivers' tempers are the blockades on narrow pavements where widening has been promised and delays at intersections where grade separations are needed. Neither the state nor Cook county has made impressive progress in getting its 1930 building program under way, although paving weather has been here for weeks.

A summary of the detours follows:

Illinois Route 60, Rand road—Closed between River road and Euclid avenue. Traffic is directed south on Graceland avenue in Des Plaines to the Northwest highway, northwest on the Northwest highway to Euclid avenue, then east to Rand road.

U. S. Route 20 and 12, Standard avenue and Dickey place, route to the Dunes highway—Closed to through traffic between Forsythe avenue in Whiting and Guthrie avenue in Gary. Traffic is directed to not turn east on 119th street in Whiting, but to continue south on Forsythe avenue in East Chicago, 5 miles to Michigan avenue in Hammond, east on Michigan avenue to 5th avenue in Gary, thence east on 5th avenue to the Dunes highway.

Illinois Route 6, Roosevelt road—Closed at the Salt Creek, approximately three-quarter mile east of Mannheim road. Traffic is directed one block south over paved subdivision streets.

Illinois Route 5, Lake street—Closed between 9th avenue and Thatcher avenue. Traffic is directed south on 9th avenue to Madison street, east on Madison street to Thatcher avenue, then north on Thatcher avenue to Lake street.

Washington boulevard — Closed between Thatcher avenue and Lathrop avenue. Traffic is directed south on Thatcher avenue to Washington avenue, east on Washington avenue to Lathrop avenue, then north on Lathrop avenue to Washington boulevard.

Illinois Route 21, Milwaukee avenue—Closed between Touhy avenue and Half Day. Traffic is directed north on Waukegan road to Illinois route No. 22, west on route No. 22 to Milwaukee avenue, route 21.

Dearborn street—Closed between Elm street and Burton place. Traffic is directed west on Superior to Clark street, north on Clark street to North avenue, east on North avenue to Dearborn street.

Touhy avenue—Closed between Orleando avenue and Park Ridge. Traffic is directed south over Village street to east limits of Park Ridge.

Illinois Route 59—Closed between Volo and Ingleside. Traffic is directed north from Ingleside, then northwest over county roads to Grand avenue.

Harlem avenue—Closed between North avenue and Wellington street. Traffic is directed east on North avenue to Sayre street, north on Sayre street to Grand avenue, west on Grand avenue to 72d court, north on 72d court to Wellington street, then east on Wellington street to Harlem avenue.

96th avenue—Closed between 183d street and Lincoln highway. Traffic is directed west on 143d street to Wolf road, south on Wolf road to Lincoln highway, then east on Lincoln highway to 96th avenue.

123d street—Closed between Kean avenue and Harlem avenue. Traffic is directed south on Kean avenue to 131st street, east on 131st street to Harlem avenue, and then north on Harlem avenue to 123d street.

The summary was prepared by the central traffic bureau. The bureau also reported that the repair of the Mannheim road viaduct over the Chicago and North Western tracks between Lake street and the St. Charles road has been delayed for two months, awaiting construction of iron parts for replacement. In the meantime the viaduct will be open to traffic.

NEW AIR LINE TO CONNECT CHICAGO WITH COLUMBUS

Chicago will be linked with Dayton and Columbus, O., by a new airplane passenger service to be inaugurated Monday by the Continental Airways, Inc., an announcement by the company stated yesterday. Rail connections will be provided at all terminals, according to A. N. Anderson, president.

Connections will be made at Columbus with Pennsylvania trains to Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, Washington, Atlantic City, and intermediate points. Similar connections will be made for westbound passengers to Chicago. Travelair cabin monoplanes will be used in the service.

According to the schedule planes will leave Chicago at 2:45 p. m., standard time, arriving in Dayton at 6:15 and Columbus at 7:05, eastern standard time. Westbound planes will leave Columbus at 8:05 a. m. and Dayton at 8:55 a. m., eastern time, arriving in Chicago at 10:25, standard time.

GERTRUDE FISHER, ARTIST, SEEKS TO DIVORCE MATE

Mrs. Gertrude Helen Fisher, 26 years old, 1100 North Dearborn street, Chicago artist, yesterday filed a bill for divorce in the Superior court against Ellis Fisher, said to be the stepson of Alex Parker, retired millionaire manufacturer of Philadelphia, Pa. The bill, drawn by Attorney Barratt O'Hara, charges cruelty.

Mrs. Fisher avers that her husband frequently climbed out their apartment window, hung to the sill, and cried out that he was going to kill himself. At first she rescued him, she avers, only to be abused for not letting him drop. Later, according to the bill, she left him hang, to have him return to the apartment when his arms tired and berate her for her indifference. The Fishers were married last Oct. 10 and separated April 23. She asks for the custody of their baby daughter, Helen.

Heroine Tells Her Own Story! What a Book

Margaret Anderson Gayly Applauds Herself.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"My Thirty Years War," by Margaret Anderson. [Covici Friede.]

To me the most amusing book of the spring thus far is Margaret Anderson's autobiography. For the person interested in books and the people who write them it has snapshots taken through the lens of a mind that is the most egocentric that literature or its labors has produced during this generation.

And that mind itself is alluring beyond words—amusingly alluring—for its very ego-eccentricity. Any one or anything which did not immediately touch it simply did not exist for it. It had no perspective. It had only sensitiveness.

Margaret Anderson, the recorder of the life of Margaret Anderson, "the great literary figure of her day," as she tacitly labels her on every page, is, up to a certain point, perfectly frank. There is nothing more alluring than watching a human being take itself apart to see how it ticks, if that human being is really interested in how the wheels go round.

And there is nothing more amusing than watching a human being trying to make the tick-tock sound like Big Ben. The little Jack Horner complex is, under those circumstances, a joy to the beholder.

That heroine could—and did—accept from strangers and friends the ordinary fundamental necessities of keeping food in the tum, but she couldn't be bothered or so cheapen herself as to labor for it. She could use her charm to batter into the offices of Wall street men and ask them to subscribe to the Little Review (not take a subscription, which is something else again), but she couldn't do it more than once or really do the systematic grind of really trying to get subscriptions. The heroine of "My Thirty Years' War" is an absolutely priceless personality that is set forth so naïvely or so cleverly (one wonders which) that she makes fictional heroines pale by comparison.

The book is remarkable as the record of an enthusiasm—that is, it is remarkable as long as the enthusiasm lasted. The latter part of the book is nothing but a catalogue of well known names and brief and not too pointed words about them. About Jane Heap, co-editor of the Little Review, she writes at great length and, it seems to me, very badly. She proclaims that Jane Heap had the most brilliant mind that she had ever encountered and the bitterest, most skillful tongue. But the recording of the words of that brilliant mind and that bitter tongue is disappointing.

The words, as set down by Margaret Anderson, do not rank as superlatives. Jane Heap did have, in the days of the Little Review, what Bacon called "dry light" and which he said was ever the best—that cold, clear mind that dug at the roots of everything. She also had a tongue that was sharpened at both ends and on both sides. Margaret Anderson doesn't do her justice.

But it isn't the persons in the book, but the one person—the heroine—that makes it entrancing. Such a heroine would make any novel top the best seller fiction list. Don't miss her!

"WHY WE HAVE POET LAUREATE" EXPLAINED BY FRANK SWINNERTON

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. —[Special Correspondence.] — To Americans it probably seems a very strange notion to have a poet laureate at all; and many Englishmen would have been glad to see the post abolished. But it seems that the present prime minister has "very strong feelings" upon the subject, and this will sufficiently account for John Masefield, the successor to Dr. Robert Bridges.

JOHN MASEFIELD. [From portrait by Jerome Blum.]

The position is a queer one. In old days it was the duty of the laureate to contribute poems upon state occasions, but Dr. Bridges changed all that.

The most cruel as well as the most direct summary of the chances of the poets was contributed by Low, the cartoonist to the Evening Standard. He drew a group of candidates waiting outside Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's door while an early comer recites a poem to the prime minister within. The candidates shown by Low range from Mr. Kipling to Miss Sitwell and Humbert Wolfe, passing by Mr. Masefield and Mr. Drinkwater en route.

Low, by the way, has just stood his trial—a mock trial—for "libeling politicians." He was prosecuted by A. P. Herbert, defended by Philip Guedalla, and judged by Pett Ridge.

The proceeds of the "trial," which was held at the London School of Economics, went to the King Edward's hospital fund for London, and the accused was induced to make drawings of various celebrated politicians in his own defense. In addition to these caricatures he made an unkind drawing of his accuser—Mr. Herbert. Afterwards the drawings were auctioned, still for the benefit of the charity, and, starting at a pound apiece, rose to thirty-five shillings before being knocked down.

There are to be other "prosecutions" of equal interest. Among the more interesting will be one in which the acting editor of the London Daily Express (Beverly Baxter) will be charged by the editor of the Week-end Review (Gerald Barry) with "underrating the public taste." In this case the judge will be Hugh Walpole.

Subsequently J. B. Priestley is to be charged by Harold Nicolson with "making a vast success with a healthy book."

"Charming Chap, Likes Little, Bitter Cigars."

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—By way of luggage Mr. and Mrs. Sam Love are taking with them to Ecuador a 27 foot cruiser, which is to carry them up South American waterways, and subsequently loom important in the story of the adventure.

ERICH MARIA REMARQUE.

On Tuesday the cruiser was christened alongside the liner Santa Teresa, with dramatic ceremonies, wreaths descended from the sky, parachuted from the planes of Capt. N. Newton Lancaster and Mrs. Keith Miller, British flyer; the customary christening fluid, 'twas whispered, was concealed amid the flowers. A reception aboard the liner followed, and now, having collected his literary party in advance, Sam Love has nothing to do but cruise some thousands of perilous miles and write the book. Before Mr. Love turned explorer he was on the staff of the United Press.

A collector in a big way is Erich Remarque, author of "All Quiet on the Western Front." He has assembled $20,000 advance on American publication rights and $100,000 on the picture rights of his new novel—not a line of which is as yet written.

Remarque is a naïve, charming fellow with a penchant for little bitter cigars, according to Horace Liveright, who stepped off the Aquitania last week with a budget of European news—Mr. Liveright partied with the descendants of Ibsen, Greig, and Bjornson in Oslo—in London saw George Moore, now recovered from his illness and out of the hospital, and George Bernard Shaw, whose biography by Frank Harris is soon to be issued by the house of Liveright. The debonair publisher brought back for his fall list J. Arthur Thompson's "Everyday Phenomena," a popular science book for grown-ups, and for children a series of science books edited by Julian Huxley, brother of Aldous—but he didn't bring back any fiction.

The Atlantic ocean returned to the happy distractions of New York this week Sophie Cleugh, author of "Song Bird," who once told us her idea of heaven, "A prison cell with a typewriter and plenty of copy paper," Mrs. Cleugh now deletes "prison cell" and substitutes "the charming Isle of Wight," where she had a cottage this winter with just the right degree of solitude, her Pekingese, James, for company during working hours, and for evening sociability her next door neighbor, William Makepeace Thackeray's granddaughter.

Julia Peterkin is in town for a few weeks. The new novel is only half done—"It will be finished next year—or maybe not for five years."

Blair Niles has a New York apartment with a balcony whereon, in a red bathing suit, she writes and courts the sun.

Revised Guide Books.

Brand new up to tomorrow editions of Baedecker's "Rome and Central Italy" and "Northern Italy, Including Florence," and "London and Its Environs" are just off the press. An appendix to the London guide consists of many plans of London, so many that with them you needn't ever be lost in that baffling maze.

About Pretty Secretaries.

"The Office Wife," by Faith Baldwin [Dodd-Mead], is a keen study of the delicate relationship between an attractive secretary and her employer [male], and its title is one of those inspired things of literature.

Boston Still Giving Tea Parties in Big Way, This Discloses

BY DALE WARREN.

BOSTON, Mass.—[Special Correspondence.]—Two time honored traditions were shattered here lately. The first was that Boston cannot throw a good literary party. The second was that a prophet is without honor in his home town.

In the midst of a downpour which soaked the streets and drenched the parched New England hillsides, some sixty newspaper men, publishers, booksellers, and freelance writers burst through the unsuspecting doors of the Cocoanut Grove and extended the glad hand of congratulation to Katharine Brush, petite, modest author of "Young Man of Manhattan."

The inside of a night club is no novelty to Miss Brush, whose literary future was assured when the editors of Harper's first read her short story, "Night Club," in manuscript. "I venture to say she never before witnessed a scene quite like that luncheon. The only thing to suggest that it was noon rather than midnight was the absence of the caged monkey, long familiar to the habitues of the Grove.

Miss Brush decided quite suddenly to come on from New York for the opening of the screen version of her novel.

What Katharine Brush knows about the inside of a newspaper office, and no one who has read her book can claim it was written from the outside looking in, she learned in the gusty rooms of the Boston Herald-Traveler. Members of that staff did all they could to embarrass the guest of honor, and John Clair Minot, literary editor, maintained that he had departed from the tradition of the Reviewers' union and read her books from cover to cover.

Miss Brush responded. She had joined the paper as an overrated stenographer, launched into fiction when she couldn't read her own notes, lost her pocketbook when she went out on her first interview, and made a nuisance of herself generally.

The court, however, unanimously reversed the decision and drank to her health and continued success in what it most appropriately christened a "Young Man of Manhattan Cocktail."

Across the table from Miss Brush sat Betty White, winner of the recent College Humor contest for her novel, "I Lived This Story," soon to appear in book form on the Doubleday Doran list. Miss White recently has forsaken Chicago and taken up her temporary abode in Cambridge as the house guest of Bernard and Avis De Voto [shades of Evanston!] Mr. De Voto is busy just now turning out copy for the Saturday Evening Post and finishing a life of Mark Twain for Little, Brown & Co.

Speaking of prize winners, Conrad Aiken, whose "Selected Poems" have just been accorded the Pulitzer poetry prize, is also living in Cambridge, never having strayed very far away from his Alma Mater.

Negro in Literature.

A new edition of "The Negro in Literature and Art," by Benjamin Brawley [Duffield], published first ten year ago, has new chapters on the stage on James Weldon Johnson, "The Younger Realists" [Claude McKay, Countee Cullen, and others], as well as new photographs, a complete revision of the original text and an extended appendix and complete bibliography.

Meetings and Lectures

"The Last Frontier," by Zack T. Sutley will be discussed at the meeting of the Loop Bookfellows tonight at 6 o'clock, at 19 South La Salle street.

On Tuesday at 6:45 p. m. at Fullerton hall, Art institute, Prof. Fred B. Millett will lecture on "Naturalism and Fantasy." This will be the last lecture in his series of five on "The English Novel Since the War."

Jean Toomer will lecture on "The Autobiography and the Short Story" on Wednesday evening at 8:30 p. m. at 645 North Michigan avenue.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

FICTION.

The Young and Secret, by Alice Grant Rosman [Minton Balch], is another of those really nice and really amusing tales by the popular author of "The Window" and "Visitors to Hugo."

Chances, by A. Hamilton Gibbs [Little Brown], is the story of the love of two almost mystically devoted brothers for the same girl; two English gentlemen in their reserve, two sensitive souls in their love.

The Hound of Florence, by Felix Salten [Simon & Schuster], is a tender phantasy of the Renaissance—the tale of a youth who longed so to return to his native Florence that he wished even to be a dog, panting at the carriage wheels of the returning grand duke, and how he got his wish.

The Prisoner in Babylon, by Madeleine D. Strain [Macaulay], is the story of that grip of adversity in which even fine souls are sometimes caught.

ABOUT THE WAR.

Her Privates We, by Private 19,022 [Putnam's], is the English war book that has been praised unreservedly abroad, just published in an American edition. Arnold Bennett said when "All Quiet on the Western Front" had been forgotten this book would be remembered.

The Anvil, by Gustav Frenssen [Houghton Mifflin], is an epic novel of the last forty years in Germany.

War Is War, by Ex-Private X [Dutton], is another English record which has had tremendous praise for accuracy and vividness.

One Woman's War [Macaulay] is an anonymous record of a woman who served her country perhaps not wisely but too well.

MYSTERY.

The Other Bullet, by Nancy Barr Mavity [Crime Club], is the Crime club selection for June.

The Voice in the Closet, by Herman Landon [Liveright], murder in one room, music in the next, creeps——

ABOUT PLACES.

The Last Paradise, by Hickman Powell [Cape Smith], does indeed make the island of Bali sound like the last paradise.

Lost Treasure, by A. Hyatt Verrill [Appleton], is a collection of facts, not fancies, about the treasures, lost, buried, sunken of Central and South America.

Porto Rico and Its Problems, by Victor S. Clark and associates [The Brooking Institute], is the latest and most authentic word by experts on Porto Rico and its future.

Paris, by Raymond Escholier [Dial], is a lovely picture book of Paris in rotogravure and reproductions of water colors, with pleasant running text, the most luring of guide books.

India in 1928-29 is the official report of the government of India to parliament.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Adams Family, by James Truslow Adams [Little Brown], is the thrilling history of that family with which "American history is all cluttered up," as some unknown but immortal person once remarked. The author won the Pulitzer prize in history in 1921.

Pioneering on Social Frontiers, by Graham Taylor [University of Chicago Press], is the autobiography of the founder of Chicago Commons and the story of a scholar and a gentleman of Chicago.

Il Duce, by Kemechey [Smith], is the appraisal by an Hungarian diplomat, stationed in Rome, of "the leader," ardently enthusiastic.

The Madcap Queen, by Paul Rival [Putnam], is one of those nice naughty biographies of the woman to whom the love of a handsome man meant more than a province in France, Marguerite of Navarre. Not the famous author of the Heptameron, but her niece.

The Jack-Roller, by Clifford R. Shaw [University of Chicago Press], is the word for word story of "Stanley, truant, runaway, thief, vagrant," and the analysis of the causes of his vagrancy by a research sociologist.

Dostoyevsky's Letters to His Wife [Smith] are translated by Elizabeth Hill and Doris Mudie and have an introduction by Prince Mirsky.

The Pathfinder of the Seas, by John W. Wayland [Garrett & Massie], is the biography of Matthew Fontaine Maury, a Virginian, who received, so it is said, more distinguished foreign titles and decorations than any other American.

NONFICTION.

Liberty, by Everett Dean Martin [Norton], is a brilliant and stimulating history of liberty and a discussion of the philosophy of freedom as it affects present day life. It is the Book of the Month club selection for June.

The Great Mississippi Bubble, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," and "Rip Van Winkle," by Washington Irving, are delightfully reprinted and boxed for Random House subscribers.

Dramatic Episodes in Canada's Story, by C. W. Jefferys, R. C. A., is a collection of drawings and text by one of Canada's best known artists, sponsored by the Toronto Star in the hope of making that domnion's history live more vividly.

The Great Astronomers, by Henry Smith Williams [Simon & Schuster], a nontechnical and strangely fascinating book about star gazing and star gazers.

Some Mariners of France, by Meade Minnegerode [Putnam], the story of France on the sea and in port, from Caesar's time to the eighteenth century.

"SHACKLES OF FLESH" ANONYMOUS PROTEST ON VERSAILLES TREATY

"Shackles of Flesh" (Macaulay) is causing to-do's all over the east because it is the story of the "love life" (whoever started that label, anyway?) of a man who was a president of a great university, later a governor, lastly a President of the United States.

It has all of the charm and the sweetness and light of that other volume about the less public moments of a political idol, "The President's Daughter," except that "Shackles of Flesh" does not name names outright.

"Anonymous," its author, is said to be a southerner, now living in the north, who has written two other books and whose "position and connections made it possible for him to gain an insight into the forces that sway a President's life."

Although it would not be fair to tell his identity, this particular "anonymous" disclosed it to me in a letter which reads, in part:

"Please believe that this book was written with a heartache. I voted for Woodrow Wilson twice and, in spite of being a pacifist, did every bit I could to help win the war. We won, and then came the peace, and 'Shackles' is my cry of disappointment."

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Havre to Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little disconcerted about the coming visit because she had received just before sailing a letter from Hermione Cushing who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but he doesn't know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and she promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants and Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine Bender, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed, too. Geoffrey escorts her back to the apartment. The door is locked, but Geoffrey arouses Eduardo, who says he thought Miss West had come in long before.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner, where she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment she finds the gallery open for the first time and she goes in only to discover a number of pictures and tapestries missing. She asks Jeanne about them and the maid says they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is lying and believes she and Eduardo are thieves. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender. Jeanne denounces Catherine to the invalid.

Geoffrey again takes Catherine out to dinner and she unburdens herself to him. He has already put an investigator on the case. When he takes her back to the Bender apartment he takes her in his arms as he says good night. Catherine responds to his kiss. He asks her to marry him, but she wants time to be certain of her feelings. On the way to her room she hears Germaine sobbing and goes to her. She retires hurriedly on Jeanne's return. Next morning Catherine is violently ill and the doctor is called in. On recovering Catherine goes to visit Geoffrey's sister at Fontainebleau.

Geoffrey investigates two letters purported to have been written by Germaine to ascertain if they are forgeries. He suspects Blom, the mysterious person seen around the Bender apartment, of stealing the missing pictures, but discovers Blom is seeking a possible heir to the Bender fortune. He goes to report his findings to Catherine and finds she has suddenly departed for Paris. Geoffrey learns of Blom's engagement.

INSTALLMENT LX.

THE CATASTROPHE.

When the clerk had gone out Geoffrey sat for some minutes spellbound, wrapped in thought. An odd name, beginning with a D! But, of course, it was absurd, it couldn't be. And yet——

With a sudden movement he crammed his hat upon his head, left the building and hailed a taxi.

He might as well see for himself.

Five minutes later he alighted and strode into the paved courtyard of the Mairie. There, facing him, stood the announcement board, its surface covered by scribbled notices pinned into place and protected by wire netting. Here, according to French custom, the names of every prospective bride and bridegroom resident in the quarter were posted for two weeks previous to the legal ceremony, a formality corresponding to the English banns.

Rapidly his eye ran over the scraps of paper till he hit upon the one he sought. Here it was in crabbed script, for every one to read:

There was no mistake.

He stared at the name, dazed, with the feeling he would have had if after wandering through a dark tunnel he had come suddenly upon the brink of a yawning precipice.

Now in a flash he saw the notaire's game. Why, the man was not angling for a paltry commission, he was marrying the heir to the Bender millions!

What a stroke of genius, superbly daring, amazingly simple! He had known the milliner for years, was intimately acquainted with her history, but had paid no attention to her till by accident he learned that her former name was identical with that of the wealthy invalid in the Quartier de l'Etoile. Secretly and systematically he had set out to prove that a tie of blood existed between the two women so widely separated by class and fortune, then, assured of the relationship, had with the same calculation covered his connection with his little grisette and begun paying his addresses in a new quarter, calmly certain that sooner or later the whole of Mme. Bender's property would pass into his control.

As the details rushed through Geoffrey's mind one supreme fact stood out clear. Blom could not possibly intend to wait for his victim to die a natural death. Every day added to the uncertainty of his future wife's inheritance, since it needed but the stroke of a pen to ruin his scheme Jeanne, with her diabolical cleverness, might postpone the making of a will for a time, but she could hardly be relied upon to circumvent it altogether. No, whatever occurred must not be long delayed, and must bear the stamp of accident or suicide. Perhaps at this very moment plans were maturing.

On tenterhooks to acquaint his father with this latest turn of the wheel, Geoffrey arrived breathless at the office and flung open the door. Then he stopped on the threshold, aware that some unusual disturbance had taken hold of the place.

At that instant the senior solicitor appeared in the opposite doorway, his face an ashen tinge, his eyes narrowed to steel points.

"It's happened," he announced in a dry voice. "Accident or not, that poor woman is dead."

"Dead? You don't mean——"

"Just that. She was burned to death last night in her bedroom."

Father and son exchanged looks of mute horror. Through both minds rushed the same thought.

"Read what it says. There's not much."

"Mme. Henry Belmont Bender of Numero 44 Avenue Henri Martin, met death in the early hours of this morning as the result of a fire in her apartment. No facts are yet known as to how the conflagration started, nor whether the victim's decease was due to heart failure or to suffocation from the fumes. The maid and butler made a valiant attempt to effect a rescue, themselves sustaining injuries. The fire department was speedily summoned and contrived to save the major portion of the building."

For a second the words swam before his eyes.

"This explains why I couldn't get through on the telephone——"

The clerks looked at him. No one could know that his thoughts had flown in a rush to Catherine, wondering why it was he had had no word from her. The clock was striking twelve. He ought to have heard something. Had anything happened to her? Thank God her room was on the opposite side of the flat.

"I must go up there at once," he muttered.

His father nodded grimly. For all his outward composure he was badly shaken. With a brusque gesture he drew the young man apart from the group of underlings, saying in a low voice:

"Do so. Find out everything you can and keep your eyes well open. I needn't remind you how difficult it is going to be, that as far as we know the only persons to give evidence are the suspects themselves. If we could bring to light any suspicion of a motive——"

"Motive?" he echoed. "That's what I've just come across, by the merest accident. There is a motive—something bigger than either of us dreamed of."

In a few words he made known his discovery.

"You see what it means? There's not the faintest doubt as to their intentions."

His father stared at him dumbfounded, then uttered a horrified ejaculation. It was plain that he had instantly grasped the whole abominable situation.

"Good God! So there is an heir! Marrying her, is he? By gad, how blind we've been!"

His faculties seemed temporarily paralyzed by this second shock, his age suddenly apparent. He grasped his son's arm to steady himself.

"We've been fools, Geoffrey—utter, hopeless fools! We've stood by and allowed that wretched woman to be done to death, and even now there may not be a chance of bringing the scoundrels to justice! Do you realize that fact?"

"And what will that prove if, as is probable, she died of heart failure? No, I am afraid even now they may slip through our fingers—— But do your best; get back as quickly as you can and let me know the result."

Within a few minutes Geoffrey was speeding towards the Etoile, his consciousness harassed by two dominant emotions—futile self-accusation for his failure to avert a dreadful calamity, and a growing apprehension in regard to Catherine. In vain he told himself that it was only natural in the shock and confusion of the terrible happening, with the telephone out of commission into the bargain, for her not to have communicated with her friends. His only solace lay in the knowledge that soon he would see her and, if she were willing, take her back again to Elspeth's home.

Good Morning!

Nancy Carroll is to make "Zaza"! Nancy Carroll is to be starred in all the plays that made Olga Nethersole famous! So the rumor goes—and it listens well. "A Shopworn Angel" directed public attention to Miss Carroll, proving her an emotional actress of no mean ability. "Devil's Holiday" substantiates that proof.

Between appearances in the two pictures mentioned Miss Carroll has acquitted herself well in many rôles, not all of which were perfectly tailored to her measurement. That of Hallie Hobart does right by her. She is completely convincing as a gay, alert, hard hearted little chiseler bent on getting hers while the getting's good, and, later, as that same small lady when the ice around her heart has been melted and her viewpoint of life changed by—life!—as she had never before run up against it. "The Bernhardt of the screen!" gloats an ad—and, given the vehicles and direction she should have, it is quite possible Miss Carroll may prove the ad writer a prophet with honor in his own land.

Phillips Holmes does some excellent acting as the idealistic country lad who—but I'm not going to tell you the story! Ned Sparks, Jed Prouty, and Zasu Pitts shoulder the comedy responsibility with ability and great good will. Paul Lukas gives an impressive portrayal of Dr. Reynolds, and James Kirkwood qualifies as the country boy's elder brother, who is wise to the red haired charmer but whose wisdom doesn't help matters. Hobart Bosworth is disappointing. He makes the father such a theatrical old poser! A shame—because he knows better. How the director, who has been so sensitive to other effects, let him get away with it is beyond comprehension. Mr. Goulding, by the way, is the man who megaphoned for "The Trespasser" and "brought back" Gloria Swanson. Item: He's the author of "Devil's Holiday" and directs better than he writes.

This production is technically fine. Situations are well turned. Miss Carroll's work, however, is responsible for its persistent hold on your interest. The title is, more or less, just a title. It means, you learn, from a remark dropped by Mr. Bosworth, the Sunday of gay city folks who do not "keep" the Sabbath.

"DUMBBELLS IN ERMINE."

THE CAST.

Jerry Malone	Robert Armstrong
Faith Corey	Barbara Kent
Mme. Corey	Beryl Mercer
Mike	James Gleason
Uncle Roger	Claude Gillingswater
Mrs. Corey	Julia Swayne Gordon
Siegfried Strong	Arthur Hoyt
Mrs. Strong	Mary Foy
Camilla	Charlotte Merriam

An amusing comedy, this, in which everybody, with the exception of the prize fighter hero and the foxy grandma of the heroine, appear to be pretty dumb. The heroine, I would say, has not one brain cell to rub against another. But Jerry Malone and Gra'ma have their way in the end—so all is well.

The story concerns itself with the love affair of a prize fighter [clean living, clean fighting! he says so himself] and a carefully sheltered maid. They meet in a park and it's love at first sight. The maid's mother—much interested in uplift work . . . would have daughter wed a little blue nosed worm of a professional reformer called — of all things! — Siegfried. Grandma is whole heartedly on the side of young Jerry—and so on . . .!

This picture is excellently cast, as you can see for yourselves, and, though boasting nothing remarkable as to story, qualifies as pleasing entertainment.

See you tomorrow.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

The Answers.

James Sheeren, 3334 South Union avenue, policeman, Board of Trade — My wife is an invalid and I have to get up every morning at 5 o'clock to prepare breakfast for the both of us. She says sometimes I do a good job of it and some times not so good.

Carl E. Henry, 7040 Oriole avenue, stock reporter—Yes, sir. My wife gets up at 6:30 every morning and fixes breakfast for our baby and me. Then she awakens me and we all three eat together. That's lots of fun for the three of us.

William Morris, 8125 Exchange avenue, quoter, Board of Trade — My wife gets up, stops the alarm clock, starts breakfast. By the time I am through shaving the food is on the table. After I go to work she goes back to bed.

William R. Meadows, 4900 Ellis avenue, cotton registrar—My wife prepares breakfast for me and the two children, sends them to school, me to work. Then she does the rest of the work. We all sleep a little later on Sunday.

P. J. Niemann, 1201 Addison street, superintendent, Board of Trade—My wife always has prepared my breakfast, never remained in bed. What a cook she is. She was a home girl before we were married. She got good training from her mother.

Architect Tells Plans for New Supreme Court

It's Part of Washington's Beautifying Project.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Final details of the plan for the new United States Supreme court building to be erected on a site facing the capitol in Washington were announced here today by Cass Gilbert, the architect.

The structure will be a major unit in the federal government's program for improving an area of about seventy-four acres with a unified group of public buildings. It will cost $9,740,000, exclusive of furniture, Mr. Gilbert has estimated.

Doors and furnishings of the old buildings at the northwest corner of East Capitol and First streets are being removed in anticipation of early tearing down of these structures, and work on the new building is expected to start within a few months.

"The building is designed to last for all time," Mr. Gilbert said. "Because of that fact the work should not and cannot be carried forward as rapidly as is possible in the case of modern skyscrapers. Three years or more probably will be required for its erection. To insure a truly monumental work every detail of its construction will be coördinated to the highest possible degree in harmony with the architectural style of the capitol and numerous other public buildings planned around it."

The classic style of architecture was chosen. The building will be practically a quadrangle, with the stately Corinthian columns of the main entrance facing the senate wing of the capitol. The westerly front will cover 304 feet and the greatest east and west dimension will be 385 feet. The entrances will lead from landscaped terraces and grounds.

The central section of the building, where the Supreme court room and main corridor will be located, will rise to a considerable height above the sections housing offices as a means of symbolizing the relative importance of the various units, the architect pointed out. This section will rise four stories above the terrace on the east front and three stories on the west front, with the east stories lower to allow a continuous roof line. The main floor will be one story above the terrace. Here, in the easterly section, will be located the Supreme court room, the main axis of the plan, conference and robing rooms and chambers.

Can't Identify Plant? Take It to Garden Show Today or Tomorrow

An identification bureau for the use of any flower gardeners in Chicago will be a new feature this year of the annual flower show which opens today at the Garfield park conservatory horticultural hall. The show is sponsored by the Men's Garden club of Chicago.

Any person, whether a member of the club or not has been invited by W. A. Schueler, its president, to bring specimens of plants or flowers to the show for identification by experts. The exhibits will be open to the public until 10 p. m. today and tomorrow from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. Flowers began to arrive yesterday as entries in the contest.

Containers are to be provided this morning for every display, with no preliminary registration necessary. Open classes for all amateur gardeners of the city, as well as similar classes open to members of the club, recognize all popular varieties, with the understanding that those not specifically described in the 122 classes will be given prizes if there are four or more entries.

Colored Busboy to Display His Work as Sculptor

Coming from the south to study painting in the Chicago Art institute, and making ends meet by being bus boy in a restaurant, Richard Barthe, a young Negro, has found himself close to fame almost overnight, but as a sculptor. Never thinking of working in sculpture he and a friend recently tried their hand at modeling in clay and the result of young Barthe's efforts was such as to surprise all who saw his work. An exhibit is planned for him in the near future at the Chicago Woman's club.

Prof. Bridgman to Retire from Lake Forest Faculty

W. R. Bridgman, a professor at Lake Forest college for the last 39 years, is to retire at the end of this school year, President Herbert Moore of the college announced yesterday. Prof. Bridgman is 70 years old. He and Mrs. Bridgman plan to move from Lake Forest to Leland, Mich., in July.

MRS. GILKEY LAUDS Y. W. C. A. AS PIONEER IN WORK FOR WOMEN

The Young Women's Christian association has been a pioneer in leading women beyond the barriers of Protestant denominations, Mrs. Charles W. Gilkey, its newly elected national president, declared yesterday.

Mrs. Gilkey is the wife of the dean of the University of Chicago chapel. She was given a luncheon by the Women's City club, 6 North Michigan avenue, where she served as chairman of the inter-racial committee. Among the speakers were Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, past president of the club; Mrs. Murry Nelson, its president; Mrs. Fred Atkins, Moore, its vice president, and Mrs. Hermon Butler, a member of the Y. W. C. A. board. It was Mrs. Gilkey's first public statement since her election.

"The association always has believed religion has something to do with life," Mrs. Gilkey continued, "and it cannot rest until social and industrial conditions are more nearly governed by religious teachings. We have dared to be a pioneer in both.

"We are helping women to change their attitude in social service from that of the 'handout' to that of sharing. It is easier to be 'Lady Bountiful' than to work along with people.

"In the matter of denominations the barriers are beginning to crumble. The Y. W. C. A. is helping to break them down. Twenty years ago we were pioneers in lifting the work from the narrowness of church background to the personal emphasis among all women, giving them a common ideal."

Mrs. Gilkey said the Y. W. C. A. is becoming an instrument in adult education in America. It also is pioneering in inter-racial relations. National conventions never are held, she said, in cities where hotel managements will not understand that the Y. W. C. A. is an inter-racial group. "And that is why," she added, "that we never have had a national convention in Chicago."

The recent national convention was the first occasion that household employés ever became articulate in a convention, Mrs. Gilkey said. They presented resolutions asking for the placing of their calling on an equal plane with others and requested "the training of both employers and employés."

Young Chicago Artists Close Season with a Concert by Two Girls

Classifying pretty well among the last of the final performances of the season, the series of Friday evening musicales by young Chicago artists was concluded last night by Bessie Singer, pianist, and Leah Heidemann, contralto, in joint recital at Curtiss hall. Promises are made that it will continue next season, but probably on another night of the week.

Miss Heidemann has a young voice of good quality, which has probably not yet developed to its full power, and she knows quite a bit about how to pronounce the words of texts clearly and effectively. At present she is more conversant with singing as a vocal art than with its more dramatic interpretative aspects. She made a good impression, however, with Haydn's "Spirit Song." Miss Singer has evidently been an earnest student of the piano, and plays with ease and poise. Brahms' Rhapsody, opus 119, No. 4, was done with excellent manner. The short Beethoven Sonata, opus 90, preceding the Brahms work, is a less striking composition, but here, too, she made use of carefully worked out variances of tempo and volume to heighten effects of expression.

Club Women Applaud Dry Law's Praises

General Federation to Vote on Them Today.

Denver, Colo, June 6.—(AP)—Reaffirming the stand of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in favor of prohibition, the preliminary report of the resolutions committee was greeted with prolonged applause today. It was presented here at the first business session of the organization's 20th biennial convention.

The prohibition resolution, sponsored by Mrs. J. C. Pearson of Marshall, Okla., chairman of the American citizenship committee, is expected to meet no opposition when it is brought up for action tomorrow.

The resolution recites that "there are sinister influences at work seeking to undermine the efficacy of the 18th amendment," and that "individuals and organizations are making strenuous efforts to destroy the faith of the people of the United States in prohibition and to promote the idea that prohibition is contrary to the principles of our government."

Some opposition among the delegates developed tonight against the prohibition resolution; an amendment is expected to be offered tomorrow by Mrs. R. F. Lindsay of Mount Pleasant, Tex., president of the Texas federation. Her amendment will move to strike out the word "sinister."

Mrs. Lindsay's amendment will also seek to eliminate the phrase reciting that the federation "reaffirms its conviction that prohibition offers the best means for curbing the liquor traffic and its attendant crimes," making the paragraph read "that the General Federation of Women's Clubs through its delegate body reaffirms its continued support to the 18th amendment and the rigid enforcement thereof."

Other resolutions included one for participation of the federation in the George Washington bicentennial celebration and one favoring ratification of the treaty drawn up at the London naval conference.

The preliminary report of the resolutions committee was made by Mrs. Walter W. Seymour of Chicago.

Growth of the movement for scientific homemaking, not only in the United States but in many foreign countries as well, was pictured by Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole of Brockton, Mass., first vice president of the federation. She told the 5,000 delegates and visitors that the homemaker was "just beginning to realize that she is a part of the life of the community. She is just waiting for us, as I know from my personal contacts with her last year . . ."

Mrs. Frederick G. Smith of Somerville, Mass., membership chairman, announced that since the last convention two more states have voted universal membership—that is, they have included all their women's clubs into the General federation. These two states are Indiana and Louisiana.

Reformed Church for More Study Before Going Into Merger

Asbury Park, N. J., June 6.—(AP)—Today's session of the 124th annual synod of the Reformed Church of America was marked by discussion on the question of a merger with the United Presbyterian church and the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

At the end of the debate the synod passed a recommendation instructing its committee on closer relations with other denominations to "continue its work of study and conference with the Presbyterian Church of the United States, the United Presbyterian church, and other churches of the Presbyterian family."

R. H. Robinson, elder of the Collegiate Church of New York, led the opposition to the recommendation, demanding that further official discussion of the merger be forbidden. He said it seemed unlikely that unanimous approval of the proposed merger would ever be gained in all sections of the church. The Rev. James Dykema replied that such action would be a "gag" rule.

BIG RKO SHOWS LEAD LOOP

CELEBRITY VAUDEVILLE WITH BIG TALKING PICTURES BRING CROWDS AND KICK ALL-TIME RECORDS INTO NEXT COUNTY

By The Critic.

Stage and screen fairly glitter with brilliant stars, topping last week's initial program which fascinated eager crowds and which kicked all box office records into the next county.

Aunt Jemima, original coon-shouting Mammy of Florenz Ziegfeld's "Show Boat," heads the glorious behind-the-footlights contingent. Always magnetic and tremendously entertaining, Aunt Jemima was lured from Broadway to add fresh lustre to this second RKO Palace titan program. With her are "Scooter" Lowry, lovable scamp of Our Gang; "The Ingenues," twenty-one of the world's most beautiful girls, in a smashing musical revue, and a host of other stage attractions.

On the talking screen is "The New Fox Follies of 1930." El Brendel, "Swede" comic scream of "Sunnyside Up" and "The Cock-eyed World," is the romping star. As Axel Svenson he has whole legions of dream girls to trifle with, in a remarkably strong story. Keen critics pronounce this year's edition of the Fox Follies to be head and shoulders over the famed 1929 production, which had an extended run at a de luxe loop theater. Fox Follies of 1930, they declare, is easily the mightiest of all annual screen romances.

This massive program of united celebrity vaudeville and a great talking picture will be presented in continuous performance at the RKO Palace Theatre starting at 11 o'clock this morning at popular prices.

At the State-Lake.

At the State-Lake Theater RKO scores another great advance on Chicago's amusement front.

Alma Rubens, intriguing and interesting Hollywood star, is presented in person in a brilliant divertissement. Her vaudeville debut was made in New York only a few weeks ago, and because of her gigantic appeal and talent, Miss Rubens is destined to remain behind the footlights for Radio-Keith-Orpheum for many months to come. In addition to Miss Rubens, the State-Lake has Bob Hope, Webb's Entertainers, Harriman, Swan and Lucille, and many other outstanding variety entertainers.

Woods Has Four Star Hit.

"White Hell of Pitz Palu," awarded four stars by Mae Tinee, is creating a new cinema vogue at the RKO Woods Theater. As weird and fantastic as a story by Poe or Verne, the love story has a background which embraces the fastnesses of a vampire mountain peak. Snowy white and majestic, Pitz Palu lures human prey to disaster as men and women assault its icy slopes. A mighty scene in this fascinating production concerns the efforts of a noted airman to rescue two lovers held in the maw of the vampire crag. With uncanny skill he plunges his zooming plane into a 2,000 feet deep abyss. This episode alone has stirred critics into paeans of ecstatic praise.

COZY BEDS LURE TRAVELING STARS

Having spent millions of dollars in the last two years to assure luxurious comfort on its passenger trains, the Nickel Plate Railroad now enjoys a virtual monopoly in transporting Radio-Keith-Orpheum stars between Chicago and Cleveland.

In catering to persons of nicer sensibilities, the Nickel Plate has achieved the ultimate in traveling comfort with its de luxe, solid Pullman train, which leaves the La Salle Street Station, Chicago, every night at 11:20 P. M. and which arrives at the Nickel Plate palatial two hundred-million-dollar station at Cleveland at 8:20 A. M. the following morning. One of its unmatchable features is a combination solarium, lounge and single-bed car. This rich innovation of having an individual bed in surroundings as quiet as a home, and exquisitely appointed, has won the plaudits of those who demand superior accommodations. Fritzi Scheff, who closed an engagement at the RKO Palace Theatre last night, and the Ingenues, among this week's headliners, are among recent RKO stars who know the amazing comfort of this travel. Other splendid Nickel Plate trains spanning Cleveland and Chicago are radio equipped.

Eastbound, the Nickel Plate Limited is equally desirable. It leaves Chicago daily at 6:10 P. M., arriving in New York City the following evening at 7:30 P. M.

June brides of 1930 and June brides of other years form the eager vanguard of contestants competing for one of the four General Electric Refrigerators offered by R. Cooper, Jr., Inc., this week to patrons of the RKO Palace, State-Lake, Woods, and Englewood theatres.

"Our apartment is equipped with an old-fashioned icebox," confided one young wife, "and my husband and I would be the happiest persons in the world if our essays were good enough to win one of the model General Electric Refrigerators."

"My husband is ill," said another, "and I need unlimited ice to keep him comfortable and to safe-guard his foods. It would be too wonderful for words if I could win a refrigerator, because I feel that it would mean much in helping him to regain his health."

These, and other comments reflecting the drama behind the everyday lives of Chicagoans, come to the girl representatives of the General Electric Refrigerator Company, who are stationed in the lobbies of all four RKO theatres. Their duties are to explain details of this unique contest and to provide theatre patrons with contest blanks.

(1) "Participants must write a story of 100 words or less on the subject: 'Why I Want a General Electric Refrigerator.' The story may be written in ink or typewritten on any kind of paper, but only on one side of the sheet.

(2) "Entrants must obtain contest cards from a Miss General Electric representative at either the RKO Palace, State-Lake, Woods, or Englewood Theatres, and attach their story to this entrance card.

(3) "Do not mail your story and card, but bring them personally to the Miss General Electric at the theatre where you were acquainted with the details of the contest."

SPIC AND SPAN, a handsome, new all-steel General Electric Refrigerator is an important item in the far Rockaway, L. I., home of Aunt Jemima, Ziegfeld star, and headliner on this week's bill at the RKO Palace Theatre. Few people have a home more desperately than stage stars and Aunt Jemima presides over one of the most lovely establishments in the Gotham theatre colony.

RUSSELL UNIFORM CO., N. Y., TAILOR RKO THEATRE STAFF

Cool Summer Clothes in Keeping with Atmosphere of Theatres

The cool atmosphere of RKO theatres at the present time is enhanced by the summer uniforms worn by the ushers and attaches. These uniforms, specialized branch of the tailoring business, are made by the Russell Uniform Company of 1600 Broadway, New York.

This concern makes all types of uniforms for the RKO chain, and their work has been selected by that organization for its qualities and for the fact that the styles are correct. They can be seen in all RKO theatres from coast to coast.

In addition to making uniforms for RKO, they act in a similar capacity for Warner Brothers, Fox and those organizations and clubs that have the need of uniforms of any kind. Such concerns are secure in asking the Russell Uniform Company for their catalogue of samples and prices.

Claret and tan uniforms of house attaches of the RKO Palace Theatre are typical Russell Uniform Company creations. Each was individually measured, fitted and finally approved by a Russell expert.

"Tailoring which is invested in a theatre uniform," asserts this company, "is equivalent to that given to a $150 suiting. Each attache, in keeping with the beauty and smartness of a modern theatre, must represent the peak of sartorial perfection. Theatre attendants, if you will observe them, are frequently models of what 'well-dressed men' should look like."

SPEEDY POSTAL TELEGRAPH CO. CONNECTS RKO

In emergencies like these, which require speed—Postal Telegraph, with its globe-spanning, miracle system of communication, steps into the breech. A tap of a key, and a message flashes to any corner of America. New acts are secured, baggage and props are found, and an important cog in the giant Radio-Keith-Orpheum theatrical machine has functioned proudly and well.

Beyond these unusual services, Postal Telegraph is a daily ally. Its immense organization handles all urgent RKO communications and there is scarcely a second in business hours when a Postal messenger is not delivering an important message to one of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum theaters in its national chain.

Through Postal Telegraph today you can quickly reach 70,000 points in the United States—8,000 in Canada. And through the vast International System, with which Postal Telegraph is affiliated, you can flash a message to practically any point in the civilized world, and to ships at sea—by telegram, cable, radio.

Public Explores Old Home of Potter Palmers

BY THALIA ——.

Cheerful, lucrative pandemonium reigned in the former Potter Palmer residence yesterday during the opening session of the two day carnival being staged for the benefit of the Red, White, and Blue club.

The rain halted the outdoor attractions, the merry-go-round, the Ferris wheel, and workers in the booths from getting into action until the middle of the afternoon.

It then speedily became apparent that the main objective of the fair's patrons was to see the inside of the house. A steadily moving throng was piloted by a corps of guides through the maze of carnival officials, badged with red, white, and blue name plates, policemen, firemen, mannequins, hot dog salesmen, gypsies, strolling musicians, postcard sellers, in and out of the rooms, and up and down the staircase where some one was bawling above the din, "Keep a-movin'—don't crowd."

Mrs. Clair E. More presided over a bureau of information in the erstwhile reception room of the old Palmer home. She kept busy a company of guides. They included Mrs. Eric Scudder, Mrs. W. Scott Linn, Mrs. Otis Hidden, Mrs. Ralph Winston, and Mrs. Carroll Johnson. The sightseers first were led into the library and admonished to note the Ferriere murals and the handsome carved wood paneling. Here a salesman for monogrammed playing cards and match packs and a silhouette artist held forth.

On went the paying guests into what was the drawing room. They were shown a photograph of the room before it was dismantled and an antique tapestry. A boat, with an outboard motor, stood in the center of that room. Barkers there yelled "Whoopee! Take a chance on a big baby doll or a woolly dog." At one side of the balcony leading into the ballroom and art gallery, which has been denuded of its wealth of paintings, stood two washtubs filled with bottles of near beer. At the other side was a stand at which cosmetics were mixed to order.

Dancing in the ballroom began at 4 o'clock, with tickets selling for 10 cents a dance from 4 until 7, and thereafter until midnight a quarter a dance.

The marriage of Mrs. Claire Childs Laflin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs, to W. Paul McBride, son of Mrs. Walter McBride of 33 Bellevue place, will be solemnized quietly at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Childs residence at 229 Lake Shore drive. Only relatives of the bride and groom, with a few friends, have been invited to attend the ceremony.

The Wheaton horse show, which in past years has been known as the Polo farm horse show, is to take place on June 29, and its proceeds will be for the benefit of the American Legion. Col. William J. Sutherland is general chairman of the show, and Mrs. William M. Murray is the managing director. The show is to be held at Col. Sutherland's Polo farm.

Laurance H. Armour succeeds Paul Gardner as president of the Post and Paddock club, which is to have its second annual opening on June 30 with the opening of the Arlington Park race meet.

The William McCormick Blairs, who went to New York to meet their daughter, Miss Helen Blair, on her return from Paris where she has been studying, have gone to make a short visit in Hartford, Conn., before returning to Chicago.

The Donald B. Douglases and the Charles G. Cushings of Lake Forest were also in New York the early part of the week.

Betsy Gordon Drake and Keith Corey Drake, children of the Carlos C. Drakes of Paris, came on from Washington, D. C., with their grandfather, Tracy C. Drake, while their parents remain a while longer in the east. Mrs. Drake and the baby are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Keith, in Fairfax, Va. Later the entire family will be with the Tracy Drakes at their summer place, Aloha lodge, at Lake Geneva.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Margaret Patricia Hanley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Hanley of 1545 Astor street, to William Westlake, will take place at 8:30 o'clock this evening at St. Chrysostom's chapel. Miss Meredith Hanley will be maid of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids will include Miss Sally Butler of Des Moines, Ia.; Miss Betty Cook, Miss Anna Catherine Hurd, and Mrs. N. Bayard Clinch, all of Evanston; Mrs. Melvin E. Swanson and Miss Emily Kennedy of Crawfordsville, Ind. Edward G. Westlake will serve as best man for the groom and the ushers will be N. Bayard Clinch, Kenneth K. Knickerbocker, Stewart Ebell, William B. Mackenzie, and Melvin E. Swanson. After a trip to Bermuda Mr. Westlake and his bride will reside at 1340 North Dearborn parkway.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Richard Jones of 1043 Ardmore avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Martha, to Paul Frederick Ernst, son of Mrs. George Buchanan Kerr of 540 Brompton place, on Wednesday.

The marriage of Miss Jean McCormick Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Fox of Evanston, to Gerald Wylie Garner-Smith will be solemnized at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKean Willoughby of 6166 Sheridan road announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor Marie, to Walter Briggs Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Campbell of Pasadena, Cal. The engagement was made known yesterday at a tea given at the Willoughby winter residence in Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Woods, 2218 Madison Park, announce the engagement of their daughter, Eunice Margaret, to Richard E. Vollertsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Vollertsen, 5800 Blackstone avenue. The wedding is planned for this autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. George Valentine McIntyre of 628 Sheridan road announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Glen Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thomas Davis of Topeka, Kas. Miss McIntyre attended the Colleges of the Sacred Heart in Lake Forest and at Manhattanville, N. Y., and received her master's degree from Loyola university. Mr. Davis attended Washburn college in Kansas and the University of Wisconsin.

Nine Survivors of U. of C. Class of '86 Attend Reunion

Many reminiscences were exchanged of college days, spent in the old building at Cottage Grove avenue and East 34th street, in which the university then was located.

One of the nine was a woman, then Miss Isetta Gibson, later married to a classmate, Edgar A. Buzzell, who presided at last night's meeting. The names of the original class were read by Mr. Buzzell. Four of them have died.

Those present at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Buzzell, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. James Elsdon, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln M. Coy, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Weddell, and Mrs. G. E. Newcomb.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Vice President Curtis and his sister have had word from the former's younger daughter, Mrs. C. P. George Jr., from Fort Sill, Okla., where Maj. George has been stationed for several years, that she will spend the summer in their Sconset, Mass., place and will visit her father here for a week en route, arriving on the 16th.

The assistant secretary of state and Mrs. Francis White were given a dinner tonight by the Nicaraguan minister and Señora de Sacasa, whose other guests were the members of the boundary commission of Honduras and Guatemala.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Double Rupture Belt Offered.

"I have a man's double rupture belt to give to some one who can use it. It is size 32. MRS. M. C."

If you are so afflicted that this belt will help to improve your condition and add to your comfort, please write me for it. It is yours for the asking.

Offers Dress Form.

"I have a dress form, size 36, which I shall be glad to give to any one who can use it. MRS. F. D."

The home dressmaker will find that fitting becomes surprisingly easy when a dress form is employed. I shall be glad to have you write, if you want this one; please do not telephone.

Seasons' Flow Seems to Guide Artist Farmer

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Walden-Dudensing galleries are showing a group of paintings by Arnold Wiltz, another member of the Woodstock artist colony and a fellow-painter with Arnold Blanch whose exhibit preceded this in the same gallery. There is a certain amount of similarity between the two men. Both paint in a tremendously painstaking and cautious manner, dealing meticulously with mechanical details. The great difference is that Blanch never forgets the value of imagination and that Wiltz not infrequently crashes into extraordinary and unseasonable realism, choosing inopportune moments to dwell lovingly on such prosaic stuff as red tiles or pink bricks or window latches while behind and beyond these matter-of-fact subjects flows the loveliest of hills and the most colorful of trees.

Arnold Wiltz is a farmer and odd-job man in the time that he is not painting. This explains, perhaps, his ability to depict pastoral scenes. It also explains the leisurely gait of his pictures. No true farmer ever hurries. His whole nature is against it. He waits upon nature and the seasons and thinks, plans, and moves in accordance with the gentle progress of the year. In the same fashion these pictures of Mr. Wiltz have been made. They have grown from this incident and that and they have ripened with the developing consciousness. There are pictures of his which undoubtedly he did not foresee in their completed state. He dreamed of trees and fields and hills and then, like a sudden storm, a pink house or an abandoned factory forced itself upon him and like a thunderbolt from heaven fell into the canvas.

This type of painting, smacking of the German primitive in its perfection and rigidity of evolution, is one characteristic manner alive in contemporary American art. There is color in it and a great deal of beauty. There is imagination and youth. There is charm. A number of the paintings in the current exhibit will fascinate you. Look at "Mountain Lake," "Haying Time," "The Landroller" or "Pont Neuf." They strike an immediate chord of appreciation. On the other hand to what do they lead? Are they as vital as the less studied work of the Taos artists, for instance? Are they as persuasively intimate as the more radiantly vigorous landscapes of certain of our Chicago artists?

Blanch and Wiltz are capital exponents of the Woodstock feeling, but while we admire them, they leave us wondering how important this development really is.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

I called with a friend at a home one afternoon. While we were waiting for our friend we were entertained by her little daughter, about 5 years of age.

My friend remarked to me with a significant look, "Not very p-r-e-t-t-y," spelling the last word.

"No," said the little girl, "but awful smart." E. N.

Dorothy, aged 3 years, was a great picture show fan, but didn't like to go to church. This particular Sunday morning she went under protest and imagine the sensation she created when suddenly she stood up and said, "Let's go, mother; this is where we came in." MRS. L. L.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

May Have Been Absent Minded.

My wife says I am absent minded. I'll let you be the judge. We ride down town to work, mornings, together on the street car, buying a paper and reading it en route, I the sports section and she the rest. Then we change sections.

This certain morning she was on my left, but I guess I didn't trouble to notice, but made a playful grab for a paper to the right. A hard boiled young flapper looked daggers at me and said, "Hey, mister, read your own paper." E. B. F.

Fault Finding Is Habit That Grows on Some Parents

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A list of toys and playthings for children from babyhood up will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

This letter tells its own story, so I'll use it instead of writing again on a subject I've touched before:

"There are really some articles that ought to be reprinted from time to time, or more added to the original ones, for the people who either missed them or have forgotten them. I am referring especially to two articles which 'struck home' in about three different places that I alone know of. They were on the habit of fault finding, and on knowing your child, and on accepting him for what he is.

"I know a little boy whose father has gotten the habit of fault finding so badly, that no matter what the boy does, it is never right. Even if he's sitting quietly the father will slap him and ask him why he doesn't play and what he's sitting moping around for. Then, he no sooner starts to play than his father asks what he is doing that for—can't he ever be good?

"This boy's father never has enjoyed his child, as he's always looking for trouble. That boy just acts his age.

"But some parents act as if they wanted their children to act just as they do—grown up. I believe in children acting their age, with corrections if naughty, but not if they are playing naturally.

"I think if people would look back upon their own childhood and remember how they played and thought, it would make them understand their own children better. Most parents are still in their twenties when their children are small, and could remember.

"I am 24 and I can remember an incident when I was 2. And when I was 3 I sat in a little rocker and sang to my doll. How motherly I felt! This father I mentioned would no doubt call that singing, noise. But I know I won't stop my little girl when she starts to sing, because I know how I felt when I was small.

"In my first paragraph I mentioned reprinting some of your articles for people who have forgotten. I don't mean that they really forgot. It's just that they need a reminder. I always agree with your articles and though they are my ideas, also, I didn't know until I read them that those thought were in my mind, too. I hope you'll understand what I mean.

"Children are a lot of work and worry and require a lot of thought—but is there anything more interesting and enjoyable on this earth?"

Matter of Furniture Makes Girl Hesitate in Her Wedding Plans

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Childhood sweethearts they were. They grew up and parted. Four years later came a reunion and the discovery that they still loved each other. Now, marriage offers this problem:

If they marry at once they must take up housekeeping in a small apartment the man has maintained for himself and furnished not to the girl's especial liking. In a year from now the man expects to be holding a better position when the girl's dream of an apartment with everything new and charming would be possible. So, upon the apartment furnishings hangs the question of whether to marry or wait.

As one who loves a charming setting as well as the next, still the advice would be to plunge on the immediately available living quarters. So many things, both for good and ill, may happen in a year's time. Delays, when they hang on material things, are dangerous. We've seen them spoil lives and kill what might have been happy romances.

After all, furniture is only furniture and a man you love and who loves you is something you can't pick up every day. In fact, he, not the apartment, is the great opportunity that comes knocking once in a lifetime.

We're not out of sympathy with a girl who says: "I don't care much for the things he has in his apartment because, as you know, every girl has her dreams of buying everything new when first starting out."

Every girl has the dream, but most of us older ones have found that it is necessary in life to do a little compromising with our dreams. If, perchance, one has to begin without the dream home—well, what of it, if the compensation be love and love's companionship?

A year's wait does not seem much. But it is a year lost, a year that might just as well be used for planning that future with its better position and better apartment prospect. What so often happens, with the habit of postponement once adopted, is that time slips on and on, and more and more material things seem necessary before the marriage step seems opportune. In the interim romance frequently withers.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Paris Tennis Styles Must Be Good Sports

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

J.KOUES. PARIS.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Fashions that step out in sporting circles this season have to be good sports, adequate to play a strenuous game of tennis or whatever you go in for. None of that chiffony feminine stuff for sports. It may be ever so smart elsewhere but Paris puts sports clothes in a class by themselves, and it is a strenuous class, so that sports fashions are cut on lines allowing liberty in every sense. Sports dresses are sleeveless, cut in one piece and short skirted. The rest of styles take a lot of wearing but the sports outfit stays put. Its particular chic is due to this difference.

The dainty, fragile colors that adorn the bulk of the summer mode enter not into active sports clothes. White is the smartest shade first, last and all the time. Transparent white wool, which is the material of the illustrated tennis frock of Lucile Paray, is a favorite French sports fabric, for it protects against the chill that lies in wait after a strenuous game. The tucked yoke of this one piece dress is attached to the belt at the waistline by a buttoned tab. The plaited skirt is set on to a plain yoke, curving down around the hips. The belt is black patent leather.

To wear over this dress when you aren't in action, Lucile Paray adds a jacket made of black, white and green silk. This jacket has a scarf attached to the neckline and is fitted to the body from natural waistline to the hipline. It is unlined, as so many smart wraps are this season.

This costume illustrates the charm of the practical which is the ideal of all sports fashions this summer.

Food Talk.

Considering the magic that milk works in a diet, the mother always should provide each member of her family with its full quota.

For generations milk has been unknown in the diet of the Chinese, but recently it has been introduced to them. Gradually they are learning to like it as a beverage, and in cooked food. It will be interesting to watch what will happen in the next few generations to the stature and size of these people who adopt milk.

Of course, the Chinese diet, as is, is a fairly good one. For centuries they have eaten unpolished rice rich in vitamin B. They also use an abundance of vegetables rich in lime and phosphorus. Their vegetables are inexpensive and the methods of cooking are most excellent.

It is possible to eat enough vegetables and fruits to meet the mineral needs of the body, but it is much easier to plan a well rounded diet with milk. Now we know that a failure to include milk in the average diet often accounts for many physical defects. Soft and decayed teeth, small stature, fragile bones and poor, clotting blood are some examples.

"Every child costs its mother a tooth," is an old Irish proverb. Until recently the world had reason to believe that old saw to be true. It was a price most women paid when they had a child. Within this last generation we have learned that such a loss is unnecessary. Women who now visit the prenatal clinics regularly are instructed to drink a certain quantity of milk.

Nutrition workers have discovered that extra lime must be supplied if the expectant mother's teeth remain strong and her child's teeth and bones develop normally. If she does not obtain the additional amount in such foods as milk, the lime in her own teeth and bones must be sacrificed for the protection of her child.

Teeth of children are not only formed before birth, but their quality is determined. A diet with milk highly represented during pregnancy and lactation is our hope of eventually eradicating bad teeth in children and mothers. Proper feeding throughout life will maintain this condition.

No food has yet been found that contains such an abundance of lime that can be utilized by the body as does milk. Milk is also an excellent source of phosphorus, proteins and vitamins.

If women find it difficult to drink milk, it is an easy matter to include the necessary amount in cooked food such as creamed vegetables, soups, gravies, custards and puddings, or frozen food like ice cream, milk sherbets and frozen salads. Milk is milk in whatever form it occurs in our meals.

Children usually have little difficulty in taking a quart of milk, provided their eating habits are well controlled. One of the easiest ways to put milk into the diet is in beverage form. This can be done by serving a glass at each meal and using one cup in cooked food.

The best of milk is always available, and at a price within the reach of all. Three forms of milk, bottled, evaporated and dried are on the market. Fortunately scientific investigators have found the nutritive values of these milks are equal.

RECIPES.

2 eggs.
1-3 cup milk.

Put meat through food chopper. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Add salt, if needed. Shape into a loaf and place in a small roaster. Pour 1 cup hot water over loaf. Cover and bake 75 minutes in a moderate oven [400 F.].

Chin and Throat Quickly Respond to Daily Discipline

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Among the odd things one sees in a day's travels was a woman of uncertain years dining the other day in a Park avenue restaurant wearing a chin and throat mask. It was made of black material and drawn tightly over chin and jaw edge, pinned neatly to the rim of the hat in back. It completely hid neck and throat.

Conjectures, of course, were in order. Was it an automobile accident or was it a chin rejuvenating job not yet completed, or was it a crepey throat? Maybe it was none of these at all. But it did remind one that a throat you love to show is a fine asset, a fact women are fully aware of, even if they do not put forth the effort to make theirs such.

Watching the chin and throat for telltale signs of age or fat should create quite a thriving little industry. It is doing so, too. In fact, unless I am mistaken, it is exactly what is making massage parlors rich and famous.

It one can afford the professional treatment, well and good. The great advantage is that it is done regularly. The great drawback of home treatment is that it is so often postponed until the proverbial tomorrow.

But you can discipline that chin and throat of yours every bit as well as you can discipline your child's manners, and in the same way—by beginning early. Give the neck and throat a bit of exercise daily.

Let the head drop back until it rests on the back. Tense the muscles in the front of the neck until you feel the strain in them. Close the teeth so tight that the sides of the neck are tense. Open and close the mouth a dozen times. After you have done this, turn the head to the right and go through the same mouth opening and closing. Then turn the head to the left and repeat.

Every blessed night of your life give the throat from chin to chest a good massage. After the massage dash cold water on the surface. Use plenty of water and plenty cold! Then use your astringent and let it dry on.

GIRL'S SPORTS FROCK.

This smart sports frock is made with the new cap sleeves and a narrow belt nips the waistline, just like older sister's new frock. A large button attracts attention to the tab closing of the Vionnet neckline, and the patch pockets and belt give just the right finish. Linen, shantung and cotton broadcloth are smart materials for this sort of frock.

The pattern, 3444, comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅜ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

A. L. MOHLER, FORMER RAIL EXECUTIVE, DIES

Retired President of the Union Pacific.

A. L. Mohler, former president of the Union Pacific railroad, whose railroad career spanned nearly a half century of active service, died yesterday at St. Anthony's hospital. Mr. Mohler, who was a native of Ephrata, Pa., was 80 years old.

Two weeks ago he was stricken with a heart attack in Chicago while on his way from his home in New York to Hayward, Wis., on a fishing trip. He collapsed while walking from the train to the Atlantic hotel, and was taken to St. Anthony's hospital.

Fights Death to Last.

Throughout his illness Mr. Mohler, who won his way from a clerkship with the Chicago and North Western to high positions, would not concede defeat though warned by physicians of the gravity of his condition. Almost constantly at his bedside was Benjamin B. Bryan Jr., member of the brokerage house of Logan & Bryan, whose father was a friend of the Mohler family.

No member of Mr. Mohler's immediate family was present at his death. He begged that news of his illness be kept from his wife, said to be seriously ill in Paris. A daughter resides in Milan, Italy.

Important rail officials of Chicago, most of them Mr. Mohler's friends for years, kept in close contact with the hospital during his illness. Shortly after reaching the hospital Mr. Mohler ordered that valuable papers in his baggage be forwarded to the Harriman National bank in New York.

Funeral Awaits Word from Kin.

Funeral arrangements were not complete last night pending word from the wife and daughter, but it was understood that, in accordance with his death bed wish, Mr. Mohler would be buried at Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Mr. Mohler entered railroad service in 1868. His first position of importance was as general freight agent for the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba in 1882. At later periods he was general manager of the Great Northern, the Montana Central, and of the Minneapolis and St. Louis. In 1912 he became president of the Union Pacific, retaining this position until his retirement in 1916 at the age of 66.

HUNT BANDITS WHO GOT $4,000 AT NILES BANK

Police of north shore suburbs last night were trying to get trace of two bandits, one armed with a sawed off shotgun, who yesterday robbed the State bank of Niles, Milwaukee and Touhy avenues, of $4,000 and escaped in an automobile.

Miss Florence Nelson, 21 years old, the assistant cashier, was attending a patron when the bandits entered. Theodore Kolb, Niles village treasurer, was chatting a few feet away with Fred Mann, president, and George L. Krejsa, cashier of the bank.

When the patron walked out, the bandit with the shotgun leveled his weapon at the three men while his confederate shoved his revolver through the cage toward Miss Nelson. The men and Miss Nelson were forced to lie upon the floor and while one robber guarded them the other ran into the cashier's cage and stuffed all the currency in sight, about $4,000, into his pockets. After compelling their victims to walk into the bank vault, the robbers slammed the door shut and fled.

Tow Yacht to Port During Storm; Steering Cable Fails

The 90 foot yacht Barbara, owned by William Blair Baggaley of Winnetka, a Chicago investment broker with offices at 141 West Jackson boulevard, was towed into the Great Lakes naval training station during Thursday night's storm after the steering cable on the yacht broke. Aboard with Mr. and Mrs. Baggaley were Mr. and Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr., 1500 Lake Shore drive. The helpless yacht was being driven on the breakwater off the training station. Mr. Baggaley yelled through a megaphone and sub chaser No. 412, commanded by Lieut. E. F. Keifer, came to the rescue. Little damage was done.

Seeks Divorce from Bride, Believed Slain in War

In 1916 Sarkis Ohaian, a 19 year old rug weaver, left his bride in the town of Mamooratuleziz, Armenia, to come to America. He was to make his fortune here and send for his bride. Four years later the world war broke out. The Turks invaded the little town and massacred its inhabitants. Yesterday Ohanian filed a bill for divorce in the Superior court, stating that he has tried to trace his wife for 16 years and now believes her to be dead. He wants a divorce to avoid the possibility of bigamy in his forthcoming marriage.

Loop Crowds See Woman Pinned Under Street Car

Darting behind a north bound street car in Clark street between Adams and Monroe streets last evening, Miss Newell Hahn, 6200 Blackstone avenue, stepped into the path of a south bound street car and was pinned beneath it. The fender of the car saved her from death beneath the wheels. Hundreds of loop shoppers witnessed the accident. After treatment at the Iroquois hospital Miss Hahn was permitted to go home.

VANDALS TEAR DOWN WIRES IN COUNTRY HOUSE

A country house which is being remodeled on a farm owned by Chauncey McCormick a half mile east of Warrenville was entered Tuesday night by persons who damaged the electric wiring system. This became known yesterday when it was learned that a private watchman employed to guard the house against further depredations had been appointed a special deputy by Sheriff Hattendorf of Du Page county.

The lead-in wires were severed, an annunciator in the kitchen was smashed with a hammer, and the fuse box was similarly destroyed. Wires in all parts of the house were cut and torn down.

Albert Cox, manager for Mr. McCormick, who is remodeling the house for rental purposes, said he knew of no labor trouble which might have been responsible for the vandalism. A number of bombings in Du Page county have been ascribed to labor trouble. But Mr. Cox said work on the house was being done under union rules. The Julian Contracting company of Chicago had charge of the work and the only request coming from the Du Page county electrical workers' union was that one of their men be assigned with the other electricians from Chicago. This was done, Mr. Cox said.

Edward Arnhem, retired manufacturer living at the Harper Crest hotel, 5545 Stony Island avenue, was sentenced yesterday to one day in the county jail for kidnaping his daughter, Shirley Helen, 10 years old, from his former wife, Mrs. Margaret Schwinn Arnhem Beauscheaun of Crystal Lake, last summer. The sentence was imposed by Superior Judge Williams, who held Arnheim guilty of contempt because he took his daughter out of the jurisdiction of the court.

Mrs. Beauscheaun won a divorce on charges of cruelty in June, 1928, and was granted custody of Shirley. The child disappeared from the home of her grandfather, Ignaz Schwinn, president of the Excelsior-Henderson Cycle company, last July. After a search she was found with her father in San Francisco.

At yesterday's hearing Judge Williams called Shirley to the stand. He asked her if she wanted to go to her father.

"I never want to see him again," she declared. "He hit mamma and threw her downstairs when I was little. My stepfather is terrible good to me and I want to stay with mamma."

On the motion of Attorney Benjamin B. Davis of the law firm of Socrates & Davis, representing Mrs. Beauscheaun, Judge Williams sentenced Arnhem for contempt.

CONVICT PASTOR ON CHARGE OF KIDNAPING GIRL

Alton, Ill., June 6.—(AP)—The Rev. Alonzo L. Shoemaker, Pentecostal minister, was found guilty today of abducting Bernice Ford, 19 year old former choir singer, and taking her to Charleston, Mo., in April, 1928. Conviction carries a penalty of from one to ten years imprisonment.

Shoemaker is under two other abduction indictments, charged with taking two girls who played in his church orchestra to Lakeland, Fla., last October. The minister and the two girls were found there in February. He was extradited and the girls returned home.

Louis G. Richardson, former president of the Central Union Telephone company and general consul for the company subsequent to its merger with the American Telephone and Telegraph company, died yesterday at his residence, 1236 Oak avenue, Evanston, after a long illness. He was 70 years old. Surviving are his widow and two daugthers, Mrs. Schofield B. Gross of Riverside and Mrs. Edwin M. Stark, Chicago. The funeral will be held at 2:45 p. m. today at Graceland cemetery chapel. Burial will be at Graceland.

ADJUST ERRORS IN HUNDREDS OF BILLS FOR TAXES

Hundreds of errors made in preparing tax bills for property owners throughout the county are being corrected, it was revealed yesterday in the office of County Clerk Sweitzer.

Some of the errors were blamed on the girl operators of the tax extension machines, and others on the machines themselves. In some cases the addressograph plates failed to drop in place properly as bills were being addressed, with the result that some taxpayers got other taxpayers' bills. The errors are being corrected as they are discovered. Some taxpayers, getting unexpected reductions, are in luck; others, forced to pay additional taxes, are unfortunate.

One instance in which a mistake was discovered was in the case of William J. Plunkett, former Chicago police captain. Plunkett got a bill for $658.48 on his bungalow at 10720 South Wood street. The bill in 1927 was $266.75. He protested, and it was discovered that his bill should have gone to Nettie O'Connell, 1110 East 62d street, and that her bill, for $323.53 should have been sent to Plunkett.

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS VERDICT AGAINST BRADY

The conviction and sentence of John P. Brady, wealthy Chicago and Kewanee race horse owner and real estate operator, on charges of violating the dry laws was upheld by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday.

Brady was sentenced to eighteen months in Leavenworth prison and fined $5,000 by Federal Judge Fitzhenry at Peoria on conspiracy charges. Alois De Keyser, who leased part of a building owned by Brady across the street from the Kewanee city hall, was given the same sentence, and Peter van Heck, manager of the saloon, was sentenced to one year and a day at Leavenworth and fined $1,000.

Prohibition agents purchased only one glass of beer in the saloon and a subsequent raid yielded no contraband.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 6.—Only immediate relatives and a few close friends attended the funeral services for Marcel S. Levy Falk, former Chicago steel magnate, who died at his home here Wednesday night after a brief illness. He was a member of the board of directors of the Chicago Association of Commerce. He is survived by his widow and an infant son. He was the son of Achille Levy and a nephew of Moise Dreyfus, Chicago capitalist.

Chicago Police Refuse Short End of Bank Reward

A purse of $250, offered the Chicago police department by police of Hammond, as the Chicagoans' share of a $2,100 reward from the Maywood State bank of Hammond for the capture of four bandits who robbed the bank of $21,000, was refused yesterday by Chief of Detectives Stege. Eleven Chicago detectives captured the bandits, obtained their confessions and recovered $10,000 of the loot, Stege said.

New York, June 6.—(AP)—G. D. Eaton, founder and editor of the magazine Plain Talk, died tonight in St. Mark's hospital of heart disease. Since he was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1923 Mr. Eaton has been active in newspaper and literary work.

PRESIDENT ELECT OF COLOMBIA PRAISES MIDWEST ENTERPRISE

Dr. Enrique Olaya, president elect of Colombia and for many years Colombian minister to Washington, came to Chicago yesterday to strengthen the relations between this city and his country.

On his arrival he was greeted at the station by a group of prominent Chicagoans, headed by Rufus C. Dawes, chairman of the Century of Progress. With his daughter, Lucia, and the welcoming party he was driven to the Drake hotel. An escort of police motorcycles with sirens sounding led the way.

At noon he was entertained at a luncheon in the Palmer house given by the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Century of Progress trustees, the Illinois Manufacturers' association, and the Chicago Rotary club.

"Chicago men, Chicago money, and Chicago goods are being employed in the development of Colombia," he said. "In fact, middle western enterprise has played a pioneering and prominent part in this great work. It is my wish that you men of Chicago feel that in the Colombian people and the Colombian government you have good friends, and that as good friends we can work together for our mutual benefit." Dr. Olaya will return to Washington tomorrow.

Oil Boom Starts as Water Drillers Strike Gas Well

THE PAS, Man., June 6.—(AP)—Seeking water at Kakawa, Northern Saskatchewan, a drilling crew was reported to have struck natural gas at 200 feet, setting in motion an incipient oil boom. The gas was said to have been ignited and to be still burning.

SAILORS FIGHT WITH NEGROES SEVERAL HOURS

New London, Conn., June 6.—[Special.] — Sailors and Negroes rioted through the Hill street section of New London from midnight to dawn today after Mrs. Laura Colman, a Negress, beat two navy men.

Rocks, bricks, and railroad spikes were hurled for hours as the sailors, ranging at times from 25 to 500 in number, fought about 100 Negroes. Injuries were numerous on both sides in the affray, and the rioting was halted only when the entire night force of the New London police, aided by the shore patrols from the coast guard base, went into action.

Mrs. Dechow Accused by Husband's Attorney

Action looking towards a court citation of Mrs. Lottie Brenner Dechow, wife of the bogus "Count Von Buelow," was taken yesterday when Attorney Robert L. Cohan, representing Henry Dechow, her husband, asked Judge Joseph Sabath to impound the files in her divorce case. Cohan said Mrs. Dechow had made an affidavit denying she knew where her husband was living, which was contrary to fact.

STANFORD STAR BREAKS COLLEGE SHOT PUT RECORD

Illini Second Choice for Team Trophy.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Harlow Rothert broke the national collegiate shot put record yesterday during the preliminaries of the ninth annual meet at Stagg field. The Stanford star, who last week established a new American mark in the eastern intercollegiates at Harvard, tossed the 16 pound shot 51 feet 1¾ inches. Rothert also held the former record of 50 feet 3 inches, which he made last year.

HARLOW ROTHERT.

Southern California qualified twelve men in the ten events and is the favorite to win the national title. Illinois, led by Lee Sentman, who qualified in both hurdle races and the broad jump, will have six entries, and with Verne McDermont, a certain point winner in the pole vault, is second choice for the team trophy.

Ohio Qualifies Six.

Ohio State also qualified six men. Washington university will have five in today's finals, while Nebraska, Stanford and Kansas qualified four each. Three of Kansas' entries were among the 12 remaining in the discus throw. George Simpson of Ohio State and Frank Wykoff of Southern California won their heats in the 100 yard dash in 9 6-10 seconds. Cy Leland, Texas Christian sprinter, took his heat in 9:8, while Claude Bracey of Rice Institute was victor in the other heat in 9 9-10. Eddie Tolan, Michigan; Herbert Meier, Iowa State; Ed Toppino, Tulane university of New Orleans, and George Hutson of Dennison complete the field of eight which will contest in the finals.

Simpson had the best time in the 100 yard dash. He won his heat in 9 4-10 seconds. Leland, Bracey and Tolan won the other preliminary races with East and Root of Chicago, Farmer of North Carolina, and Wells of Iowa State completing the field.

Sentman ran a remarkable race in the high hudles to win the second heat in 14 6-10 seconds. Steve Anderson of Washington State, James Hatfield of Indiana and Edward Welsh of the Trojans were other winners. Bob Rodgers of Illinois failed to reach the finals when George Saling, Iowa's star, beat him for second place in the heat.

Sentman Best in Lows.

Sentman also had the best time in the low hurdles, winning in 23 8-10 seconds. Anderson, defending title holder, was the victor in the first heat, a tenth of a second slower. Rockaway and Oliver of Texan Christian won the other races. Cave of Illinois, Canfield, Welsh, and Payne of Southern California, qualified.

Edward Gordon leaped 25 feet to top the finalists in the broad jump. This is the best mark Iowa's Negro star ever has made. Gordon paid his own expenses to the meet after George Cunnahan, Hawkeye coach, had left him at Iowa City following an argument over training. Ed Hamm of Georgia Tech, Olympic champion, was second with 24 feet ¾ inches. He passed up his third trial and deferred his attack on Gordon's mark until today.

Orval Martin, Purdue captain, ran a qualifying race in the half mile in 1:55 6-10 seconds. Dale Letts, Maroon star, was timed in 1:56 7-10.

Eric Krenz of Stanford, who holds the world discus record, had a toss of 156 feet 10¾ inches. He leads the field

Pay Attention Is 1st Rule of Good Caddy

What are the qualifications of a good caddy? Why does one boy make a better caddy than another? A Tribune reporter has asked some of Chicago's outstanding golfers these questions. Next week he will ask caddies what they expect of their employers.

Pay attention. This is the first requirement demanded of caddies by the better golfers in the Chicago district when they are attacking Old Man Par. They are agreed that golf is a game of concentration, and that the fewer disturbing influences the better will be the score.

"If I have sliced a tee shot into the rough I have enough to worry about trying for a recovery without having to find my ball while the caddy is engaged in an argument about Babe Ruth and Hack Wilson."

The second point insisted on is that the boy keep quiet. John Ames, son of Knowlton (Snake) Ames, the former Princeton grid star, emphasizes it as follows:

"The caddy who keeps his mouth closed is sure of a good mark from me no matter what faults he may have. There is so much talk among the members of my foursome that I have trouble concentrating as it is."

There is a story at Indian Hill that may interest caddies. One of the members stood on the tenth tee and hit four balls in a row into the pond between the tee and the green. After hitting the fourth ball he threw his club in after it. At this point his caddy chose to laugh, whereupon the member seized him by the trousers and threw him into the water, with the admonition to keep his mouth closed or drown.

Rial Rolfe, Ridgemoor ace, brings up the necessity of a caddy's knowing the rules. Many times ignorance on the part of the boy of what he may and may not do will cause his player to be penalized. Occasionally a caddy follows a member into a sand trap. This incurs the loss of a stroke.

A. L. [Jimmy] Miller of Glen Flora is insistent upon his caddy's being courteous, not only to his own player, but to the others as well. He has seen cases where a boy was so ardent a rooter for his own member that he indulged in a few remarks to an opponent when the latter made a bad shot, causing loss of temper on one side and embarrassment on the other.

Many players insist that the boy stand where he can see the line of flight but not where he will catch the player's eye. They want him to follow the ball without getting in any one's way and to know the course and distances so he may give advice if required to.

The caddy, they also say, must accept a reprimand or suggestion with good grace, for golfers refuse to start out a second time with a boy who does not take enough interest in his job to profit by criticism.

SOX, ATHLETICS OPEN 4 GAME SERIES TODAY

Connie Mack and his world champion Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon will open a four game series at Comiskey park. They are leading the league race by one and a half games. It will be their first visit in this city since their irritating appearance in a couple of world series games at Wrigley field last October.

Because the Yankee-White Sox final was rained out yesterday, Manager Donie Bush will have Tommy Thomas ready to pitch against the great left-handed temperamentalist, Robert Mose Grove. He'll also have Ted Lyons to go in against Earnshaw in the Sabbath day encounter.

The Sox and the champs have met in only one legal game this year, a Comiskey loss in Philadelphia. They also participated in a 6 to 6 tie, which was rained out a half inning before it could be called a legal game.

R. E. SMITH WINS GRANDFATHERS' GOLF AT EXMOOR

Which Means a Prize for Granddaughter Jerrems

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Many wee noses were pressed against windows of north shore homes yesterday while baby eyes watched rain drops pattering upon the panes. This juvenile interest in the weather was brought about by the fact that James L. Martin of Highland Park was giving a party.

This wasn't just an ordinary party. It was the kind Mr. Martin gives every year on the birthday of his grandson, Robert Martin Shanley. He invites only those of his friends who have some one to call them grandfather.

Rain Doesn't Stop 'Em.

First comes luncheon at the Exmoor Country club, then 18 holes of golf, then dinner. And here's the point that made all the youngsters at home look with such high disfavor upon the dripping skies. The stakes in the golf tournament are toy automobiles and airplanes, concrete mixers and Indian wigwams, and how could these boys and girls know that grandfather would go out in the rain and try to win one for them?

But grandfathers are a hardy lot when there is a battle to be fought for a toy concrete mixer or an Indian wigwam. So out they went into the rain and shot their way through 18 holes of golf.

There were special awards for those who have had a grandchild since the last party a year ago. Thomas R. Wyles boasted a new heir, Thomas R. Wyles III.; so did Joseph B. Card—Barbara Campbell; and Edwin Page—Mary Elizabeth Wynegar.

Low Scorers Win Prizes.

The other prizes went to the low scorer in each foursome, the winners and their grandchildren being Frank Gardiner, Page J. Tivodeau; Wallace Winter, Diana Winter; Ward Willits, Donald Burnside; George A. Mason, Phœbe Ann Mason; and Frank E. Hoyne, Franklin Thomas Healy. Allan Clement also won the prize; but, as he has five grandchildren, he has not yet solved the problem of what to do with it.

Which One Will It Be Today--Gallant Fox or Whichone?

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—"Whichone is the better colt."

This is the flat statement, ending with a period, expressed by admirers of Harry Payne Whitney's brown son of Chile-Flying Witch on the eve of the sixty-second running of the Belmont stakes.

HARRY PAYNE WHITNEY.

The race over the true Derby distance of one and one-half miles will be decided at Belmont Park tomorrow. Its gross value, with four starters, is $81,950, with net $69,540 net to the winner. It will determine, for the present at least, the 3 year old championship of 1930.

Contra to this finding, followers of William Woodward's bay son of Sir Gallahad III.-Marguerite retort, "Which one is the better colt?" They spell "which one" with two words and end with a question mark. They do not add a period until they have added, "Why, Gallant Fox, of course."

It's Meeting of Champions.

Never were metropolitan turf fans more stirred over the importance of an impending turf battle. This duel, which might as well be a match race, according to expert opinion, except for the possible pace making of Questionnaire, is between the champion 2 year old of 1929, which has not gone over a distance of ground in actual test this year, and the winner of the Preakness stakes and Kentucky Derby, which already has proved his 1930 form.

Second only in interest in the rivalry between these aristocratic thoroughbreds is the presence on Whichone of Sonny Workman, and on Gallant Fox of Earl Sande. Workman, of the younger generation, is experienced for his years and is termed a riding demon. Sande is the old master, public favorite, who retired from riding with increasing weight but returned to the saddle this spring. He rode the Fox to his Preakness and Derby victories.

Met as Two Year Olds.

Whichone and Gallant Fox met as 2 year olds and victory rested with the Whitney color bearer. That meeting was in the Belmont Futurity last fall. Gallant Fox was third to Whichone and Hi-Jack, three lengths behind the winner. Furthermore, the Whitney stable had declared to win with Boojum, a stable companion. So Whichone, waiting on the move of his stable mate, was four lengths behind the leaders a quarter mile from home. There Workman, on Whichone, feared the result and set his mount down, ran over the contenders, and won going away.

That race, as between the duelists of tomorrow, is what causes most of the experts to pick the Chile colt. On the other hand, the form of colts often changes between seasons. Gallant Fox suffered interference in the Preakness, but finished with a rush. He stayed with the Derby pace mak-

In the WAKE of the NEWS

LUNCH WITH SCHMELING.

NEW YORK, June 6.—[Special.]—When we sat down to lunch in the dining room of Max Schmeling's farmhouse training quarters at Endicott there were seven at the table. You remember that in yesterday's Wake we told of the morning's happenings in a day spent with the German Schlager who aspires to the heavyweight championship.

Schmeling was at one end of the table and the rest of us included a confidential secretary, the owner of a Berlin newspaper, who had come across in the Graf and whose chief regret was that he must sail on his return journey before the bout, Manager Joe Jacobs and his brother, another newspaper man and The Wake.

Except for a cuckoo clock, several steins, and a few personal knicknacks, the dining room was just as it had been left when the occupants moved out to accommodate the Schmeling party in consideration of a bonus. On each plate as we sat down was a small dish containing cooked rhubarb, a good portion of which Max cleared away in short order. On the table in dishes to be passed, boarding house style—for the chef also acted as waiter—were sliced cooked carrots, string beans, buttered beets, dill pickles, a large bowl of lettuce and tomato salad, another huge bowl of apple sauce, home fried potatoes, and presently the chef brought a large platter of wiener schnitzel or breaded veal.

Schmeling helped himself liberally to the vegetables, a fair amount of potatoes at which we rather wondered, a small portion of salad, and a full portion of weiner schnitzel. As The Wake passed him the butter, he shook his head and said, "Only with bread." Rye bread and rolls were passed, which he refused, causing us to ask if bread was not in his training diet. He explained that he seldom ate bread because he didn't care for it, rather than for any other reason. For liquids he drank nearly two glasses of milk, which he uses freely, and a glass of imported mineral water.

Max finished with a generous helping of apple sauce. This he ended while the rest of us were nibbling at small cakes and waiting to try a cup of "kornfranck," not ordinarily served at luncheon but reserved for breakfast or dinner. This is a substitute for coffee, containing no caffeine, and is made from corn. It was widely used following the war, when there was no coffee in Germany. We were told that dinner was along the same general lines as luncheon except that steaks, chops, or chicken was the principal meat dish and that Schmeling did not take desert, except ice cream occasionally.

As we were finishing luncheon, Schmeling arose and went for his daily mail, returning to the table. This was a huge pile of letters and telegrams, which he pored over with evident interest. These letters and telegrams, many from Germany, are the bright spot in his day, we were told. About half of them were written in English and about half in German.

Schmeling is punctilious in answering his correspondence from well-wishers or any one he knows. He confessed he scarcely knew how to answer the letter of a German farmer offering his daughter in marriage after the bout against Sharkey. There also were the usual "touches" and pleas for free tickets to the fight. He brought and showed The Wake his answers to the mail of the day before, typed by his secretary in German and by a young woman in English.

Before Schmeling had finished signing these letters it was time for him to dress for his public workout before a crowd of 1,000 persons at En-Joie park, a well equipped playground and amusement center financed by the Endicott-Johnson Shoe company as part of its welfare system for employés, who number around 14,000 in peak times. This workout we have described in a previous story, so this will end the day's lesson lest Friend Arch become impatient at the amount of space usurped.

HISTRIONICS AND HYSTERICS STILL SHARKEY'S FORTE

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Orangeburg, N. J., June 6.—Perhaps it is the heat and it may be the beer or a little of both that addles judgment of those who frequent prize-fighters' training camps, but certainly the world does get out of plumb after a few days of close scrutiny and analysis and I am wondering if perhaps a man can't get punch drunk just from watching boxers box day after day.

Fat men seem lithe, commonplace characters become quotable authorities, commanding space on good white newsprint in which to express their considered opinions on enormous trivialities, dirty little hog-wallows become gems of water on nature's bosom and a fighter with a record, composed largely of excuses, becomes a killer, restrained only by his self-control.

The Power of Suggestion.

I recently received a letter from a surgeon living in Chicago, presenting the disturbing idea that the inmates of a mad house always regard the world outside as a world of lunatics. Applying this thought to my present situation at Jack Sharkey's training camp, I am not too confident. I wish the doctor had not put the thing in just that way because it suggests that perhaps I am a nut at large, rattling around in my own booby-hatch. To me, Jack Sharkey seems a pretty good heavyweight prize fighter, a 200 pounder somewhat too thick in the barrel down where the body goes into the hips and more complacent than an ambitious man should be. He has a cold blue-gray eye which is capable of the most malevolent glare and a volcanic temper.

But what I see of him here, his boxing, his superb health and his capacity for storming anger is conditioned by what I have seen of him in his peak fights, notably the prize fight with "Fainting" Philip Scott last winter, which clearly demonstrated the difference between mere petulance, such as he evinced, and the furious abandon of Jack Dempsey and Luis Angel Firpo at their best. This is the difference between the brief, meaningless fizz of a soda bottle and the deep, earnest bubbling of champagne.

Fury Doesn't Whip Anybody.

Sharkey's fighting fury is of the same kind that smashes niblicks, fills the air with wild language and upsets people playing in the adjoining fairway in the game of golf.

I am an authority on this kind of temper, having smashed my share of niblicks, and I know that it does not lick any street car conductors or truck drivers of itself.

In Sharkey's case, it almost licked Fainting Philip, because old Philip is easily impressed by a dirty look and it was only a desperate, scared poke as Philip advanced rapidly to the rear that caught Sharkey on the teeth and wrought a change in both of them. A man fighting with the insensate fury of a Dempsey or Firpo would not have felt that punch, but Sharkey staggered back to consider matters and Philip exclaimed to himself, "Wot ho! The blighter ain't as wild as I thought 'e was," and smacked Mr. Sharkey again.

At that, Sharkey's synthetic wrath, which has been self-induced and artificially maintained in the first few rushes, gave way to a quarreling anger. He not only ripped in several low punches, but, when Philip went down, jumped all over the ring, waving his arms, screaming profane remarks, regardless of the near presence of the lady customers, and ran over, poking his face close to Philip's startled countenance, calling him several opprobrious names.

Shouldn't Scare Max.

This kind of fury might impress a layman, but I think laymen are inclined to place too great a fighting

72 Runs in 5 Days; That's Cubs' Record

Baseball statisticians yesterday again broke out in a rash when the Cubs, for the fifth successive time, required two digits to tabulate their score.

The "ten or more runs" idea was launched here against Pittsburgh last Sunday with a count of 16 to 4 and since, in the east, the McCarthys have registered scores of 15 to 2, 18 to 10, and 10 to 7 against Boston and 13 to 0 against the league leading Brooklyn Robins yesterday.

This series of murderous performances has stacked up a total of 72 runs and has sent the researchers to their tomes to determine whether a new modern record has been set. The record appearing in the standard record books is 88 in four consecutive games, but this doesn't mean a thing because it was set by the Chicago National club in 1876. Scoring operations of that period are not comparable to the present.

The five games have been played by the same lineup, excepting the pitchers, and every one of the eight players has batted .333 or better, excepting Clyde Beck. The sluggers have been led by Capt. Charley Grimm, who has been socking at a modest .579 clip. Other averages for the five game stretch are Cuyler and Stephenson, .458; Hartnett, .450; Wilson, .440; English, .363; Blair, .333, and Beck, .105.

Cuyler has been the biggest run scorer with 13, with English and Stephenson runners up with 11 each. Grimm has scored 10 and Wilson 9.

Tannery Runs 3d to Ellice at Homewood

BY FRENCH LANE.

Dropped into the Wacker Drive purse with a crowd of eligibles for the American Derby, Tannery was backed so stoutly that he was the 7 to 10 favorite at post time.

When the official numbers were hung out Ellice, a fast filly from the Johnson N. Camden stable, was the winner. Ned O., an eastern Derby hope, was second, and plodding old Tannery wound up in third place.

Ellice Beats Him Easily.

Tannery cost the west lots of money when he failed to get any part of the Kentucky Derby, pot. But Tannery's backers said that race was an accident. Tannery then moved to Chicago. His admirers said he would make good for his Kentucky failure. But Tannery didn't make good. Ellice made a show of him and so did Ned O., once the latter started running in the stretch.

It was Ellice from start to finish. She was from two to six lengths in front all the time. She wound up by beating Ned O. by four lengths. In the mutuel betting Ellice paid $12.82. She won like a 3 to 5 shot.

Flyer Makes Good.

But another Derby eligible called Flyer was making good for his public in a short dash of six furlongs, which also engaged Derby candidates.

Flyer's victory was very impressive. He is a son of High Cloud-Lassie and races in the silks of the Audley Farm Stable of Virginia.

His margin of victory at the end of the three-quarters mile dash was eight lengths and he was going so easily at the end it looked like he could run to San Francisco and back without slowing up.

Finishing second to the Audley Farm colt was Ald. John J. Coughlin's Outer Harbor, also a Derby eligible, and a son of Polymelian. He also ran a mighty race under an incompetent ride by Jockey P. Rooney. Jean Lafitte, a half brother to Jean Valjean, was third and he is also eligible for the Derby.

Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable silks were carried to victory in the Lincoln Highway handicap by her 4 year old, Stars and Bars,

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 6.—Dazzy Vance is in eclipse, the Cubs' winning streak has been stretched to nine games, and the spotlight is beaming down on Charley Root because of a two-hit triumph. All this happened today when the first place Robins folded up their wings before the Cubs by a 13 to 0 score that convinced 20,000 spectators that the class of the league still is in the western end of the circuit. As a result the Cubs are only one game from the top.

CHARLEY ROOT.

Vance, stepping into a battle which he regarded as a mere romp against the team he terms his meal ticket, did only one thing to satisfy his vanity. He fanned ten men, but he wore himself down in the effort.

Grimm's Homer Starts Scoring.

In the midst of what seemed to be a bid on his part for a new strikeout record, he was walloped for a homer in the second by Charley Grimm, who always hits him. In the fourth the Cubs went after him for a pair of runs, and they made a similar attack in the fifth. They did the same in the sixth. Then the Dazzler quit, but the Cubs kept on going with two more in each of the three remaining rounds.

It probably was a matter of keen disappointment to Vance that he could not fool his old friend Hack Wilson on strikes. Before the Dazzler could escape Hack faced him three times and fouled out once, hit a two bagger, and was safe on an error.

While Mr. Vance was performing the Cubs rolled up ten hits, most of them emphatic blows. Besides Grimm's homer there was one by Hartnett, with a mate on, in the sixth. In addition to Hack's double there was a two bagger with which Cuyler inaugurated a two run rally in the fifth. The others were singles. After Vance's hurried departure six more hits were hung up to complete the total of 13 runs.

Only Four Robins Reach Base.

Root's hurling was so nearly perfect that there isn't much to say about it. In the first three chapters only nine men faced him. In the fourth, with one out, Frederick and Herman produced what proved the only Brooklyn hits. A double play started by English, stopped this from becoming a rally. After this only two Robins reached base. Bissonette walked to open the fifth. Root's speed fanned two of the next three batters. The other pass went to Moore to start the eighth.

Grimm displayed a little patience about selecting his home run ball when he led off in the second. He let the count run to 2 and 0, and then, when the Dazzler tried to slip one over Capt. Charley labeled it for a long voyage. The ball came down in front of the bleacher in left and bounced over the wall for a homer before the pursuing outfielders could capture it. Vance then rolled back his soiled sleeves and whiffed Hartnett, Beck, and Root in succession.

Wilson's two bagger in the fourth sailed on a line to right center. Hack romped over to third on a hit caromed off Vance's glove by Stephenson. Grimm bounced to Vance, who threw him out, letting Hack score and sending Stephenson to second. Hartnett whacked a single to right, scoring Stevie, and took second on the return throw. Then Vance bore down and fanned Beck and Root.

It was mainly a display of daring base running that shook two more ers for six furlongs on a slow track in 1:14 and had them so leg weary that the final half was only a romp. That is performance enough to give any championship aspirant a high rating, despite the indifferent class behind him.

Again, Gallant Fox is bred to go a route. Originally there were questions of Whichone's staying qualities because he had not been tried.

Whichone Goes Route.

These were silenced, in part, by his recent sensational workout in 2:32 in evenly timed quarters, with a heavy exercise boy aboard. No Belmont ever has been run that fast. Gallant Fox's last time trial was a mile and one-eighth in 1:50, the first mile in 1:36.

Under favorable track conditions that will be a hoss race at Belmont park tomorrow.

RAID OFFICES OF AMERICAN DERBY LOTTERY; 1 HELD

A detective bureau gambling squad headed by Sergt. Martin Mullen yesterday raided the loop headquarters of a lottery whose promoters already are reported to have collected $60,000 for tickets on the American Derby. M. Vern was arrested in the raid on room 2024 at 134 North La Salle street.

The raid was part of Commissioner William F. Russell's campaign against horse race pools, instituted as a result of complaints that holders of the winning tickets in a recent Kentucky Derby lottery were unable to collect their prizes.

Killdeers Put on Possum Act for Becker

BY BOB BECKER.

Have you seen the killdeers "play possum" this year? As a fisherman on the way to a trout stream in the upper peninsula of Michigan a few days ago we had a chance to see a pair of noisy killdeers put on their act, which never fails to give a fellow a thrill.

Here is what happened. We were in an automobile with Fred Sligh on our way to the bank of the Presque Isle river. The road took us through the yards of a lumber mill. Sawdust and other rubbish from the mill covered the ground on both sides of the road. Suddenly Sligh put on the brakes and stopped the car with a jerk, because right under the left front wheel stood a pert little bird not more than four inches high.

He looked as if he were two-thirds legs and one-third body. As we looked at him he started to run like a scared rabbit, so we hopped out of the car to get a better look at him.

This baby bird was a young killdeer. Already circling around us and uttering their sharp complaining cries were the old birds, both very much alarmed.

We told Sligh to hustle and follow us if he wanted to see a bird stunt that he had never seen before. So the two of us scampered after the killdeer chick, which we finally caught.

One of the old birds dropped to the ground about thirty feet from us. It appeared to be severely injured and unable to fly. There it rested on the ground, wings apparently broken and absolutely powerless to get into the air.

Gently holding the young killdeer in our right hand, we moved up to the "wounded" bird, a move that was expected and desired by the feathered actors. As we approached, it sailed into the air on strong wings, flew ten feet, and then collapsed again. Then the mate of this old bird appeared and it, too, dropped to the ground.

This pretense of being hurt and helpless so as to attract an enemy from its nest or young is an old trick of the killdeers. They are smart at this game of playing 'possum, always letting you get fairly close to them and then moving ahead again to draw you farther away from their endangered family.

MRS. PARDUE GOES TO FINALS; BEATS MRS. ALEXANDER

Tulsa, Okla., June 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Klotz Pardue, Sioux City, Ia., will meet Mrs. Hulbert S. Clarke, Oklahoma City, for the women's trans-Mississippi golf championship in a 36-hole final match here tomorrow.

Mrs. Pardue defeated Mrs. Stanley Alexander of Camden, Ark., 5 and 3, in the semi-finals today. Mrs. Clarke did not lose a single hole in the other semi-final match, when she defeated Mrs. Tom Wallace of Sapulpa, present Oklahoma champion, 5 and 4.

O'DOUL LEADS BIG SIX BATTERS WITH DOUBLE, TRIPLE

The entire American league membership of the Big Six was idle yesterday, wet grounds stopping Babe Ruth and Sam Rice, and Frank O'Doul had to carry the entire burden of hefty batting for the day. O'Doul hit a double and a triple in four times at bat in the Phillies' slugfest against Cincinnati and lifted his average to .383, still remaining behind the injured Al Simmons. Babe Herman and Paul Waner each hit once in four tries, the leader losing three points and Waner five.

The standing:

	G	AB	R	H	Pct.
Herman, Robins	44	180	50	75	.417
Rice, Senators	44	187	45	75	.401
Waner, Pirates	36	131	25	51	.389
Simmons, Athletics	38	153	39	59	.386

runs from the Robins in the fifth. With two out, Cuyler shot what should have been only a single past short, but he put on his running legs and reached second before the Robins woke up.

Wilson rapped a bounder at Flowers, who let the ball trickle through his paws. Cuyler scored and Hack raced to second on the error. On the hit and run Stephenson aimed a single between short and third, Hack scoring. Stevie tried to emulate Cuyler by taking two bases on the hit, but was out to end the inning.

In the sixth Grimm hammered Vance for a single and went to second on a wild pitch. He scored immediately on the home run which Hartnett arched over the right field wall. It was Gabby's third homer in three days.

Dudley opened the seventh inning by walking English and Cuyler, and the pair advanced on Wilson's infield out. Stephenson bounced out, Flowers to Bissonette, and English scored on the play. Grimm singled Cuyler home. Hartnett also hit safely, but Beck could not prolong the action. Hits by Root, English, and Wilson accounted for the pair in the eighth.

In the ninth Newsom passed Grimm and Hartnett. They advanced on an infield out and went home on a drive through short by Root. It was recorded as an error, but the error was on the part of the official scorer, not Moore.

Ott to Wed New Orleans School Teacher in Fall

Veeck Back; Asks Why Cubs Should Need New Players

President William Veeck of the Chicago Cubs, in the last three days reported dashing about the country with a bag of gold and a desire to buy a high grade pitcher and Third Baseman Pinky Whitney of the Phils, last night returned to his home in Hinsdale.

"I have been in Cincinnati on a personal matter and have not purchased any ball players," Mr. Veeck said.

OTTO AGREES TO FIGHT STRIBLING; BAN CANCELLED

Otto von Porat yesterday was returned to good standing by the Illinois athletic commission when he agreed to meet W. L. "Young" Stribling in a 10 round match at the Chicago Stadium June 18.

The Norwegian heavyweight and his manager, Ed Stevenson, made a verbal agreement a week ago with the Stadium for the match but refused to sign Thursday. The Stadium complained to the commission and Stevenson and Von Porat were suspended for six months.

COMOROSKY HITS HOMER IN NINTH; PIRATES WIN, 4-3

Maguire and Welsh Lead Braves' Hitters.

Boston, Mass., June 6.—(AP)—Pittsburgh defeated the Boston Braves, 4 to 3, here today as a result of Adam Comorosky's homer into the left field stands in the ninth inning. Comorosky was the first batter in the final inning and the hit was made off Ben Cantwell.

Histrionics and Hysterics Still Sharkey's Chief Attack

value on it. But it all comes under the head of mere intimidation. A professional, such as Max Schmeling, fighting for an asset of an estimated worth of between one million and two million dollars, cannot be expected to succumb to bad language and an angry glare, or anything else short of a deadening punch on some sensitive spot, within bounds or out.

The night Sharkey fought Jack Dempsey he sat in his corner before the bell, putting the eye on Mr. Dempsey, as the saying goes. He contracted his lower lip, showing his teeth, drew down his brows, squinted his eyes, and glared with great concentration, even shoving aside his fat manager, Mr. Buckley, when that patient attendant clumsily interposed his round physique in his line of vision.

Now, Mr. Dempsey had been in actor in the moving pictures and had received professional instruction in all the primary emotional expressions of the art, such as love, hunger, hate, etc.

Dempsey Knew His Book.

The book had said:

"To manifest love, roll the eyes and heave the chest in two counts, hep, one-two, preferably wearing flannel shirt with two top buttons open, revealing chest action.

"To manifest hunger, draw in cheeks and rub center. To portray hate, contract lower lip, revealing teeth, draw down brows, squint eyes and glare with great concentration."

So when Mr. Dempsey looked up and caught Sharkey's eye he was slightly puzzled for a moment, but not intimidated.

"Well, will you look at that guy?" he said to the late Leo P. Flynn, who stood beside him. "He's been going to dramatic school. That's the old No. 3 hate."

I have been hearing and reading that Sharkey has learned two new knacks, one with each hand. With the left he delivers a sharp, punishing hook, as quick as a fang. The right cross has been shortened, gaining accuracy and power.

When I look closely I can almost see these improvements, but I mistrust my opinion because I am trying hard to be as expert as the next one and straining to see significant things. If one looks fixedly at a star at night one may presently see it move, although it doesn't move, and when I search Mr. Sharkey's fists for new meanings I see them doing the new things contrary to my judgment.

Overconfidence is a trait with him. He doesn't unlearn it. The punches that seemed so sharp and neat in Miami Beach became roundabout swings when Fainting Philip poked out his long, strong arms in the ring down south and the gloves went sliding up Philip's arms to his shoulders and fell off, doing no harm. Schmeling is not the boxer that Fainting Phil is, and, because he weighs at least 15 pounds less than Sharkey, he will have to hit him a few good, hurtful smashes early in the fight or go out himself. The only men Sharkey knocks out are little men. He was great against Jack Delaney, Michael McTigue, and Tommy Loughran, although one did hear sinister gossip to the effect that Delaney's subsidence was not entirely due to external inducement.

It's His Own Portrait.

If Schmeling does hit first, Sharkey will take back and settle down to a sulky, mauling fight, because that is the kind of fighter he is, and men don't change character at his age. I hope I do not seem to abuse this man Sharkey. He puts himself up there for examination, receiving a fortune for it, and I only describe him as I see him. If it is necessary to report that he weeps, rages, and curses in the ring, that is his doing.

Now Sharkey issues a proclamation. For this contest he will take the ring fired by the ardor of a patriot, prepared to do something very special to the outlander and keep the heavyweight championship in the U. S. A. That paper seems unimportant to me because he faced exactly the same situation in Florida only four months ago and would have lost the fight disgracefully under any fair interpretation of the rules.

SCHMELING GOES FISHING

Endicott, N. Y., June 6.—(AP)—'Twas six days before the battle and not a glove was unsheathed today in the training camp of Max Schmeling. A chill rain supplanted the heat of the last few days, driving the German heavyweight from the golf links to the fishing grounds in Lake Aquagua, where even the bass failed to come out of hiding.

The youthful Teuton, finishing the two day vacation that will precede the three last days of boxing in preparation for his fifteen round duel with Jack Sharkey in the Yankee stadium next Thursday night, appeared worried at the failure of the New York state athletic commission today to grant his manager of choice, Joe Jacobs, even a temporary license to second him next Thursday night, with his team mate, Rothert, in second place.

Ken Churchill of California is expected to win the javelin title. Yesterday he set a mark of 198 feet 8 inches. Iowa's two contestants, Nelson and Weldon, ranked second and third. Nelson's mark was 194 feet 10 inches.

Rut Walter, who brought the quarter-mile championship to Northwestern last year, won his qualifying heat in 48 8-10 seconds, the best competitive mark he has made this season. However, Bowen, Pittsburgh's star, won his preliminary one-tenth of a second faster. Qualifiers:

Liberty Article Tells How Jack Coached Max

Nearly everybody who has seen a picture of Max Schmeling, German contender for the heavyweight championship, has commented on his startling resemblance to Jack Dempsey, but few know that a personal boxing lesson by Dempsey, who also was startled by the resemblance, is responsible for Schmeling's fighting tactics, in which he resembles the Manassa Mauler almost as much as he resembles him physically.

The German's one encounter with the former heavyweight champion, who had been his idol when Max was a struggling novice fighter, is described by Sidney Sutherland in an article, entitled "Schmeling in the Fifth," in the June 14 issue of Liberty.

The meeting with Dempsey came in 1925, while the champion was touring Europe, a year after Schmeling had taken up pugilism as a profession. Max, who had spent most of his boyhood in Hamburg, started boxing as an amateur at a Cologne club in 1923, when he was 18 years old. Inside of a year he had whipped all of the fighters in the city and had finished as runner-up in a national amateur boxing tournament at Chemnitz.

Then he turned professional and started his career with a knockout over a middleweight named Czapp, following it up with eight victories in nine other bouts that year. He and his opponent were disqualified in the other fight because the referee thought they weren't trying, although Max says he didn't know how to fight.

That afternoon they boxed a couple of rounds at Schmeling's club and after the workout Dempsey advised him to adopt his own charging tactics, leaping out of his corner at the sound of the first gong, with the idea of getting it over as quickly as possible. Schmeling followed that advice in his campaign to win first the light heavy title of Europe from Max Diekmann with one punch, and the heavyweight crown from Franz Diener.

He followed it in his first American bout with Joe Sekyra, in his knockout victory over Johnny Risko, the Cleveland rubber man, and his "massacre" of Paulino Uzcudun. He expects to follow it next Thursday in his quest for the title against Jack Sharkey.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Three years ago this month a gangling Hoosier kid by the name of Tom Warne came up from Kokomo, Ind., to compete in the pole vault at the Stagg interscholastic. Before the day was over he had given the crowd a thrill or two, setting a new record of 12 feet 10 inches, and narrowly missing 13 feet in three extra trials. Since then, he has become Northwestern university's most consistent point winner and is rated one of the best vaulters in collegiate history.

This story isn't about Tom Warne, but about two boys whose records parallel his closely, both of whom promise to be boosting themselves over the bar at 14 feet or more within a few years. They are John Wonsowicz of Froebel High of Gary and Hubert Skelly of Oak Park High.

Tie for National Title.

Last Saturday John and Hubert tied for the national vaulting championship at Stagg field, both repeating Warne's 1927 mark of 12 feet, 10 inches, a height more than one college vaulter envies.

The Stagg meet marked the final appearance of both Wonsowicz and Skelly, as high school vaulters and brought to an end a two year rivalry between them.

Wonsowicz, who is 19 years old, has been the mainstay of the Froebel team which won the national title last year and successfully defended it Saturday. Whitey became air minded about six years ago while attending the Roosevelt grade school in Gary.

He was just another pole vaulter when he went down to Columbus to compete in the Ohio relays, but when he came back he was Froebel's hero and high school lads the country over were reading of how one Whitey Wonsowicz had kicked and sailed his way over the bar at 13 feet 4 inches for a new world's interscholastic record.

Flying so high was not such a novelty for John, at that, since he also holds the world's indoor high school vault mark of 13 feet 2 inches, set at the University of Iowa interscholastic this spring.

Here Are Their Records.

Tying Wonsowicz in the Stagg meet Saturday was a moral victory for Skelly, for it isn't every vaulter who can match the efforts of the holder of two world's records. Hubert, who is 18 years old, lives at 843 Williams street, River Forest. Incidentally, his jump against Wonsowicz is his best mark outdoors. His highest jump inside is 12 feet 8 inches, made in the Iowa meet in which Wonsowicz set his world's record.

Here's the story of what Wonsowicz and Skelly have done in their six meetings:

National indoor interscholastic at Northwestern, March, 1929—Skelly, 11 feet 10 inches; Wonsowicz, 11 feet 6 inches.

Midwest relays, University of Wisconsin, May, 1929—Wonsowicz, 12 feet; Skelly, 11 feet 10 inches.

National indoor interscholastic at Northwestern, March, 1930 — Wonsowicz, 12 feet 6 inches; Skelly, 12 feet 3 inches.

Froebel-Oak Park dual meet at Oak Park, February, 1930—Wonsowicz, 11 feet 9 inches; Skelly, 11 feet, 6 inches.

University of Iowa indoor interscholastic, April, 1930—Wonsowicz, 13 feet 2 inches; Skelly, 12 feet 8 inches.

EX-WIFE BOBS UP TO BECLOUD JOYS OF WINNING POOL

New York, June 6.—(AP)—The complexities that entered the life of the Doughertys of Brooklyn with the $149,000 won on the English Derby sweepstakes, were increased today by the appearance of a woman who said she was the deserted second wife of Daniel Dougherty.

Mrs. Margaret Dougherty had little patience with the stories Dougherty, a Brooklyn apartment house doorman, has told reporters, portraying himself as a fond and self-sacrificing father.

"He may have $149,000 and he may not. But if he has I have two things to say, and I'll say them to him, too. And that is I am going to sue him for support, and I'll warn those boys that if he lays his hands on that money it'll be gone in a year."

Von Elm Captures French Amateur Golf Tourney

LA BOULIE, France, June 6.—(AP)—George von Elm, former amateur golf champion of the United States, today added the French amateur crown to his collection. Von Elm defeated R. G. Morrison of England, 9 up and 8 to play, in the 36 hole final.

DRY WEATHER IN WHEAT REGION BOOSTS PRICES

Canadian Northwest Is Major Factor.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Dry weather in the Canadian northwest came to the fore as a major factor in the wheat market yesterday. While there was a small dip early due to unresponsive Liverpool cables, commission houses absorbed the surplus in the pit on the decline, and prices advanced 1¼@1⅜c from the low, with July leading and the finish was ⅝@⅝c higher with July $1.07@1.07⅛ and September $1.09⅞@1.10.

While a good part of the buying of wheat futures during the day was regarded as short covering, the undertone of the wheat market was relative firm and independent strength in Winnipeg had considerable influence. Winnipeg closed 1@1⅛c higher.

The official weather map showed no precipitation in the prairie provinces over night and the forecast was for fair and warmer on both sides of the international line.

Foreign News Changing

A gradual change is apparent in the foreign crop comments on wheat. Broomhall reported damage in North Africa during the day, a section that has heretofore sent only claims of good conditions, and cables told of a return of rainy weather on the continent, following a few days of sunshine. Sales of only 250,000 bu for export were reported at the seaboard.

Liverpool and continental markets will be closed today and Monday. European wheat stocks are being permitted to run down steadily, with importers generally disposed to buy on a hand to mouth scale, feeling that there is a big supply available in exporting countries.

In some quarters it is felt that the extremely high import duty prevailing in many European countries will result in curtailing consumption of wheat. Liverpool closed ½@¾d higher for the day. India is offering new wheat abroad on a fair scale, with sales made at around $1.20 per bu c. i. f. the United Kingdom.

Country Sells Cash Corn.

Corn market failed to display the strength which characterized it on Thursday, due to hedging pressure from cash interests against purchases of 235,000 bu to arrive, making over 400,000 bu bought in the last two days. Shipping demand was less aggressive, with sales of 103,000 bu, the total for the two days being about equal to the amount booked to arrive. Futures held within a range of ⅝@⅞c, with the finish at net losses of ⅛@¼c, with September showing the most strength. The latter finished at 82¼@82⅝c and July at 81⅜@81⅝c.

Oats held within narrow limits, with cash and commission houses on the buying side, while locals sold. The finish was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, with July 40¼c. There were complaints from parts of Iowa and Illinois indicating that the crop needed rain for short straw.

Bulk of the trade in rye was in spreading between the various deliveries and with wheat and corn. Final trades were ⅛c higher to ⅝c lower, July finishing at 62⅝c and September at 67c.

CHICAGO BOARD of TRADE STOCKS

Two additions to the unlisted security department were made by the Board of Trade directors yesterday. They are 9,090,000 shares of Pennroad corporation voting trust certificates for common stock of that company and 2,407,962 shares of class B nonvoting no par common stock of American Cyanamid company.

Electric Bond and Share issues were under pressure, breaking nearly 2 points, and closed at the bottom, being off 8 points from the season's high.

BUTTER FUTURES LOWER

Recovering ¼c from the low for the day, butter futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange showed a net decline of ½c, or $96 per car, in June contracts and ¼c, or $48 per car, in November. Futures eased when the spot market weakened 1c. July fresh contracts sold initially at 31½c. Sales were 132 cars and receipts 16,749 tubs.

Marked slowing up of storing movement paved the way for an advance of ¼c, or $30 per car, in November eggs. Sales were 170 cars and receipts, 26,622 cases. Prices follow:

BREAK IN COTTON

Good rains in sections where they were most needed, also fair scattered showers over a large portion of the belt, combined with a break of 3 to 6 points in Liverpool and sales of only 2,000 bales of spots, were the factors that contributed yesterday to the lowering of cotton prices.

Spinners' takings for the week were estimated at 150,000 to 160,000 bales against 272,000 bales last year. World's visible decrease 103,000 bales against 220,000 bales last year, the total being 3,797,000 bales against 2,866,000 bales last year. Prices follow:

CHEAPER MONEY AIDS UNCLE SAM IN CUTTING DEBT

Low Yield Placed on Treasury Issue.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Whether or not easy money rates are affording much stimulus to business, industry, and the securities markets, they certainly are helping Uncle Sam in refunding and whittling down the national debt. For example, Secretary Mellon yesterday announced an offering of around $400,000,000 of one year treasury certificates of indebtedness bearing 2⅞ per cent interest.

This interest rate is the lowest on this form of government obligation in a considerable period. Most of the recent issues have borne 3 per cent or more, and the certificates issued about a year ago carried a 4⅞ per cent rate. The present issue will be dated June 16 and the proceeds, coupled with the income tax installment due on June 15, is expected to provide for the government's needs until September. On June 16 the treasury will pay off about $550,000,000 of maturing certificates and about $95,000,000 of interest on the public debt.

Zone Moves Westward.

The zone of easy money rates moved westward yesterday when the Cleveland Federal Reserve bank reduced its rediscount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent. This action followed the reduction to 3 per cent by the New York reserve bank about two months ago, and the more recent cut to 3½ per cent by the Boston institution. The other nine federal reserve banks are maintaining a 4 per cent rate.

While there still isn't much to cheer about in business, still there are some evidences of improvement, according to the weekly mercantile reviews.

"Real summer weather is responsible for a slight pickup in retail trade reports and an access of sympathetic cheerfulness in wholesale and jobbing lines," Bradstreet's review says. "Collections reports, too, were a shade more cheerful and crops, although reporting rain needed, held nearly all of their former promise. Industrial reports for the week, on the other hand, showed some evidences of the quieting down noted in late May, as, for instance, in iron and steel, automobiles, lumber and cotton, being carried over into June."

"Nothing has occured to alter the conservative opinion that business recovery would be at a measured pace, such week's results being largely of a indecisive character," Dun's review says. "The chief advance continues to be in forces making for eventual revival rather than in actual present gain and the approach of summer precludes any early essential change from this condition.

Eliminate Weak Points.

"Seasonal factors now have both a stimulating and a repressing effect, giving impetus to retail trade and outdoor work, but tending to restrain operations in some manufacturing branches. Action to place production more nearly in line with consumption is proceeding in numerous industries, the inventory position is being gradually strengthened and the elimination of weak points that have appeared is contributing toward a more solid foundation for the future."

As might be expected, business failures are more numerous than a year ago, while bank clearings are smaller. Failures this week were placed at 485, compared with 480 last week and 423 in the same week last year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—The directors of the Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation have authorized the issuance of additional no par common stock to common stockholders of record June 13. The ratio will be one additional share for each four shares outstanding, at an issue price of $40 per share, of which $25 will be credited to capital and $15 to paid-in surplus.

A total of 203,530 shares will be offered for subscription, and will be taken in full by the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation, the present owner of the entire common stock outstanding. The proceeds of $3,141,200 will be used for repayment of advances received from the international corporation and to provide funds for extensions and additions to the properties of the postal system.

South Penn Oil Plans 20 Per Cent Curtailment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—The crude output of the South Penn Oil company, one of the largest producers of the Bradford field in Pennsylvania, will be curtailed 20 per cent under an agreement announced by that company today. In an effort to stabilize production and improve the prices of all most of the smaller companies in that field have united with the larger ones in a proration plan.

Home Show to Continue Another Week

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's Own Your Home show, now being held on East Chicago avenue, east of Michigan boulevard, will not close tonight, as originally intended, but will be extended another week. These additional seven days have been added at the request of suburban communities, according to the management. Coincident with the announcement of the extra week came the suggestion by Henry K. Holsman, Chicago architect, made at a conference held at the Home show, that gold medals be awarded workmen as an incentive to more and better work.

HENRY K. HOLSMAN

Mr. Holsman stated that such a system is being used with much success in New York and Philadelphia and added that a gold button or medal had spurred plasterers, bricklayers, and other building trade employés to greater efforts in their work.

Just as We All Do.

"The members of the building trades like recognition of their craftsmanship just as we all do," said Mr. Holsman. "The Building congress in New York City and David Knickerbocker Boyd, famous architect, in Philadelphia are sponsors of this system in those cities."

Mr. Holsman, who is a fellow of the American Institute of Architects, is a former president of the Chicago chapter of the A. I. A.

At the conference to see what can be done to reduce the cost of home building and home ownership, the following three major recommendations were made: 1. That home financing costs or the cost of credit to the individual home owner be made cheaper. 2. That labor be encouraged to greater efforts by the honorary system of awards, already mentioned. 3. That the United States government aid home ownership by making as authoritative data available on this subject as it does on the proper feeding of hogs.

Sees Lower Construction Costs.

This conference was called by George F. Nixon as chairman of the own your home division of the Chicago Real Estate board. Mr. Nixon declared that the various trades in the building field must be knit together if this business is to be a really big business on a standard with the other big businesses in the country.

"If the many interests who work on producing the American home will get together and try to cut out unnecessary motions and understand each other's problems, I'm sure home construction costs can be further reduced," said Mr. Nixon.

Herbert U. Nelson, executive secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, suggested that gold medal awards be given to individual builders for excellence of an entire project. He pointed out that builders of small homes are "orphans" in the business world in that they are usually small firms that need the encouragement of the big interests in the building trades.

He said that a gold medal awarded, for instance, to the builder of the best $10,000 home in Oak Park built in any one year would encourage all builders in this area to greater efficiency because of the prestige of having won such an award.

ROYAL DUTCH TO POOL PATENTS; REPORTS INCOME

New York, June 6.—In connection wih the earnings report of the Royal Dutch company, holding organization for last year, it was revealed that the company had decided to pool its interests with those of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey through the I. G. Farbenindustrie combine in order to exchange experience and patents and to work the hydrogenation patents jointly.

"By combining with other interested parties," the Royal Dutch report said, "some of which are large chemical industries, all further inventions and improvements will be concentrated in one central body and thus this process by which high grade products can be made from greatly varying products can be applied on the widest possible scale."

Net income for the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, amounted to 126,471,391 florins [around $51,000,000] after charges, equal after dividends on the 4 per cent and 4½ per cent preferred stocks to 25.11 per cent on 503,624,000 florins ordinary stock.

Ford's May World Output Is Behind That of April

New York, June 6.—(AP)—The world production of Ford cars and trucks, including shipments for foreign assemblies, during May is given as 191,813, as compared with 206,340 in April. Of the May total 165,636 were produced in the United States, contrasted with 179,149 in April.

Equitable Life Shows 11% Gain Over 1929 Period

New York, June 6.—(AP)—President Thomas I. Parkinson of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States reports its total ordinary life insurance during the first five months of this year showed an increase of 11 per cent over the corresponding period of 1929.

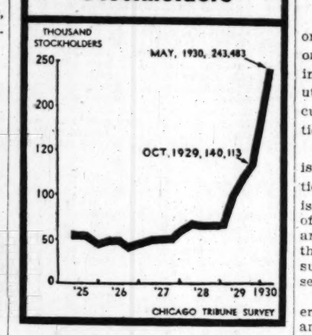
Since the Market Break General Motors Has Gained 100,000 Stockholders



CHICAGO STOCK PRICES RETREAT UNDER PRESSURE

Auburn Off 6 Points to Year's Low.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Stocks retreated in an orderly fashion under the fresh burst of selling which enveloped the market yesterday. Closing prices on the Chicago exchange were off from one to three points. There were no drastic breaks such as occurred in Super Maid in the previous day's trading.

Rumors of possible adverse dividend action by directors of Houdaille Hershey corporation placed the company's "B" in a vulnerable position and sellers made the most of the opening. The issue was forced down to 15 on rather heavy trade and recovered slightly before the close. Auburn sold off 6 points to its year's low and failed to share in the feeble rally which developed late in the session. Cord was down in sympathy and was off more than a point at the close. Bendix and Borg-Warner each sustained moderate reverses.

Majestic Closes Lower.

Reflecting the statement made by President Roy W. Wilson, Super Maid turned up to reach 27, only to settle back to 23½ before the day was out. Electric Household touched 52 during the day, but recovered substantially in later dealings. Majestic Household on sales of approximately 13,500 shares finished slightly above its low for the day at 62, off 2 points net.

The market action of Middle West Utilities reflected the financing which is being carried out for the company. On heavy sales the stock receded to 32. Halsey, Stuart & Co., syndicate managers of the group offering the $50,000,000 issue of the company's short term notes, announced that that issue has been oversubscribed. It is believed that the sale of the notes represents the last piece of financing which the company will do this year. Proceeds of the notes will be used for the acquisition of additional properties and the development of subsidaries.

Doubles Gas Acreage.

Commonwealth Edison declined moderately on light sales which was generally attributed to the fading prospects of rights for stockholders. Missouri Kansas Pipe Line and Inland Utilities were both steady, the latter finishing with a small gain. Edward R. Berry, vice president of Inland, states that developed gas acreage of the company has more than doubled during the first eleven months of operation and now totals 28,499 acres.

J. J. Bergen, eastern syndicate manager of the Duquesne Gas corporation, states that the program of the company, which will be completed in six months, calls for the production of 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

Unfavorable dividend news came from two companies whose securities are traded in on the exchange. Lion Oil company directors postponed action on its quarterly dividend of 50 cents. Action will be taken not later than June 17. Nachman-Springfilled corporation omitted action on the first quarterly dividend due at this time. The rate was reduced from $3 to $2 three months ago.

Offer $1,000,000 Racine County (Wis.) Bonds

Offering of the issue of $1,000,000 Racine county, Wisconsin, 4½ per cent court house and jail bonds, maturing serially from June 1, 1931 to 1950, is being made at prices to yield 3.75 to 4.20 per cent. The offering group comprises the Harris Trust and Savings bank, Chicago; the First Wisconsin company, Milwaukee; the Foreman-State corporation, and Stone & Webster, and Blodget, Inc.

Look to Farm as Electrical Power Outlet

BY SCRUTATOR.

There are rather definite limitations on the possibilities of using electricity on farms. They have been outlined in a number of careful studies by utilities companies and have been discussed by farmers and their organizations.

The first problem to be considered is the distribution cost of central station electricity in rural sections. This is of sufficient weight to limit the use of such energy to sections where there are at least three farm customers to the mile. Large farms or ranches, such as are characteristic of certain sections of the west, are thus left out.

This three-to-a-mile ratio is so generally accepted that it seems unlikely anything but revolutionary changes in electric distribution can change it. The Ontario hydro commission uses it. The average size of a farm in Illinois is 141.7 acres, which would give, it is estimated, 3½ customers to the mile, if they all took the service.

Makes Careful Estimates.

Despite the narrowness of this margin, it has been determined by careful estimates at the University of Illinois that 16,320 farmers in the state were getting central station energy at the start of this year. About 25,000 more were operating their own electric plants. Combining these totals, it can be said that around 18 per cent of all Illinois farms have some form of electric service.

Rural electrification usually is discussed only from the standpoint of the central station and the farmer. The farmer operated plant is a competitor of the central station, as is the gasoline engine working direct to move machinery. It could hardly be a serious competitor, however, in sections where the central station can push its lines, if the department of agriculture figures on average costs of power are correct.

These statistics show that even a small electric power company can furnish electricity cheaper than it can be made on the farm and that a large company, if it gets enough business, can cut this in half or lower. In fact, it is asserted that central station power can be furnished as cheaply under favorable conditions as it can be made by a windmill—and wind is free.

Concentrated Activities.

No serious effort is contemplated that would enable the farmer to use electricity in his field work. That is where the tractor and the horse are still supreme. It is in the barnyard, the dairy, and the house—all the concentrated activities of the farm—that electricity is most economical.

Conditions which favor rural electrification by central stations are comparatively small farms, a high ratio of animal use either in field work, in dairying, or meat production; and a low ratio of tenantry. Tenants, it is held, are less able to pay for the cost of service and less easily persuaded to change to more efficient methods.

The utilities companies are looking on the farms as potential sources of a great deal more business. They are fully as anxious as the farmer to expand into rural sections and have cut the cost of installing transmission lines considerably in recent years. The annual farm electric bill in Illinois averaged less than $5 a month, however, and this would indicate that not a great deal of productive power in this form is being used, even where the lines have reached.

MICKELBERRY'S, MILLER & HART DEAL REPORTED

Negotiations are under way for merger of several of the smaller packing companies, which specialize in meat specialties, according to reports current in financial circles. The firms mentioned in connection with the reported negotiations are Miller & Hart, Inc., and Mickelberry's Food Products company.

Arthur C. Allyn of A. C. Allyn & Co. and a director of Miller & Hart said last night that he knew nothing of any merger negotiations being carried on by the company. The company whose preference stock is listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange reported net sales of $10,507,343 in its last fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1929. Earnings on the common stock were equivalent to 61 cents a share, but no dividends were paid on the stock.

Mickelberry's is a closed corporation and its financial position or earnings record have never been made public.

Underwrite $1,500,000 Nat. Family Stores Issue

A banking syndicate headed by A. C. Allyn & Co. and F. A. Brewer & Co. has underwritten an issue of $1,500,000 ten year 6½ per cent sinking fund convertible debentures of National Family Stores, Inc. The issue was authorized at stockholders' meeting held yesterday. Debentures are dated May 1 and mature 1940. The conversion feature entitles holders to convert the debentures into the corporation's common stock at from $20 to $40 a share from Nov. 1, 1930, to maturity, according to date of exercise of conversion privilege.

Stockholders may subscribe at a price to yield about 6.66 per cent. Preferred and common stock holders of National Family Stores will subscribe to the issue on the basis of 175 shares to each $1,000 debenture, 87½ shares to each $500 debenture, and 17½ shares for each $100 debenture.

CORPORATION EARNINGS

Report 1929 net income of $3,013,254 after charges but before depletion, equal to $6.02 a share on 500,000 shares, compared with $1,974,047 in 1928, or $3.95 a share.

TOBACCO PRODUCTS.

Corporation's 1929 net profit was $4,574,635 after interest, federal taxes, and loss on the sale of United Cigar Store common stock, against $8,386,963 in 1928.

RELIANCE MANUFACTURING.

For the quarter ended March 31 reports net profit of $128,819 after charges and taxes, equal after preferred dividends to nearly 38 cents a share on 250,000 shares of common stock, against $263,295, or 91 cents a share, in the first quarter of last year.

RADIO CORP. TO OMIT QUARTERLY INCOME REPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—The Radio Corporation of America requested and obtained permission of the New York stock exchange today to omit its usual quarterly report to stockholders for the first three months of the year.

ADOLPH ZUKOR

Any statement for the period would be misleading, the Radio corporation said in its request, because of the recent readjustment involving issuance of additional shares for manufacturing facilities held by the General Electric company and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Concerns Patents.

This proposed transfer has been under investigation by government agencies, and it was understood the Radio corporation agreed not to make the plan effective without giving due notice to the department of justice.

The Radio corporation, in complying with the usual regulations of the stock exchange when applying for listing of its shares, agreed to make quarterly reports to stockholders. This explains the company's request to omit the usual statement.

The merger agreement concerning a pool of patents of the companies in the radio field, which lies back of the request, involves issuance to General Electric and to Westinghouse of 6,580,375 additional shares of common stock of R. C. A. and an unstated number of additional class B preferred shares in exchange for particular assets and privileges. Radio stockholders ratified the agreement on May 6.

Price cutting in the industry, as a result of unsettled conditions, it was pointed out by some observers, may have caused a slump in earnings for the quarter for Radio corporation.

Discuss Paramount Deal.

Wall street continues to discuss the reported offer of Radio corporation to take over the Paramount-Publix, and the feeling is current that a satisfactory arrangement is quite likely. It is said that Adolf Zukor, president of the big movie corporation, is making a careful study of the offer reported to have been made by David Sarnoff, the radio chieftain.

If Mr. Zukor does accept the offer it is intimated that he will insist that all officers of his company be given the same price for stock that he will receive, if they wish to dispose of their holdings. Further, he wants their jobs protected. Mr. Sarnoff is understood to be agreeable to these wishes, though nothing definite has been worked out. The movie group has assets of $236,000,000, and if an agreement is reached a large sum of cash will be required to complete the purchase.

German Loan Approved by State Dept.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—Without awaiting final adjustment of the task of floating the first Young plan reparation loan of $300,000,000 in nine of the world's financial centers, the state department announced today it had no objection to the issuance in the United States of a part of the loan.

The bankers' committee of the Bank of International Settlements is expected to call a plenary session of directors June 10, which was taken in New York financial circles to mean that all countries concerned with the issue have agreed in principle. The latest guess on the date of issuance now is June 12.

The portion of the loan to be floated in New York by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. has been estimated at $84,500,000 in word from Paris. One-third of the total issue will be used as a loan to Germany and the remainder will be employed in the commercialization of German reparation bonds.

The issue price is expected to be 91 or 92, but Secretary Stimson and Under Secretary Cotton, who jointly announced the department's decision, said they had no definite information on the details of the loan so far as the New York market was concerned.

TWO ISSUES OF LIBERTY BONDS HIT 1930 HIGHS

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Two Liberty bond issues went into new high ground for the year on today's trading in the listed bond market. Their rise was about the only feature of the day, in which the trading was brisk only at the start and close.

Liberty 4¼s, of both the first and fourth issues, erased the former 1930 high mark for the year, and the continuance of the good demand for United States governments enhanced the price of nearly all of them.

The domestic section maintained the firm trend, but suffered from dullness most of the day. The activity of the market as a whole was not what might be expected in view of the credit situation. The spread between the current rates of money and the yields of legal issues brought increased trading in some railroad bonds, but price enhancement was small. Stock privilege issues were jumpy, with the trend downward.

New reports concerning the long awaited German annuity issue, the first piece of financing under the Young plan, caused no commotion in the foreign bond section. Trading was in a wide list of issues, with most bonds closing higher.

INSULL PRIMED TO BUY INDIANA TRACTION LINES

Anderson, Ind., June 6.—[Special.]—Judge Carl F. Morrow in Madison County Circuit court today entered a decree to sell all property of the Union Traction company at auction here July 2. Receivership action has been pending since Dec. 31, 1924.

Insull controlled Midland Utilities company, through dealing with bondholders, has a contract to buy more than 60 per cent of the outstanding bonds of the system, and with these are in an advantageous position as prospective purchasers. Approximately $2,829,000 had been paid by the Insuls for the $14,201,000 of outstanding first mortgage bonds.

Abandonment of five lines petitioned for by the receiver recently closely resembled a program for elimination of unprofitable short lines laid down by the Insull interests in their agreement with bondholders committees.

Farmers' Nat. Grain Corp. Leases St. Louis Elevator

The Farmers National Grain corporation has leased the Burlington elevator at St. Louis, it was announced yesterday by George S. Milnor, general manager. The elevator has storage capacity of 2,400,000 bu and is equipped with facilities for loading grain barges. It previously has been operated by the Marshall Hall Grain corporation of St. Louis, which will continue business in both domestic and export fields, according to Mr. Milnor.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Oil Outlook.

Although there seems to be a difference of opinion in Wall street regarding the outlook for the oil industry, those closest to the situation believe it to be bright. They cite several reasons for this stand. First, this is seasonably a good time for the oil companies; secondly, California production seems to be financially well in hand, and, thirdly, an advance in gasoline prices is anticipated within the next few weeks.

Lost Popularity.

Sugar stocks have about lost all the popularity they once had. There has been so much disheartening news about conditions in the industry and low prices that even stockholders of many years' standing have been liquidating, and doing so on a declining market. The Punta Allegre news emphasizes the situation.

Mapes Consolidated.

Mapes Consolidated Manufacturing is receiving more attention than it has for some time. The group that has taken this stock in hand is making a nice market, but many long term holders are taking profits in spite of favorable news about expansion and dividends.

Assoc. G. & E. Stability.

Associated Gas and Electric has proven a stable issue in an uncertain market. Business of this company is continuing to show improvement over a year ago, according to latest advices.

MAY OUTPUT IN AUTO TRADE TOTALS 433,328

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Alvan Macauley, head of the Packard Motor Car company, today was reëlected president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce at its annual meeting.

ALVAN MACAULEY.

Presidents of many leading motor companies who attended reported May production in the industry was 433,328 vehicles, a decrease of 7 per cent under April and a decrease of 32 per cent under May for last year. Production for the first five months of 1930 was 1,970,849, or 31 per cent under the same period of last year.

Six new directors of the chamber elected today were Alvan Macauley, A. J. Brosseau, A. R. Erskine, William E. Metzger, E. L. Cord, and L. A. Miller. Other officers include Alfred H. Swayne, A. R. Erskine, and A. J. Brosseau, vice presidents; Charles W. Nash, secretary, and H. H. Rice, treasurer.

Walgreen Sales for May Show 19.9 Pct. Gain

Sales of Walgreen drug stores for May of this year were $4,494,264, as against $3,747,853 for May, 1929, an increase of $746,411, or 19.9 per cent. For the five months of 1930 sales were $21,635,614, as against $17,123,386 for the same period in 1929, an increase of $4,512,228.27, or 26.4 per cent. The total number of stores being operated on May 31 was 422.

RAILROAD EARNINGS

Gross operating revenue for May and for the first five months, compared with the corresponding 1929 periods, of the following roads was:

	1930.	1929.
Five months	9,678,201	10,467,073

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—Stocks continued on the drift today. Selling went on steadily and without any apparent discrimination, carrying the whole list down from 1 to 5 points below yesterday's closing levels. While the bulk of the pressure seemed to have its origin with the bearish professional element, there was evidence at times of some rather heavy liquidation for the account of discouraged longs.

There is no use beating around the bush about it, Wall street is in a rather gloomy mood just now. It is obviously looking for bad news of one sort and another and refuses to give its habitual bullish interpretation to such encouraging developments as do come to hand. For this reason rumors put out or circulated by bear traders find easy acceptance as a rule and usually have at least an iota of their intended effect before they are squelched, if they are.

Incidentally, a report was going the rounds today that the present drive on the market, which got under way around the noon hour Thursday, is being engineered by a group of the bear operators who cleaned up in such handy fashion on the big break of last fall, and who added further to their profits in the sharp reaction a while back.

No Bullish News.

Virtually the only consolation the bulls could find in the situation was in the small turnover. The total was announced at 2,154,860 shares, which compares with yesterday's aggregate of 2,282,580.

There was nothing of an encouraging nature in the day's grist of news. The gain in brokers' loans announced overnight was plainly bearish. Dividend omissions and reductions continued to be announced. Woolworth and Simmons reported smaller May sales.

However, there were a few issues to show strength. Houston Oil, for example, went up to 110⅞ for a gain of more than 3 points before it folded up. It was still a fractional gainer at the finish. Madison Square Garden and United Stores A went to new highs for the year. Coca Cola—thanks to the hot spell—skipped forward about 3 points before hitting the trail for lower levels.

Leaders Slide Off.

FOREIGN TANK CAR SYSTEM IS PLAN OF MAYER

Elias Mayer, president of the General American Tank Car corporation, announced in New York yesterday that his concern contemplates extensive European expansion through building a system to provide tank and refrigerator car service to the petroleum, wine, olive oil, fruit, and vegetable industries of the continent. The company last year formed German and Swiss companies, which it is proposed will form the nucleus of a large European system to operate in France, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, Russia, and Rumania, besides Germany and Switzerland.

Goodrich Joins in Cut of Tire, Inner Tube Prices

New York, June 6.—(AP)—The B. F. Goodrich company of Akron has joined the Goodyear and General Rubber companies in reducing the price of tires and inner tubes about 5 per cent. The Goodrich company is adjusting its dealer discount to maintain profitable operations for dealers, it announced.

SHEEP—Fed western lambs yesterday	$11.00@13.00
One month ago	9.50@10.75
One year ago	16.00@16.50
Top yesterday, $12.75; average, $12.00.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 1,000 cattle, 6,000 hogs, and 3,000 sheep.

Although hogs weakened slightly after stronger opening yesterday and some sales were off 5@10c in midsession and later, the extreme top and general average held steady at $10.50 @10.20, respectively.

There was a good clearance when larger houses came on the market in midsession, and only 3,000 pen holders and poorer grades remained at the close. The market during the first five days of this week has held unusually steady, daily averages figuring $10.20 four times and $10.15 once during this period.

September Contracts, $10.40.

Lightweights weakened 10c on the hog futures market yesterday, while mediums held firm and bids on heavy grades were almost in line with the recent high spot.

Contracts for both forward and medium weights for September delivery were sold at $10.40. July lightweights were bid $10.50 and August light $10.35. Bids on July heavy ranged to $10.20. On the "to arrive" market lightweights for next Monday's delivery were bid $10.50 and mediums $10.30.

The small supply of cattle on the market yesterday was not to be blamed for all of the week's decline of 50@75c. Quality was lacking, as usual on Friday, the best available selling at $12 in load lots. Five yearlings averaging 920 lbs reached $13. Cows and heifers shared in the weakness. Calves were scarce and steady. Stockers and feeders were scarce but hard to sell.

Idaho Lambs $13.

Yesterday's supply of lambs cleared quickly at the week's 75c to $1.50 decline. The first Idaho rangers of the season brought $13, the lowest since 1922 for the initial shipment from that state.

The first from Idaho this year are the latest since 1923, when they arrived on June 12. In 1922 the first were here June 19. Yearling wethers were in demand at steady prices, choice 92 lb averages selling at $10.50. Aged sheep, however, continued to break, closing $1.25@1.50 lower than a week ago.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE

Money in Chicago from 4½ to 5 per cent, on collateral, 4¾@5¾ per cent over the counter; commercial paper, 3¾@4¼ per cent; bankers' acceptances, 2¼@2⅜ per cent. Chicago clearings yesterday were $95,300,000, and $104,500,000 a year ago. New York clearings were $1,261,000,000.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP)—Call money, steady; 3 per cent all day. Time loans, steady; 30-60 days, 3; 60-90 days, 3@3¼; 4 months, 3¼@3⅜; 5-6 months, 3½@3⅝ per cent. Prime commercial paper, 3½ per cent. Bankers' acceptances, unchanged. Bar silver, 38¾c.

Amerada Corporation.

I would like a little information regarding Amerada corporation. When are the dividends payable? Who are the officers and where is the home office located?—J. A. A.

Amerada corporation holds all or a substantial interest in 1,340,438 acres in southwestern states, much of it being located in a number of important pools. Of this property 28,633 acres represent productive leaseholds and 43,903 acres are under development. A subsidiary owns 700,000 acres in Venezuela.

Success of the corporation depends to a great extent on general conditions in the oil industry, which is still suffering from overproduction. This company is coöperating with others in the industry in an effort to keep production in line with demand.

Net profit in 1929 was $2,758,900, equal to $2.99 per share on 922,075 no par shares of capital stock. Earnings in 1928 were $2.40 per share, against $4.02 per share in 1927, and $6.05 in 1926.

In the first quarter of the current year the company reported net loss of $76,585, compared with a profit of $50,762 in the March, 1929, quarter. These unsatisfactory results were attributed to low crude oil prices and curtailed production as required by the stabilization program adopted by the industry. The company's increased potential production, however, has enabled it to increase its actual allowable output since the end of March.

At the end of 1929 current assets were $9,290,228, and current liabilities were $1,412,663, leaving a net working capital of $7,877,565. Surplus was $8,431,545.

Alfred Jacobsen is president and Everette Lee De Golyer, who is also a director of Louisiana Land and Exploration company, is chairman of the board. Directors include Herbert J. Carr, director of Anglo-Mexican Petroleum company, and John H. Hillman, Jr., director of the First National bank at Pittsburgh, and Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway company.

Postal Telegraph and Cable.

Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation preferred stock deserves a fair rating, but is not recommended as a conservative investment for a widow's savings.
